different strokes

It's because we're so different from each other...

that we have so much to share.

An education should prepare a student to entertain three things: an idea, a friend, and himself.

Each moment of your life is a brushstroke in the painting of your future.

*How a person plays the game shows something of his ability;

We explored our interests...

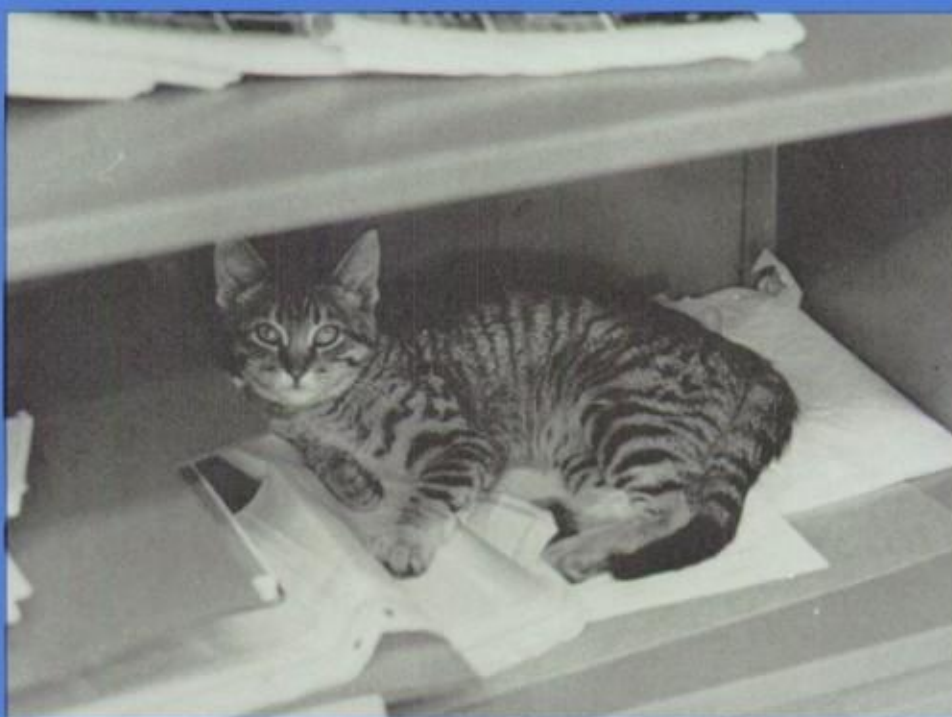

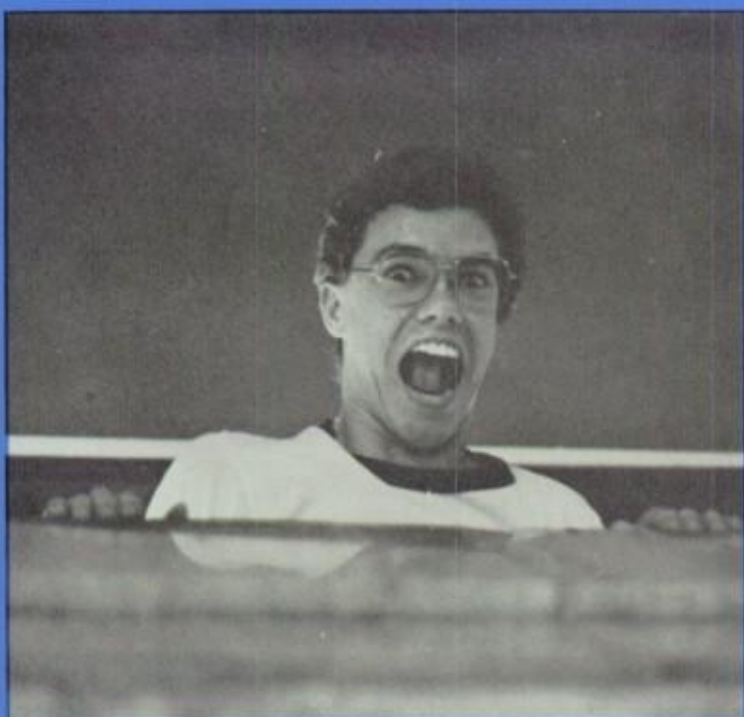

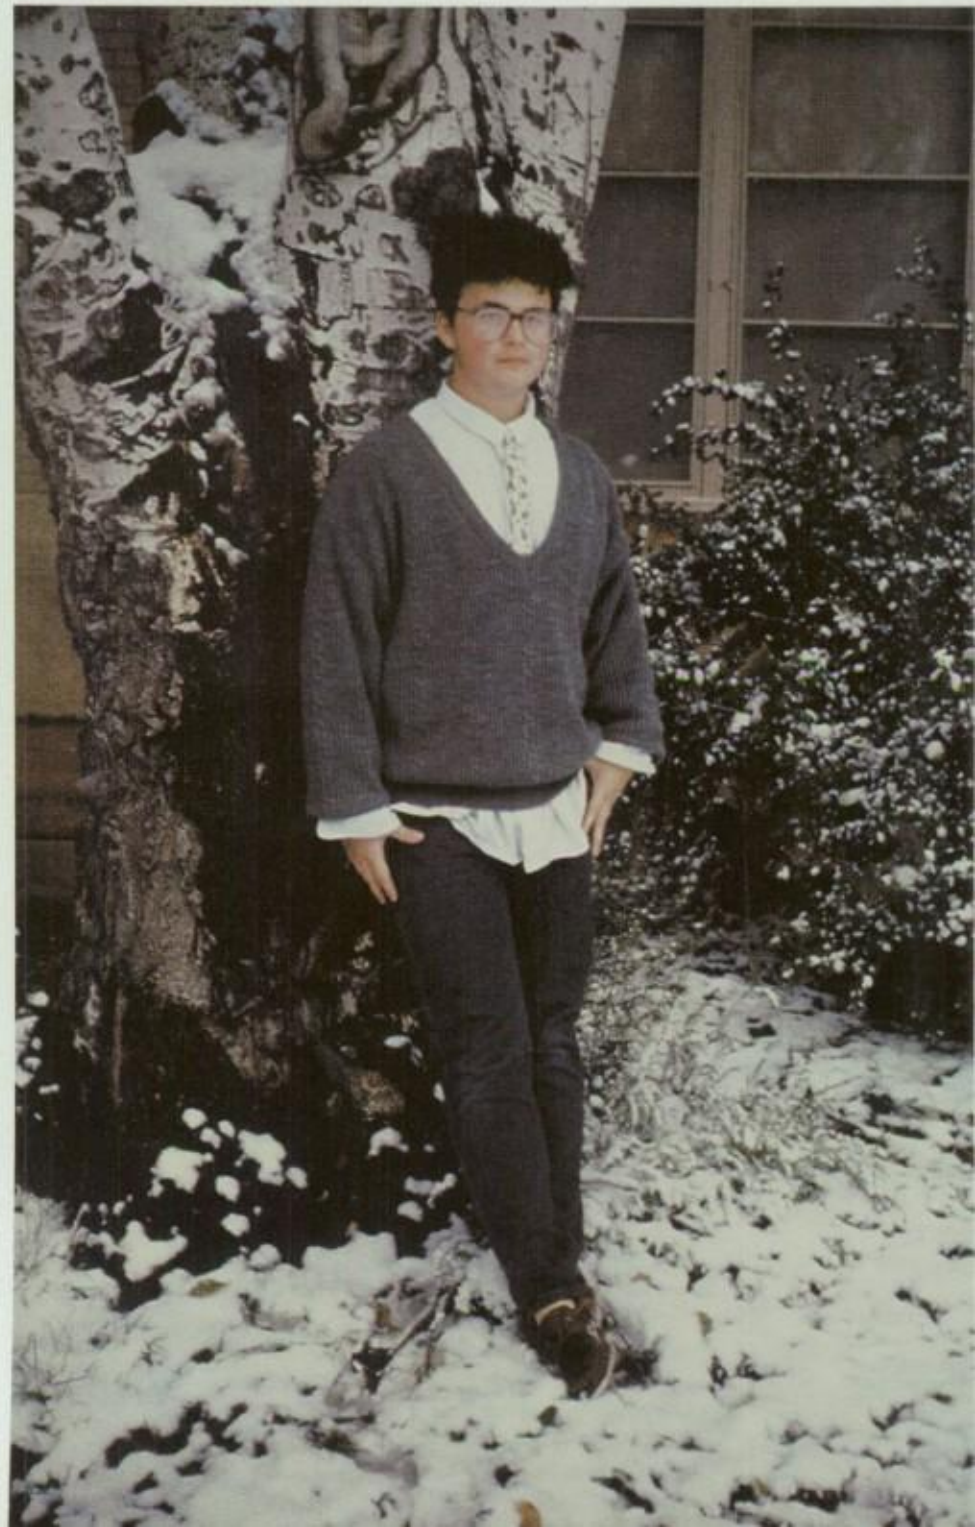

and discovered new talents.

Be yourself; no one else is better qualified

Fashion painted a brilliant stroke of color, allowing each of us to express our individuality.

Despite our differences, we agreed on many things.

These were our favorites...

Administration Maintains Contact

Kari Olsen

Maintaining contact with the students was one of principal Jeffrey Geiger's main objectives. He stood in the halls and talked with students as much as possible.

Geiger felt that educating young people is one of the most important jobs in society. "Our greatest resource is our young people, we must find ways to make each individual successful in his own way and take him as far as he can go," commented Geiger.

Geiger was also concerned about providing more activities in regular classrooms to stimulate creative thinking. His main concern was with the students who "fall between the cracks."

Rick Heidt, assistant principal, was in charge of discipline and attendance for seniors and half of the sophomores. He was also the coordinator of all non-athletic activities. Along with his usual duties, Heidt oversaw the first phase of transition to computerized attendance. The first phase involved teachers using computer scanner sheets, better known to them as "bubble sheets," to keep attendance each day. Plans were to complete phase two the following year.

Heidt also was involved in incorporating a suicide education program into the curriculum. He felt that this was needed to get students to become aware of the growing problem of teenage suicides.

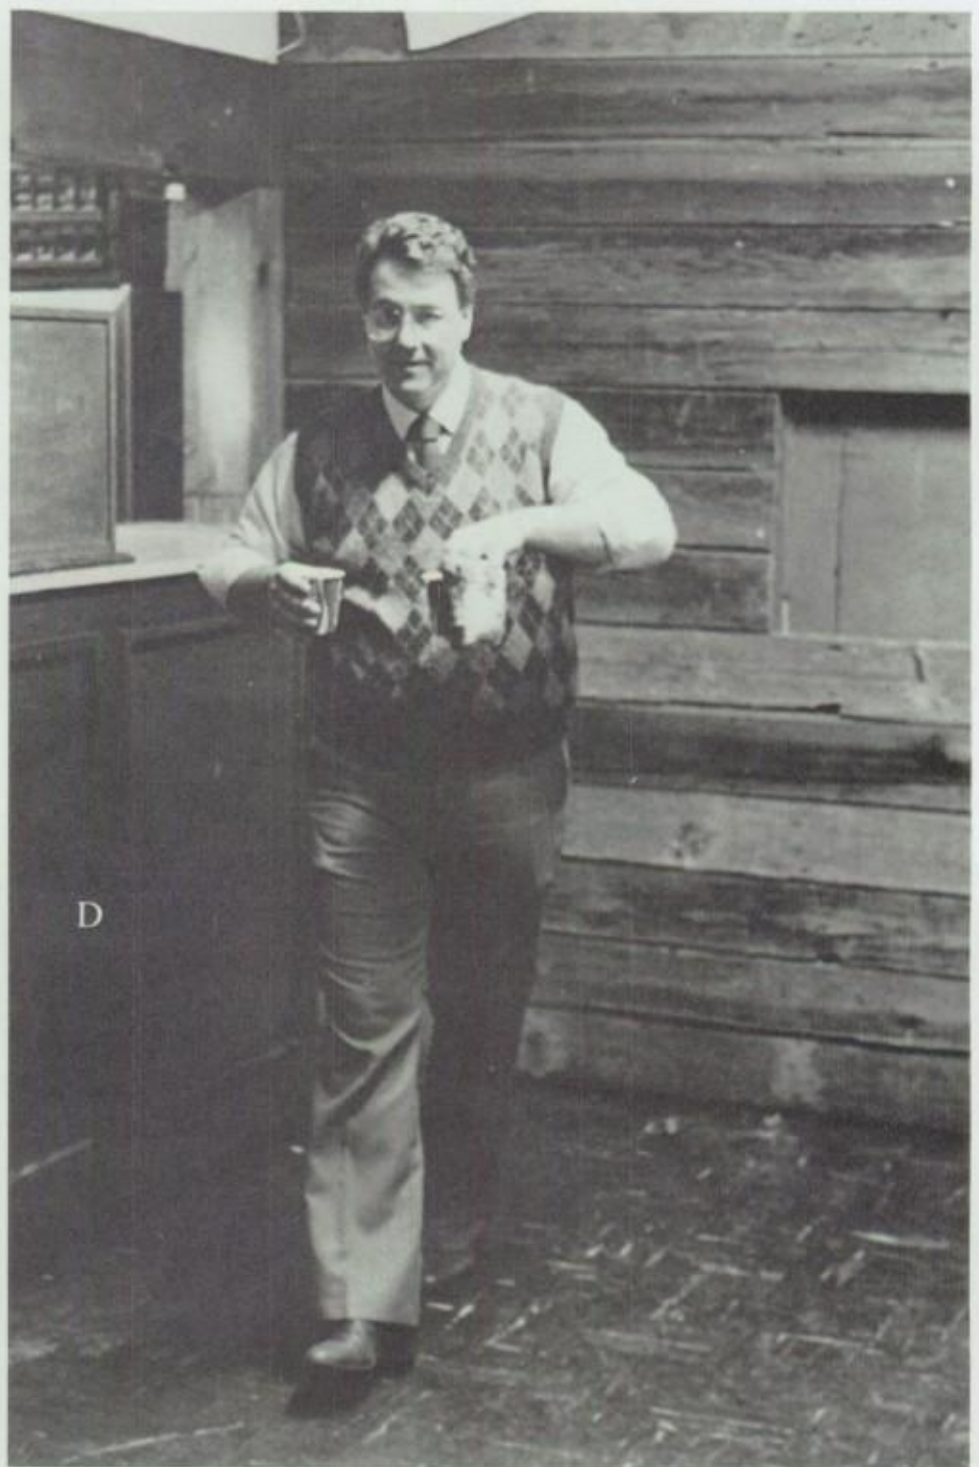

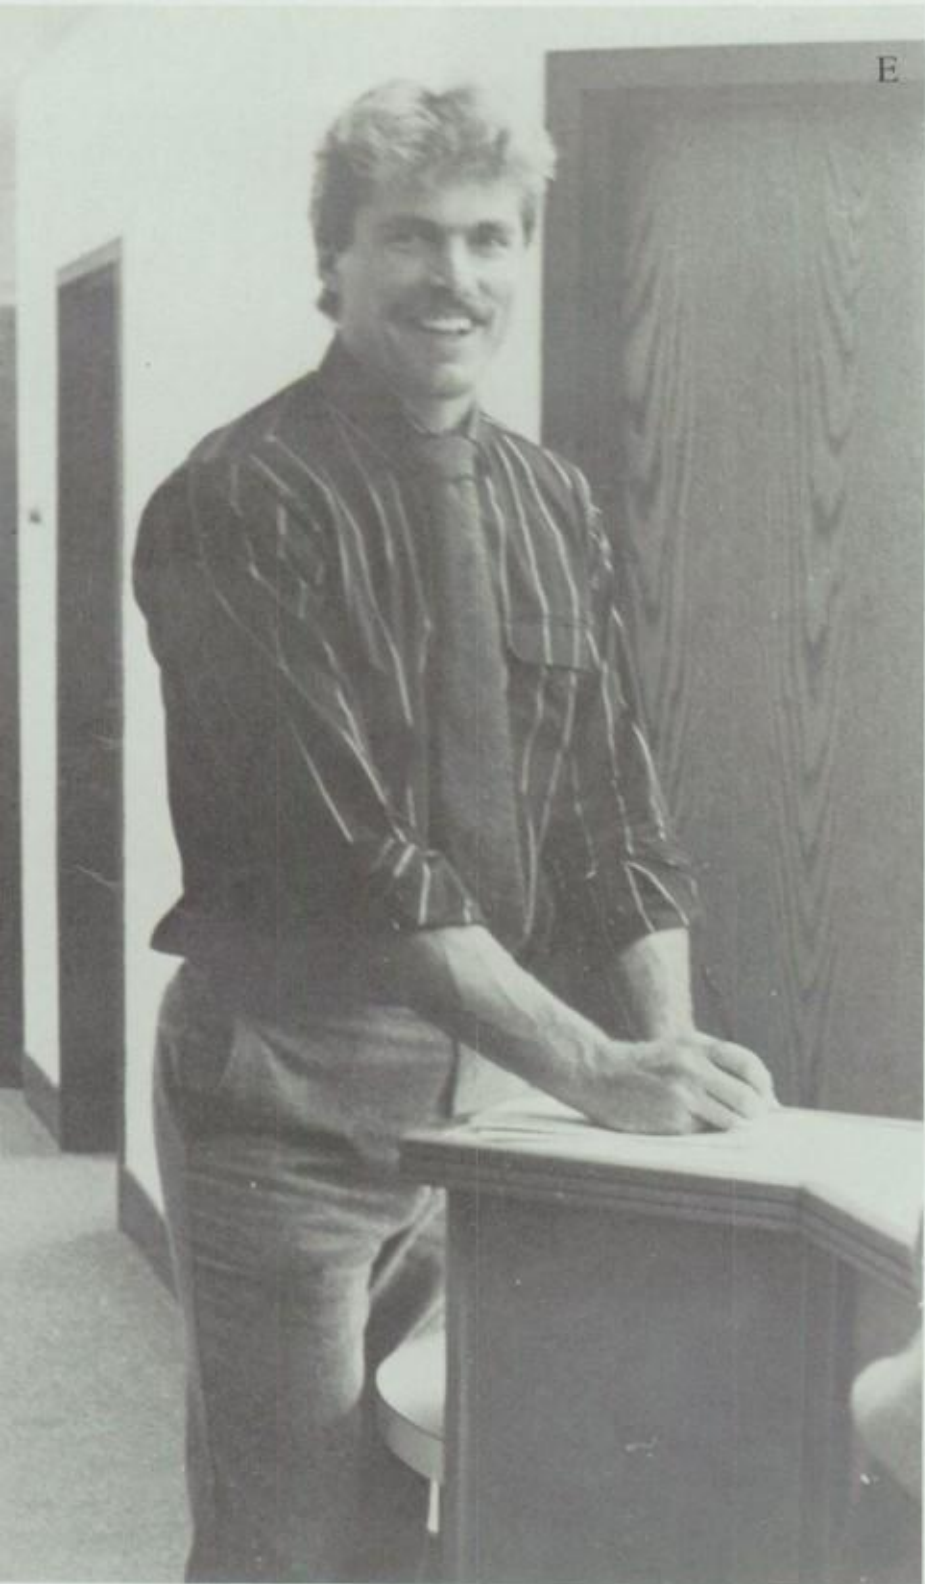

"I still think that BHS is the best school in the state," commented assistant principal James Haussler. This was Haussler's second year as the coordinator of all athletic activities. He was in charge of the discipline of half the sophomores and all of the juniors. A new service, The Students' Assistance Program, was another of Haussler's many jobs. He served as its chairman. The Student Assistance Program was formed to help coordinate and direct students toward the services which would aid the school and ultimately, the student in reaching their maximum potential in education.

Associate principal Ray Jesser's many jobs included making a master schedule, regulating the number of classes so that everyone could have the class he wanted, and maintaining the student schedules. He was also responsible for the upkeep of the building and grounds. Along with Heidt, Jesser put out a student handbook and curriculum guide.

All four men agreed that Bismarck High School was full of many Different Strokes. "There are forty-nine different activities, different curricula, different offerings for different people. That's certainly 'different strokes for different folks!'" commented Geiger.

Department Undergoes Evaluation

Jay Gorsegner

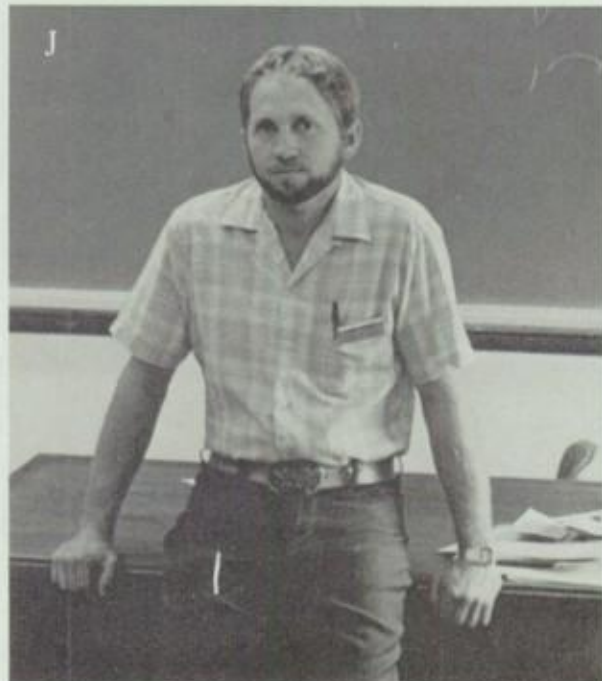

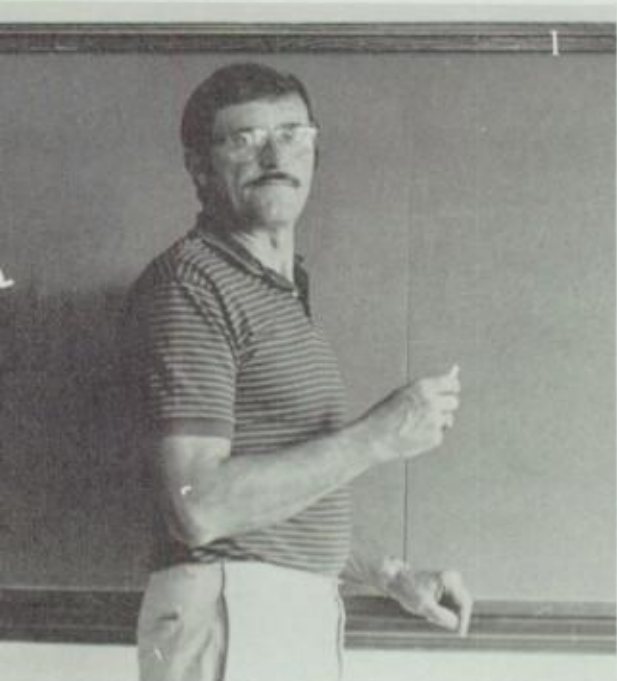

Webster's dictionary defines math as, "The science dealing with quantities, formulas, and the relationships by the use of numbers and symbols."

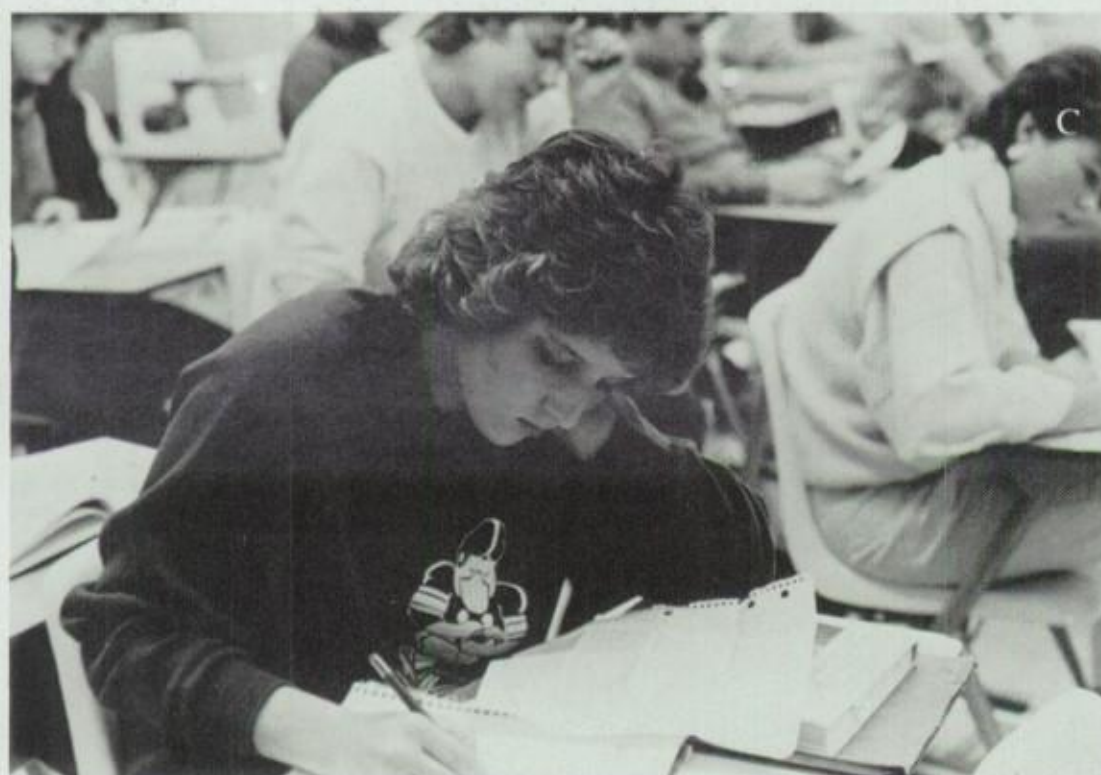

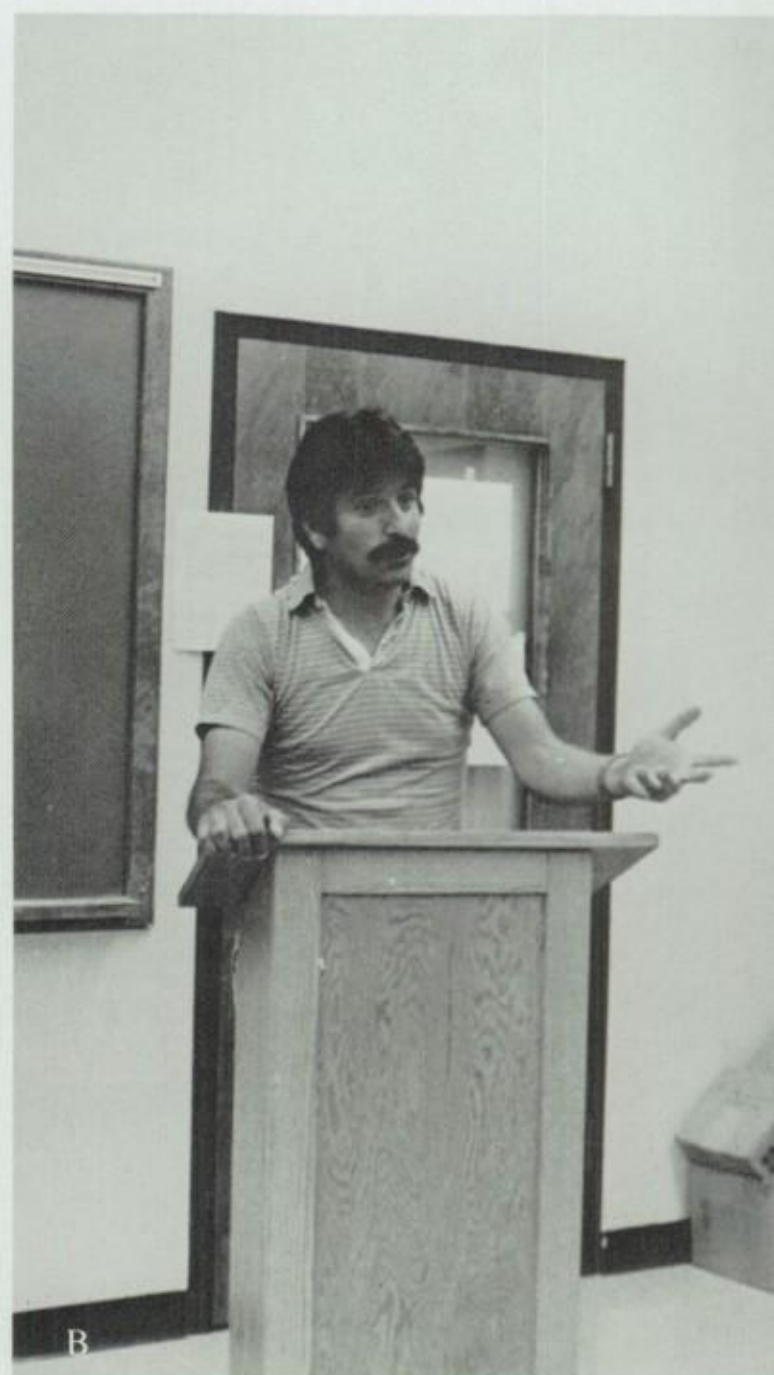

BHS students define math as "fun, boring or a waste of time." Whichever definition is true, over 700 students struggled with various formulas, proofs, factors and theorems.

This year the math department went through a curriculum review by a state board to see what changes were necessary. The department analyzed the suggestions made by the board and decided that there would be no major changes during the school term but many changes would be made in the following year. Classes were offered in geometry, algebra, statistics, pre-calculus and computer science. Slower students were offered courses designed to help them adjust to the complexities of math. Courses such as accelerated advanced algebra, statistics and college math were offered to higher level students. According to math teacher Ulrich Reichenbach, "Few upper level math courses are offered because there isn't enough demand for them."

Enrollment Increases

Lisa Lervik

"Each country has its own unique strokes, one of which is its language," said Brad Ruff, head of the language department. "We are attempting to familiarize the students with these different strokes and allow them the opportunity to understand them a bit more clearly." This was one of the main goals of the language department.

Spanish teacher Mary Kay Keller mentioned that although many kinds of students took foreign language classes, most were highly motivated, enthusiastic and high achievers. Keller added that the students who were active in many activities were the ones who took a foreign language class.

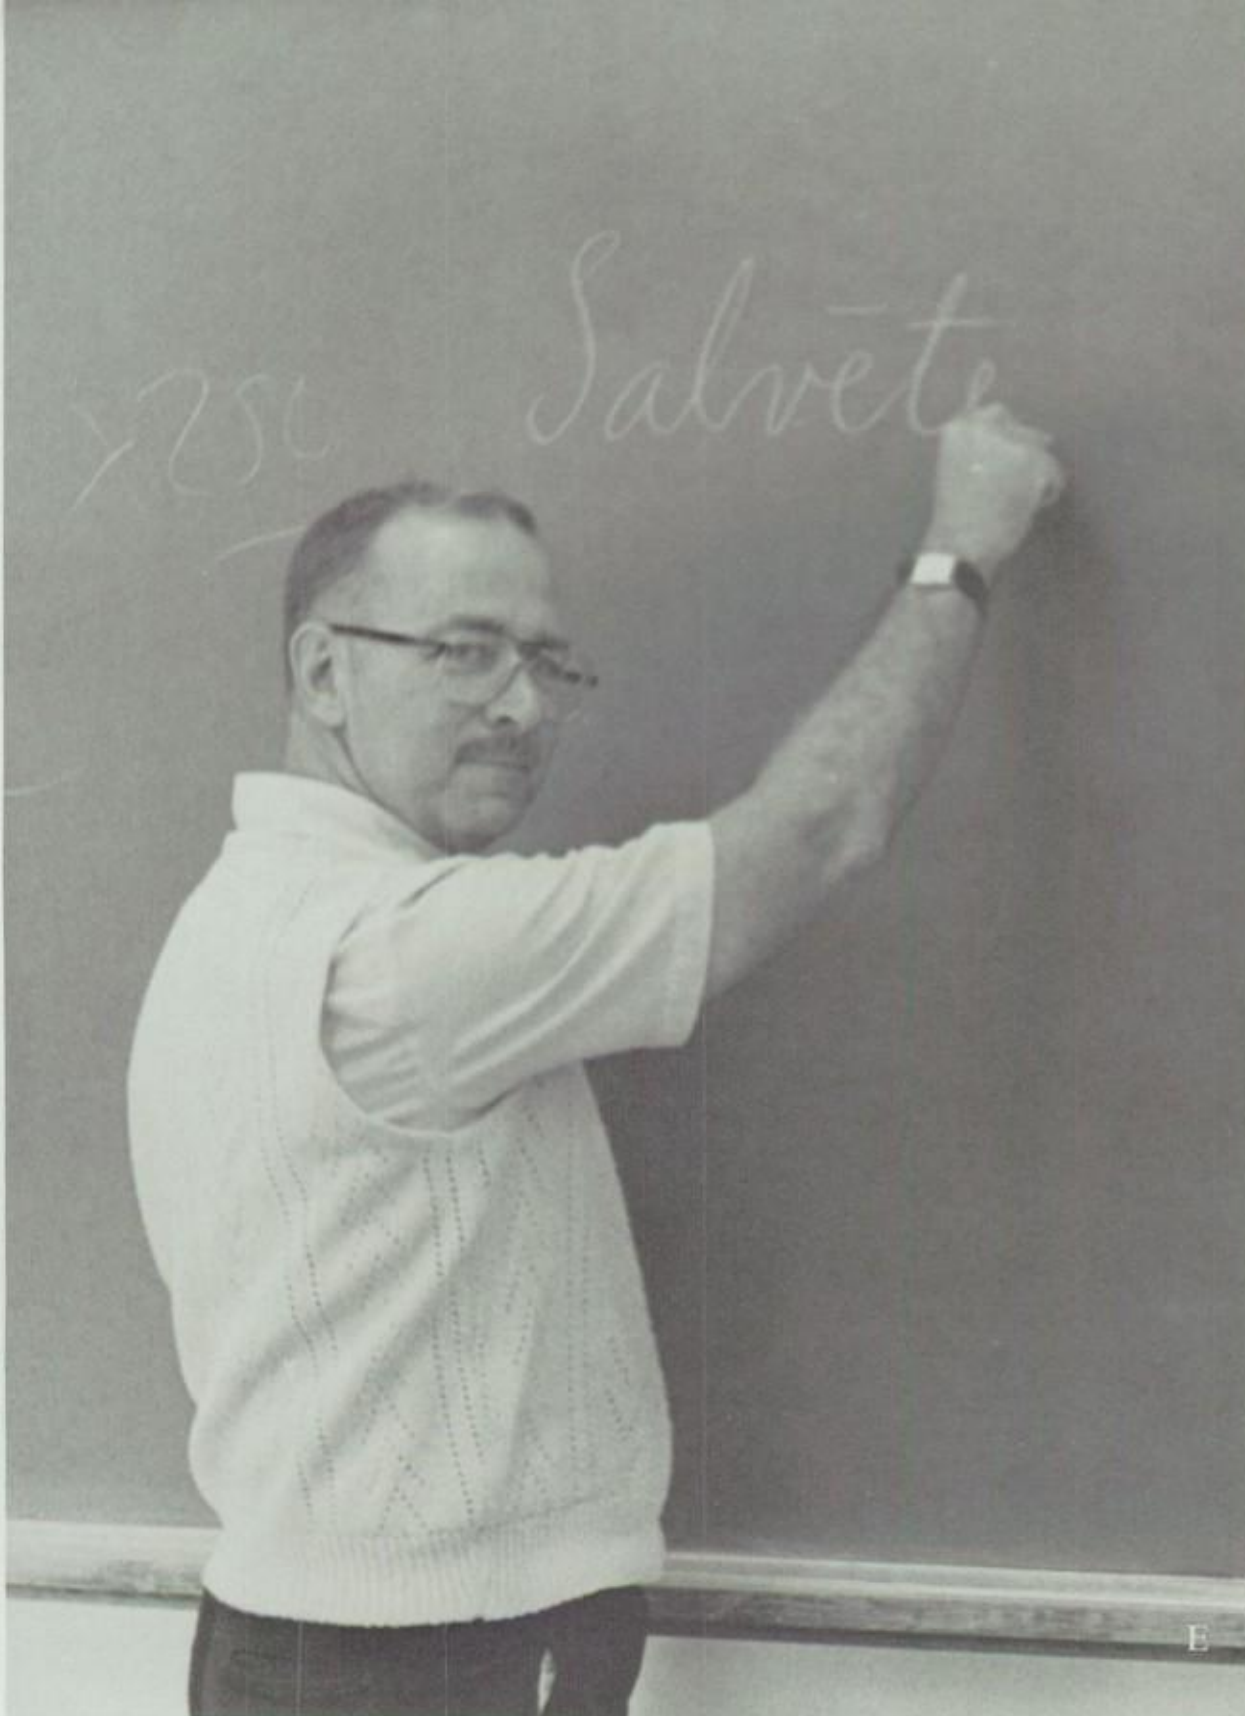

According to Latin teacher Neil Souther, "One advantage of taking a foreign language class in high school is that it helps with future learning by teaching analytical thinking and linguistic skills which will help students later in college. Latin student Shelli Harsche agreed. According to Harsche, "Everyone should take a foreign language because it forms good study habits for college."

Souther felt that foreign language classes were harder than other classes because the school system introduces the languages too late. Because of this, students must be taught analytically in order to save time. Souther went on to say that this is the reason some students do poorly in foreign language classes.

According to Southter, "Knowing a foreign language is essential for many professionals." Those on his list included teachers, journalists, interpreters, translators, international business people and people in the tourist industry.

Enrollment in all of the language classes was up during the 1985-86 school year. Keller and Ruff agreed that the increase was probably due to rising college requirements.

Four years of study were offered in Spanish, Latin and German, and three years were offered in French.

Social Sciences Provide Variety

Nancy Hill

What can a student learn from social sciences? Anything from managing his pocketbook in economics class to studying man as he interacts with others in sociology class.

According to Ken Erickson, a teacher of history and sociology, the social sciences were somewhat neglected since the advent of the computer age. Despite this trend, Erickson felt that history is still important. He continued, "It [history] gives us a sense of who we are."

Sophomores were not required to take any social sciences courses. However, juniors were required to take a full year of U.S. History and seniors were required to take a full year of economics and government. Other elective courses included introduction to sociology, sociology, psychology, World History I and II, and aviation and aerospace education.

"There has been a real positive change in the students' attitudes during the last five years" said Dwite Gorder, an instructor in economics at BHS for 11 years. According to Gorder, who felt that the moral character of the students was better, "students are working harder for grades."

One "forgotten" science was aviation and aerospace education, which was taught by Jerry Halmrast. This was a career preparatory class for students who are interested in a career in aerodynamics. Halmrast commented that students who had taken the course in the past have gone on to make careers in flying. Halmrast added that one goal remains. "Hopefully," he commented, "someone will go on to become an astronaut."

Bill Dubes served as social science department head. Ken Erickson, Virginia George, Dwite Gorder, Jerry Halmrast, Paul Kranz, Bob Otto, and Robert Schlittenhart were instructors in the various classes.

Students Learn Life Skills

Amy Sanborn

The six vocational home economics classes were attended by approximately 600 students this year. The main objectives of these courses were to teach wellness and life skills.

The students in foods and nutrition classes learned to include the four main food groups in meal preparation. Specialty foods classes learned to prepare regional and ethnic foods. Valerie Otto, an instructor in the department, said, "The students like cookies and breads the most and vegetables the least." According to Otto, "Some students have taken the foods classes because of individual freedom." They are allowed to make their own choices from recipes Otto provides. Otto added that she learned much from her students and uses some of this knowledge in developing lesson plans for her classes.

The child development classes learned about children and their development before and after birth. The students conducted a daycare center for one week. During this week they brought in children and kept them entertained with games and toys. An advanced class in occupational child care prepared students for employment in the child care field.

In the family living classes, the students learned about family relationships. Another class, independent living, prepared students to live on their own after graduation.

Traditional homemaking skills were not overlooked in the home economics department. Students in clothing and textiles class learned to sew and distinguish between fabrics and color. Housing and home furnishings classes taught students the basic techniques of decorating a house.

Variety Creates Interest

Lori Tipton

The Bismarck High School science department offered many interesting electives along with the two classes required for graduation. Physical science and biology were required, whereas chemistry, physics, advanced biology and ecology were offered as electives for students.

Physical science students studied the atmosphere, geology and physical properties of the earth along with their effects on mankind. Students in biology classes followed a more general course of study. Specific topics included genetics, anatomy, plantlife, insects and birds.

Elective classes were in demand. One elective, ecology, gave students a better understanding of man's affect on his environment.

Chemical elements, atoms and acids were used in experiments for chemistry. Gravity and electricity were studied in physics. The elective with the highest enrollment was advanced biology. In this class students studied the anatomy of the human body.

Competition in local and regional science fairs provided challenges for advanced students. Other special activities included "farm-outs" in advanced biology. Under this program students were placed under the supervision of various professionals in the medical field.

When asked what kind of goals the teachers had for students, instructor, Wade Forster replied, "To ease the transition from high school studies to the college level."

The teachers of science this year were Dave Angell, biology; Rodger Hilsendager, biology; Dan Klein, chemistry; Harold Hammeren, biology; Ray Frandsen, physics and chemistry; Wade Forster, biology and advanced biology; Dennis Jacobs, physical science.

Goals Necessary

Teresa Kellar

"The special education program is basically teaching students how to function independently with the every day living of society," stated Betty Marquardt head of the special education department.

"We tried to establish a skill for each student and then set short and long term goals," commented Marquardt. These goals were established after students completed the Individual Educational Program which determined each students individual strengths and weaknesses. Vocational areas of study were stressed rather than academic areas.

The special education students presented a wide range of individual needs and abilities. According to Marquardt, "Different plans were made for each student because each had different needs." She added, "Our students are one group with many different individuals."

The special education program had a gardening project which has been an important project for many years in the special educational area. Students took care of the garden and the produce was sold to earn money for special activities planned by the students themselves.

Learning Needs Are Recognized

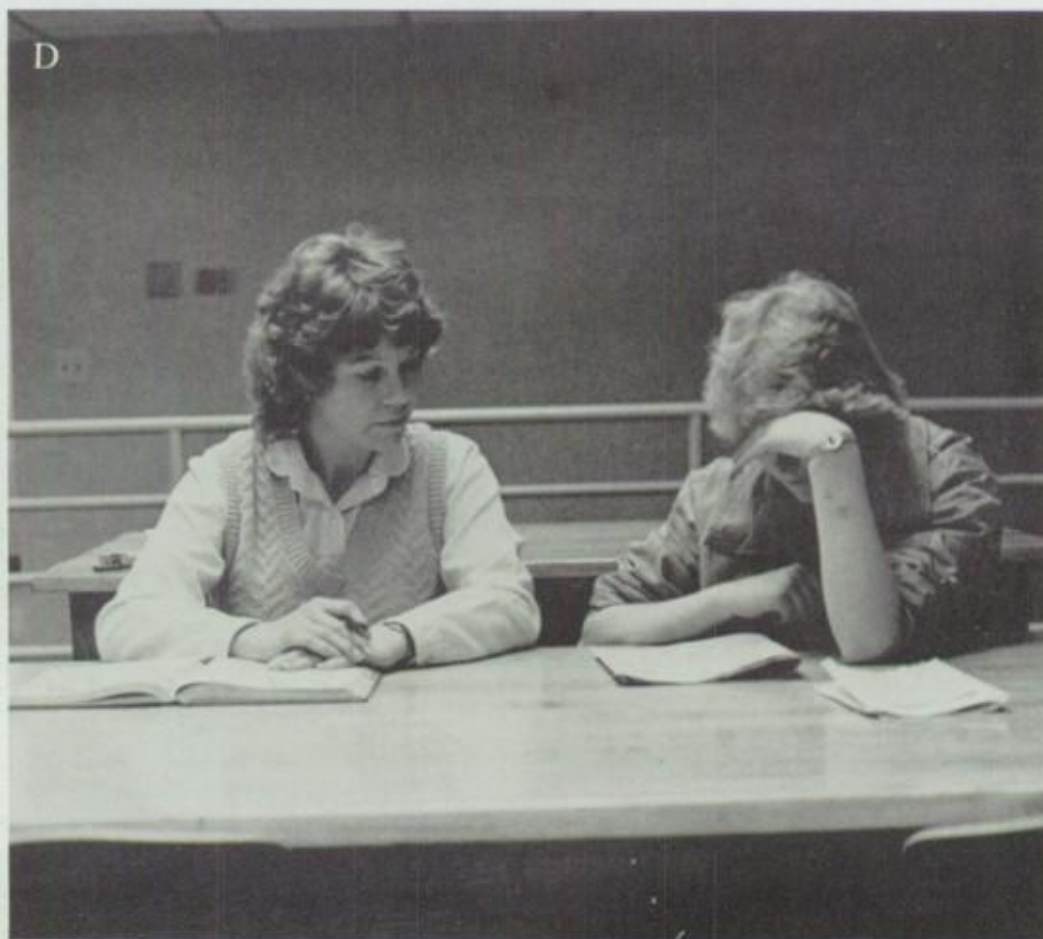

Lisa Lervik

Special needs is a program which was set up about seven years ago by the special services department to assist students having difficulty succeeding in high school for various reasons.

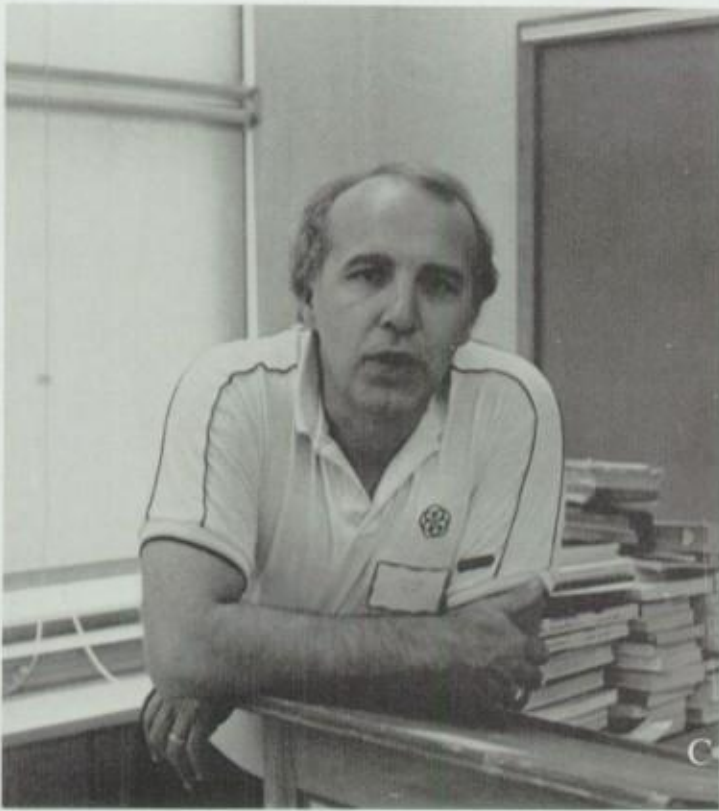

According to Ruth Huovinen, vocational resource educator, special needs was designed to help people with different learning needs. "It doesn't make you less of an individual to admit that you need help," stressed Huovinen.

Approximately 125 students used the special needs facilities. These students were primarily learning disabled or slow learners. Handicapped or injured students who could not use the steps also used the special needs facilities.

Tutors Connie Johansen and Paulette Trego, along with learning disability teacher Pat Eck were present during the day to help any students needing assistance.

A: Ruth Huovinen takes a moment to pose for the camera. B: Connie Johansen checks the dictionary. C: Pat Eck holds a telephone conference. D: Paulette Trego helps a student.

Department Sees Changes

Ann Von Bank

This year the Bismarck High School English Department made some mid-year staff changes. Beth Saiki left BHS to get married. Replacing Saiki was Jane Pole who took over Saiki's sophomore and senior English classes at BHS as well as an additional seventh period class at Century.

The sophomores reviewed the fundamentals of grammar, developed paragraph writing skills, learned how to give various speeches and read various literary works. The junior year of English was spent working on sentence structure, writing essays and studying American literature. Seniors spent their time doing research papers and studying English literature.

Throughout the year many students participated in various language arts oriented activities. Among them were the North Dakota State Fair Writing Contest, the Newspaper in Education Contest, the Optimist International Essay Contest and the regional and state Language Arts Festivals.

Skills Taught Basic Nursing

Nancy Hill

Health Occupations was offered to students interested in a career in the fields of medicine, pediatric care and physical rehabilitation.

Field trips were a big part of the health occupations class. "These trips were to see about health care profession," said Norma Waterland, instructor of the class. "We taught our students not only skills of the jobs but varied health careers."

The class which covered many topics was limited in enrollment of a maximum of 15 students and had a minimum of five. The class couldn't handle more because of the limited supply of equipment.

The students learned many basic nursing skills. According to Waterland, "about 60 nursing skills, which would certify the student to work as a nursing assistant."

The students worked on manikins the majority of the time. They also spent time learning medical terminology and abbreviation as well as identification of equipment.

Students had to do work outside of the classroom as well. They had to have 90 hours of clinical experience. Students followed a professional involved in their career choice. Approximately 70 percent of the students use the skills that they have learned by going into the nursing program. The students also worked at grade schools.

The students conducted a very successful blood drive. Over 50 students donated blood.

Norma Waterland was the only instructor of the class.

A. Norma Waterland demonstrates on a manikin. B. Norma Waterland prepares a lesson.

Art Classes Enjoy New Rooms

Lisa Nagel

The art classes enjoyed new surroundings. During the 1985 - 86 school year they moved from a room on the third floor and one on first to adjoining rooms on the north end of first floor. "The adjoining rooms are a nice improvement. We are now able to share our equipment without running back and forth," stated department head Dale Twingley.

A wide range of classes covering many areas of interest was offered. Areas of study included drawing, printmaking, painting and sculpture. As well as enjoying these projects, students also learned.

To break everyday routine teachers took students on field trips. These trips included art exhibits and art shows at BJC and the Elan Gallery in Bismarck.

The classes also took advantage of nice weather. Many times classes relaxed on the lawn outside of BHS. Here they learned how to draw scenic views and enjoyed a pleasant atmosphere.

Dorothy Jackman returned to the department after spending a year as an exchange teacher in Scotland. Jackman and Twingley supervised five classes each with a total enrollment of 170 students.

A: Dale Twingley helps Kyle Christensen on an art project. B: Dorothy Jackman pauses a moment in reflection. C: Melinda Mjolsness and Jennifer Berogen work with clay.

P.E. Offers New Class

Amy Sanborn

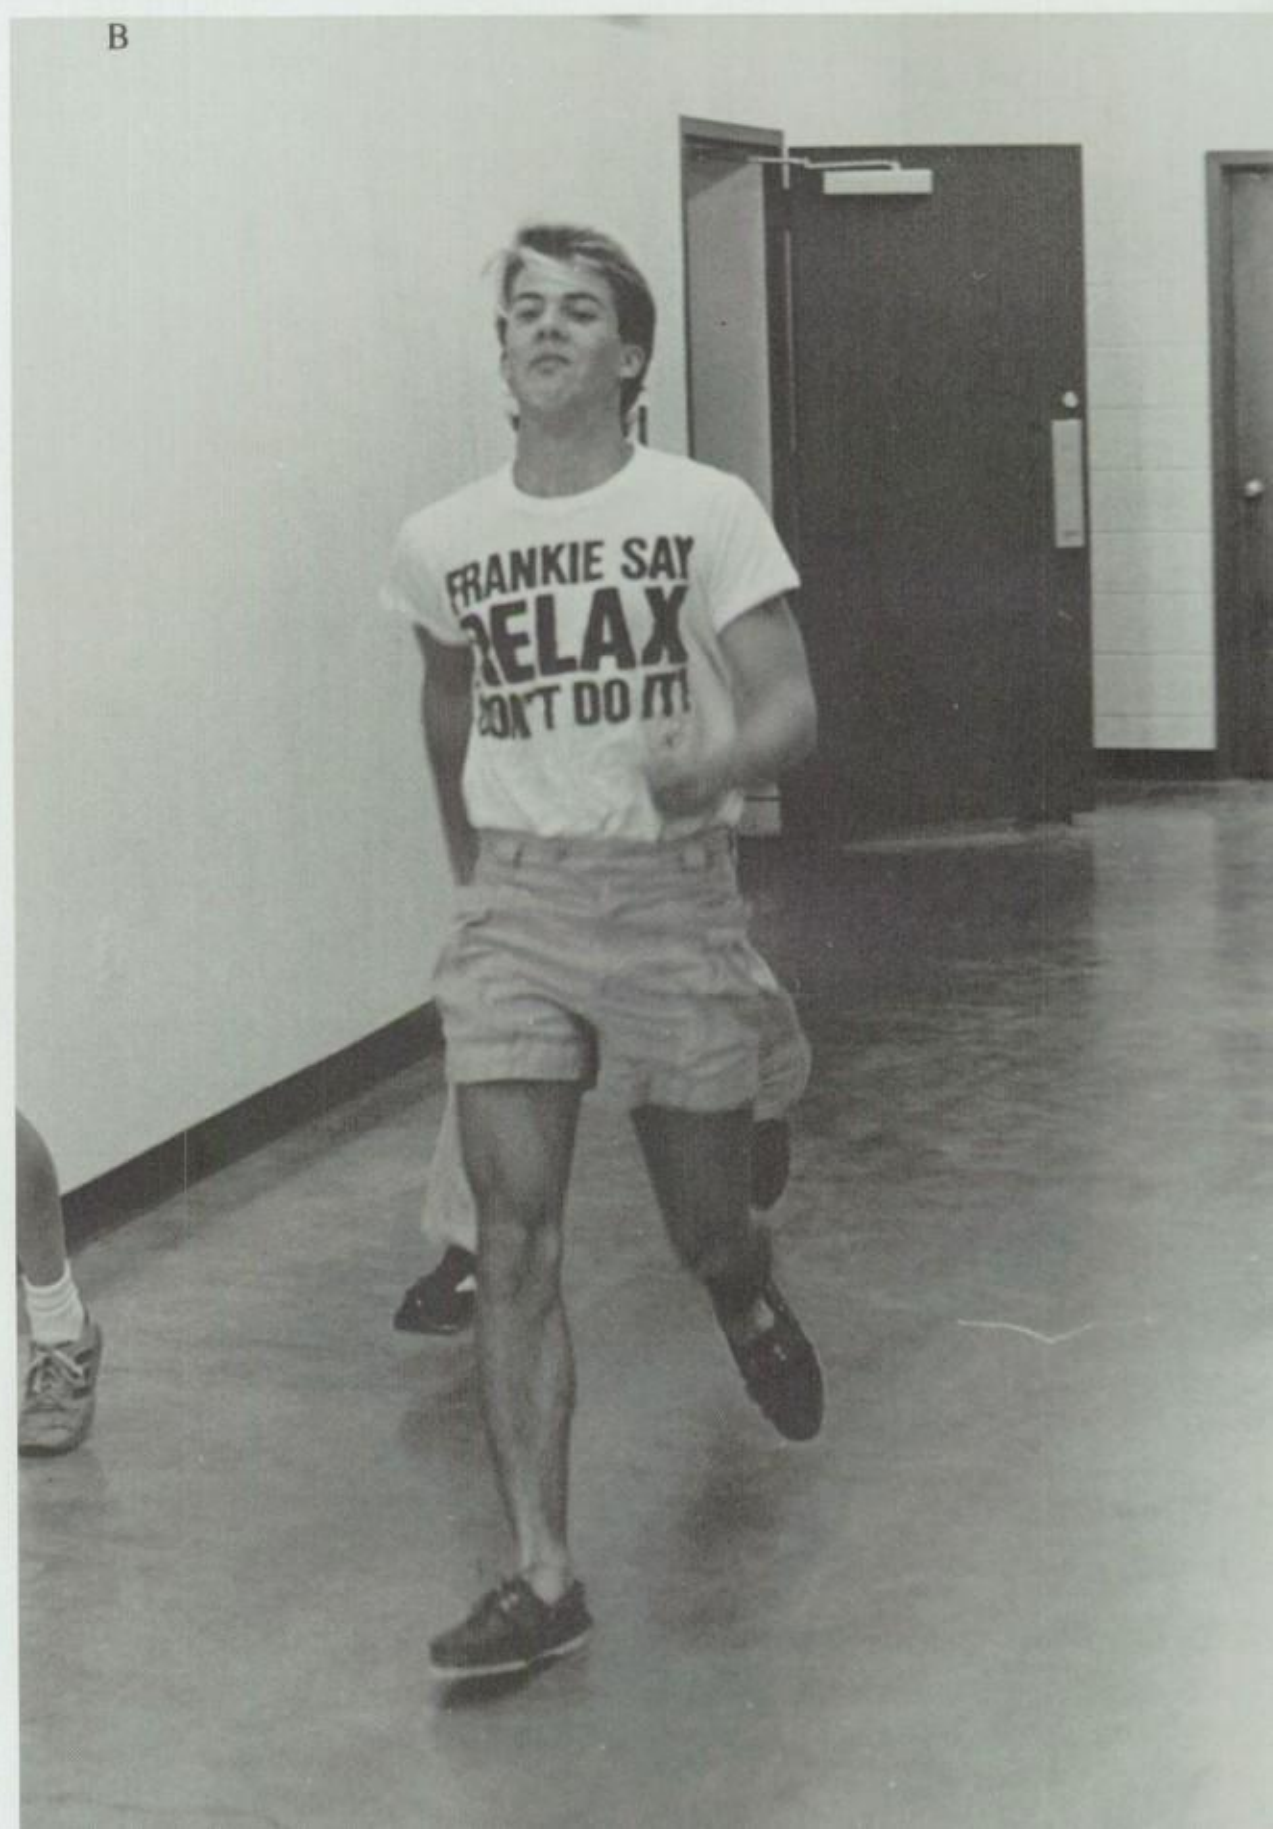

A class in physical management was the newest addition to the physical education department. This class was an alternative physical education class designed to meet the needs of overweight students of both sexes. The class was structured so that the students did not need to compete with or be compared to students of average weight. The course also taught nutrition, physical conditioning, behavior modification and positive image-building. The class proved to be more effective than standard physical education in reducing body fat and improving physical fitness of overweight students.

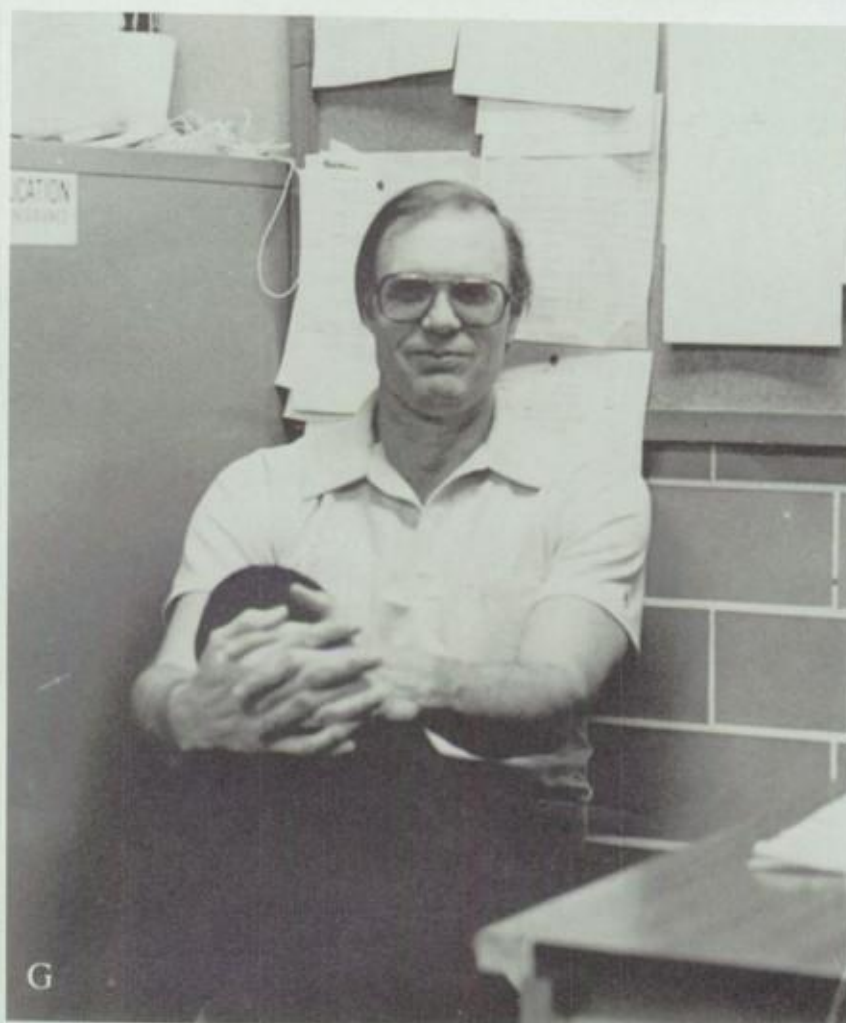

The department also added a biking unit to the senior list of activities. This activity usually took place on Sunday afternoons. The students biked for approximately seven miles on trails and streets within the city of Bismarck.

Some of the students favorite sports were softball, pickle ball, volleyball and all off campus activities such as cross country skiing, roller skating and curling.

Bev Cross, a physical education instructor, stated, "We have a lot of activities and we hope that there is something for everyone."

Music Goals Established

Shelli Harsche

The Bismarck High School music department had many goals for the 1985-86 school year.

The music department consisted of three parts; band, orchestra and choir.

The Concert Band took a tour of Florida in February. Numerous fundraisers such as selling patron tickets and candy bars raised necessary funds for the trip.

The BHS Jazz Band planned for many performances including two at Dayton's, one for the Grain Dealers Association, and one at the Mary College Jazz Festival.

The sophomore prep band had four performances. The prep band's enrollment increased from 60 to 73. Their ultimate goal was that of improvement.

The Bismarck High School Orchestra planned a tour of Disneyland. They also attended an orchestra festival in Grand Forks.

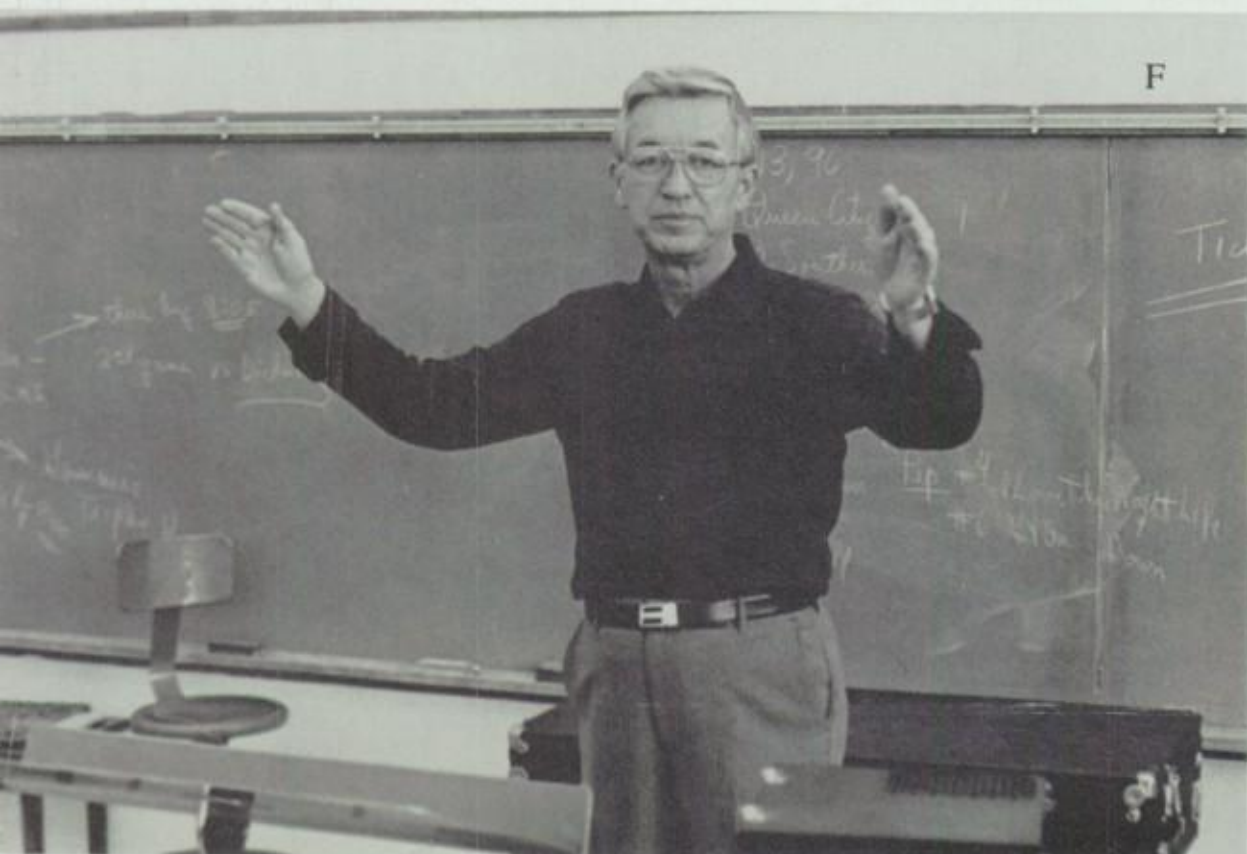

According to Alex Romanov, "The difference between this year's orchestra and previous orchestra's is that the level of talent between the first chair and the last chair instruments is very small, which helps make rehearsals easier."

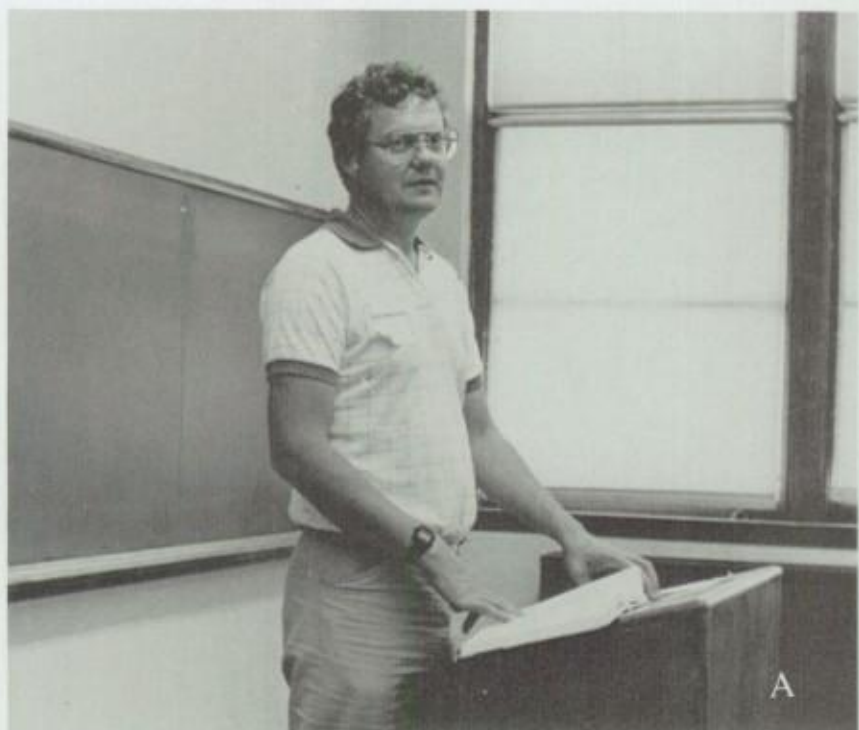

The Stardust Strings, a group composed of a few select orchestra members, contributed their time to many community functions.

The BHS Concert Choir established their goals at the beginning of the year. These goals included going on tour, learning to balance well together and becoming more like a family.

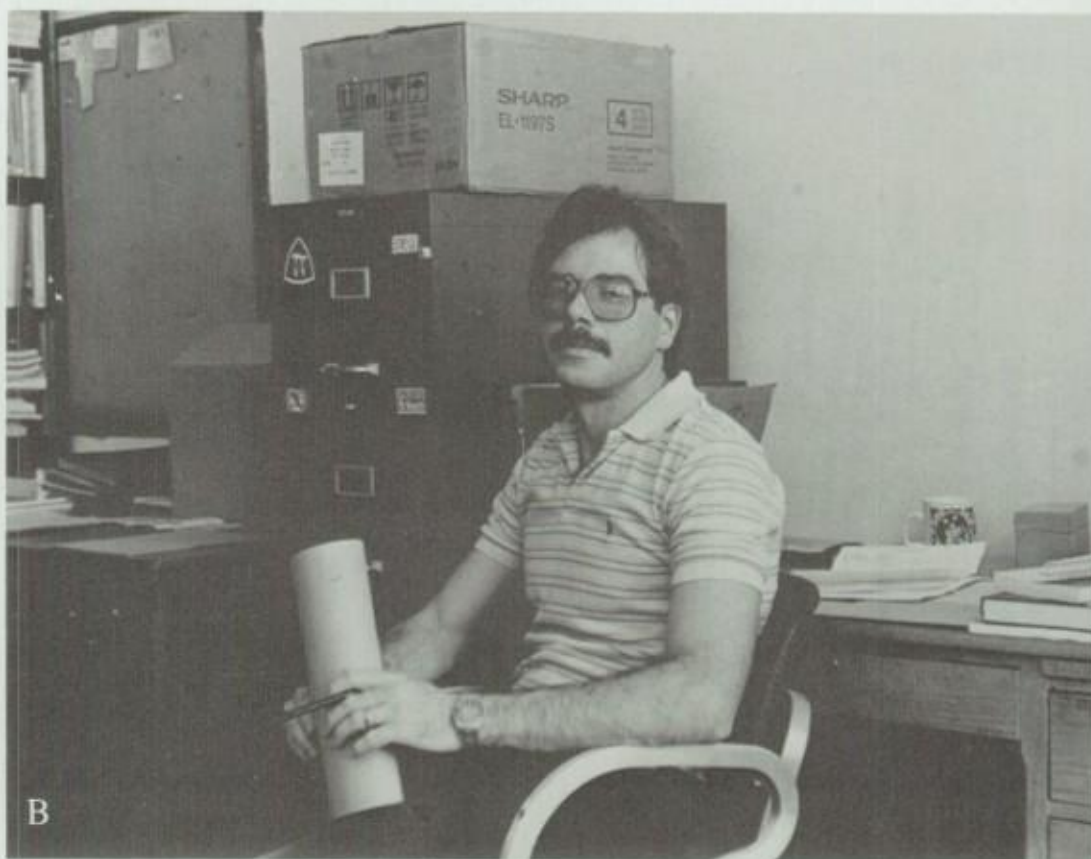

Choir members met many personal goals by performing solos and duets for the rest of the choir. This gave the student an opportunity to improve his or her performing skills.

The New Generation, a jazz choir, performed for Heberger's and the Concert Choir's soup and sandwich dinner. They also attended competitions.

Department Offers Great Variety

Pat Sadler

This year business education and office education departments offered a number of classes. Office education included office procedures, advanced accounting, shorthand, office skills, Word Processing I & II and data processing. The business education section offered business math, introduction to business, typewriting, business law, and accounting. The business classes had an enrollment of 672 students and office classes had an enrollment of 508 students.

In business math students reviewed the four basic math functions, addition, subtraction, multiplication and division, decimals, fractions and percents. Students in introduction to business learned how to deal with the financial aspects they would encounter in their own lives as well as in the business world. Checking, banking, credit, budgeting, insurance and investing were some of the topics covered. The office skills classes introduced basic office skills. The course touched briefly on certain office machines, shorthand and typing. Office procedures helped students polish their business techniques. Students learned communication, filing, letter composition, office organization and telephone etiquette. Greater use was made of the Apple computer in this class.

Some of the business classes took field trips. The students went to Underwood to observe the coal operation and in the spring of the year they went looking at houses with a realtor.

C.O.E. (cooperative office education) was once again offered. C.O.E. is an "earn while you learn" program. The students were assisted in finding jobs in an office environment. Forty-nine BHS students were involved in C.O.E. The students earned graduation credits as well as pay in C.O.E. The students had to work at least 10 hours per week and had to meet a minimum age requirement of 16 years of age in order to participate in C.O.E. The students work was evaluated at the end of each semester.

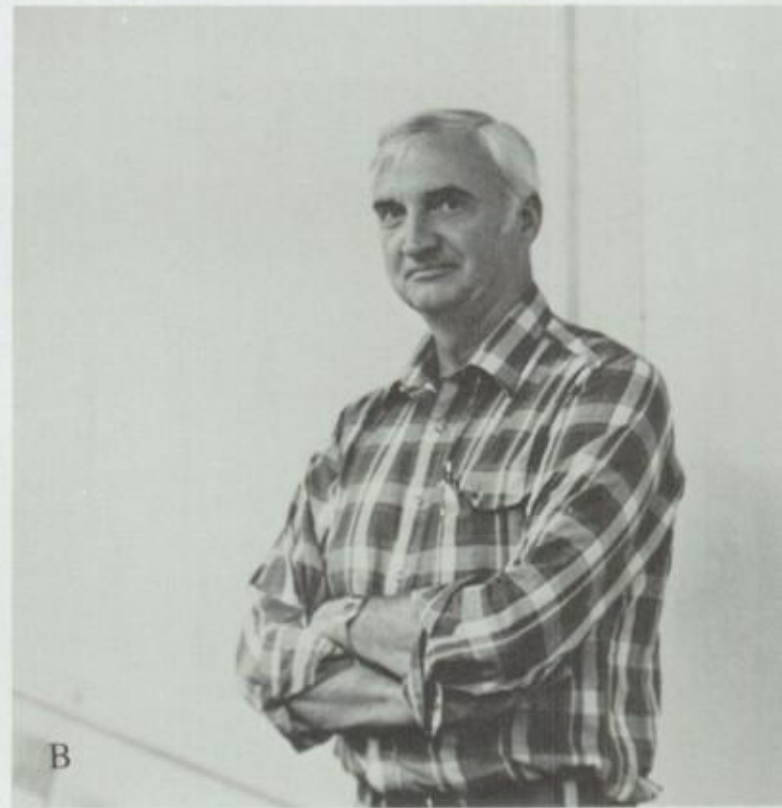

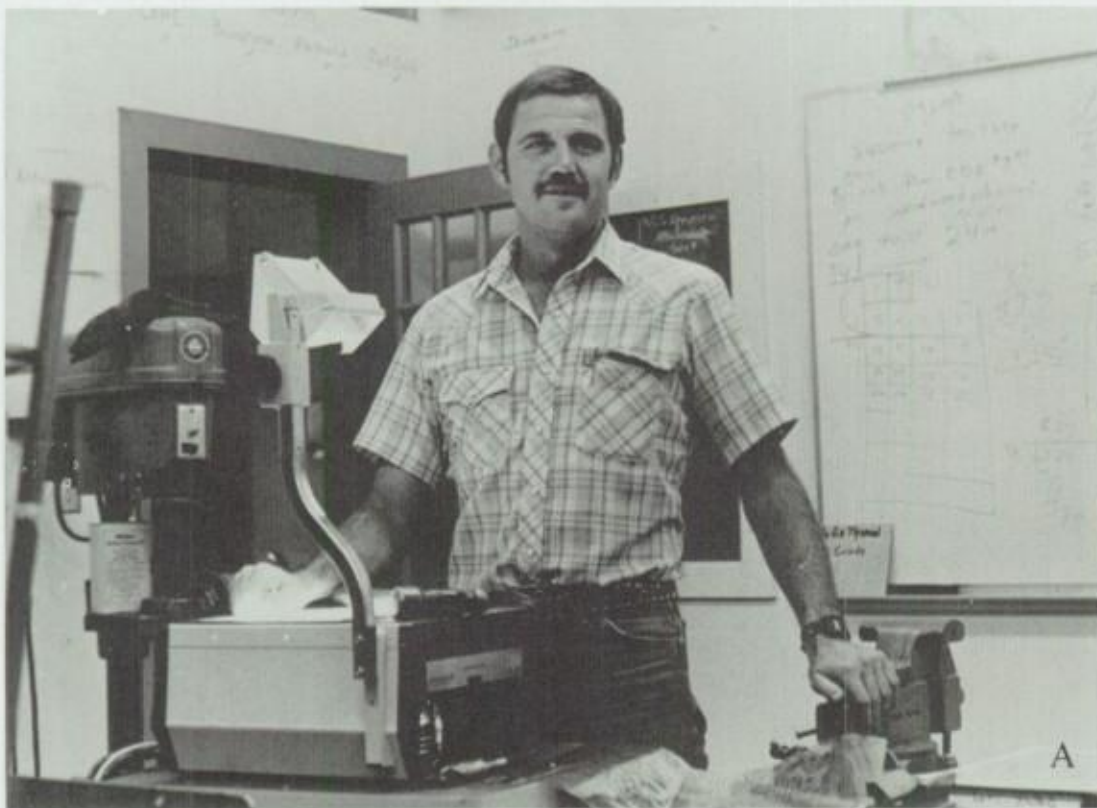

All the teachers in this section agreed that though the classes were smaller, the students seemed more eager to learn. Harold Bohlken, business education advisor, explained, "The classes are not large, thereby allowing instructors to give individual help when, and if, needed." Carl Bye concluded by saying, "The students are more serious than they were five years ago."

Students Build and Design

Lori Tipton

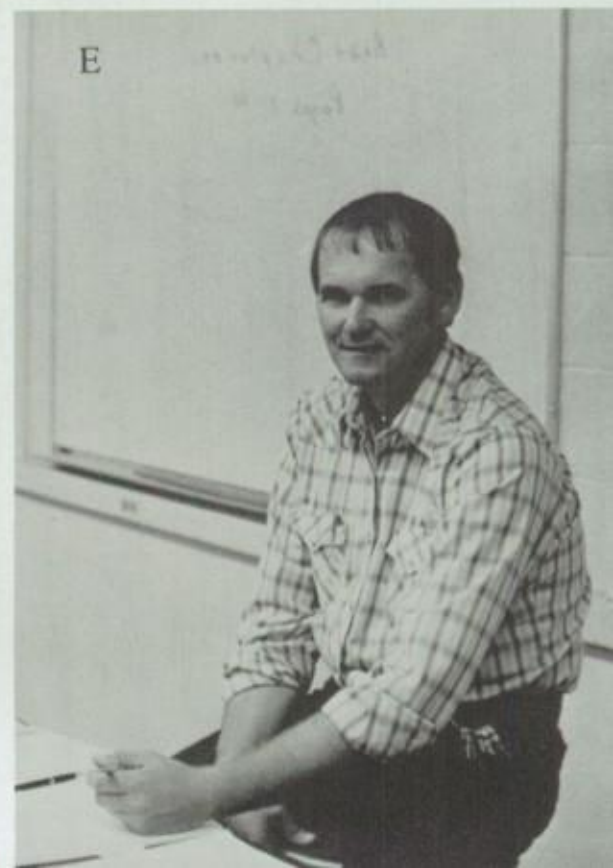

The woodworking classes in the industrial arts department were busy this year building utility sheds. According to instructor Thomas Sweet, "The utility sheds showed students the basic composition of a house."

In another class, graphic communications, scale models of houses were built from blueprints students designed.

Other classes offered by the department were power technology and manufacturing. Students studied electrical fundamentals, gasoline engines and mechanical tools in power technology, while those in manufacturing classes studied the technology in brick laying and cement work.

The instructors were Tony Eckroth, wood technology and industrial skills; Kelly Moldenhauer, wood technology and manufacturing; Kerry Lindbloom, power technology; and Thomas Sweet, graphic communications.

Vo-Tech Builds Careers

Ann Von Bank

Is vocational education necessary? Three hundred and sixty-nine students from area high schools thought it was. According to Gene Miller, head of secondary education at Bismarck Junior College, "Some people feel that vocational training is unnecessary; however, general education is based on the three R's and vocational education requires the utilization and application of these basics and can strengthen the existing knowledge as well as establish a foundation for lifelong learning and earning capability."

The courses of study offered at BJC were structured to provide entry-level training or career training. Auto mechanics, auto body, and agriculture were entry-level courses that a student could use to get a job which could pay his way through college or allow him to continue or to advance in that field. Commercial art and electronics prepared students for college or enabled them to enter a career in commercial art or electronics. Welding and carpentry offered both entry-level and career-level choices.

When asked about any new changes in the next few years, Miller responded, "I would like to see drafting and graphic arts added to the present curriculum, but I don't see these being added as funding is limited."

The courses and their instructors at the vo-tech center were agriculture, Dale Hruby; auto body, Tim Lenertz; auto mechanics, Vern Flagel, Dale Hoerauf, and Phil Nelson; carpentry, Jerry Gusaas; commercial art, Denise Teske; electronics, Robert Laches; special needs, Ron Moll; and welding, Melchoir Volk.

Counselors Offer Expertise

Lori Tipton

The guidance department offered more than just guidance. The counselors at Bismarck High offered their expertise in psychology, planning for the future and student evaluations. The counselors worked with students to sort out family and personal problems and helped many students with future plans such as selecting a college and making career choices. The counselors conducted individual student evaluations to establish credits needed for graduation. Another responsibility was to prepare students for the SAT and ACT tests.

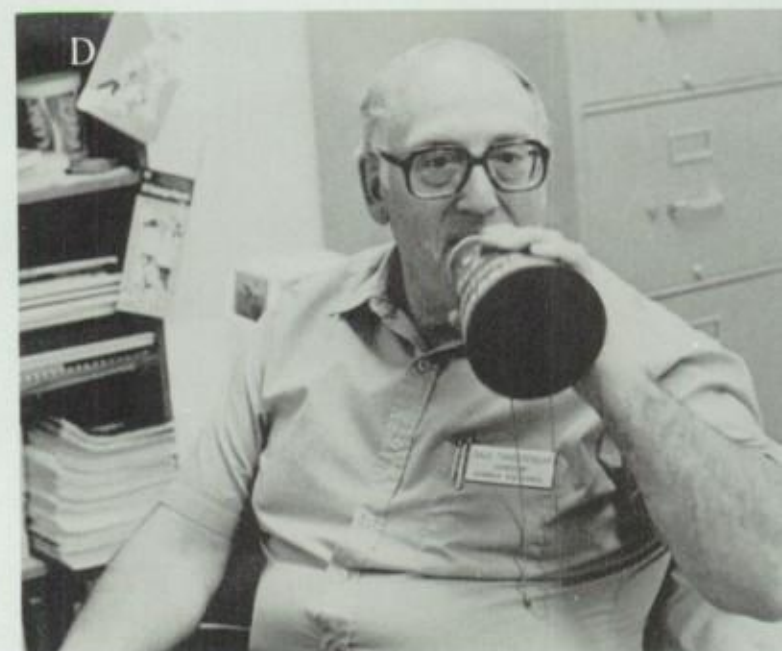

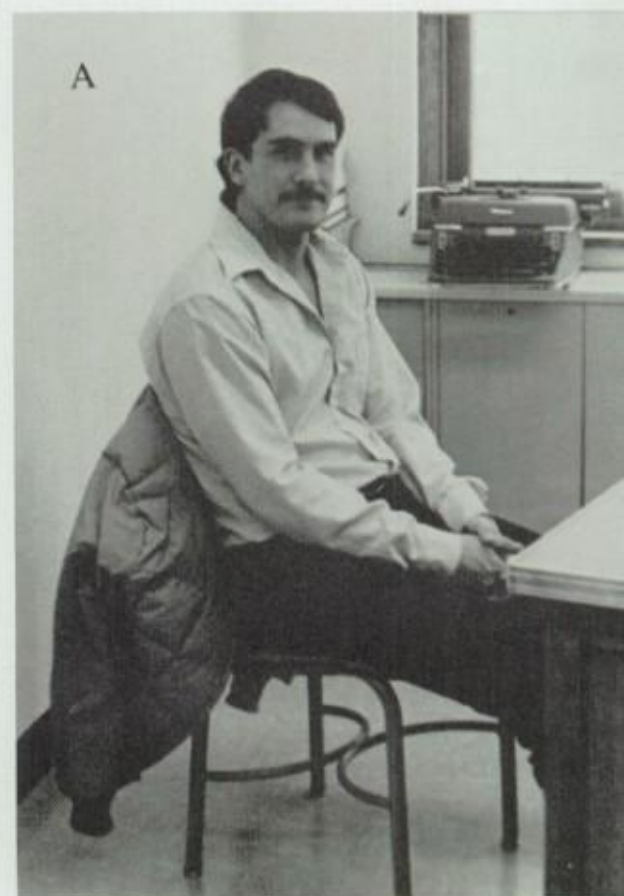

Dale Thorstenson, guidance counselor, stated, "Our basic job is to be available to students for personal problems, future planning for college and counseling about jobs or scholarships.

Counseling went beyond the basic job of being there for students. The counselors spent many hours obtaining money grants and scholarships for college bound students.

BHS's three counselors, Dale Thorstenson, Penny Wilson and Tom Agre accomplished much for students at Bismarck High, including building lasting friendships and promoting guidance.

The in-school-suspension program was maintained by Kent Tardiff. This program gave students credit for classroom work while suspended from classroom attendance. The suspension program also provided students with the guidance to improve their school abilities.

A. Kent Tardiff supervises the detention room. B. Tom Agre pretends to strangle student Jay Marshke. C. Penny Wilson files records. D. Dale Thorstenson shows school spirit.

Library Meets Needs

Lisa Nagel

The library met the needs of the students and staff at Bismarck High School by providing a wide range of printed material for their use. Open from 7:00 to 3:45, the library allowed students plenty of time to peruse its 24,000 books. According to head librarian Lyle Reinke, "Students tend to checkout paperbacks or light reading material more than anything else." The most popular topics were teenage romances and westerns.

Reinke stated that the number of students using the library varied on a daily basis. Since the graduation requirements were increased the number of students in the library decreased. Reinke suggested that students apparently no longer had enough free time to use the library. Entire classes scheduled class periods in the library to work on research assignments or to complete library units.

Services were also provided for the staff. The library maintained audio-visual equipment for classroom use by the staff and provided book lists and printing services for teachers.

Secretaries Complete Many Tasks

Shelli Harsche

The Bismarck High School secretaries carried out various jobs ranging from typing letters to doing payroll. These nine ladies played a major part in keeping our school running smoothly. Some specific responsibilities these women had were filing, typing, writing admit slips, handling the payroll, and answering the telephone.

Sheila Goecke, an employee of Bismarck High School for 13 years, saw many changes in students. When asked how she thought the students had changed through the years Goecke replied, "Their attitude has changed a lot. They are much more concerned with their appearance and not as anti-establishment as in the 60's and early 70's."

One secretary who wasn't seen in the halls of Bismarck High this year was Beth Larson who retired after 28 years. Muriel Heid, bookkeeper, left early in the school year. She was replaced by Kathleen Eide.

Cooks And Janitors Are Essential

Tracey Evanson

The janitors made certain that our school was in proper order. Nine custodians, each having a special job, worked year around. During the summer they scrubbed desks, waxed floors and made general repairs. General maintenance tasks such as sweeping, dusting and washing were added during the school year.

Litter in the hallways presented a problem for the janitors. "Students could make the janitors' jobs easier," suggested head custodian Wally Schacher, "by not leaving pop cans in the halls and keeping the 'chew' off the floors and out of the sinks."

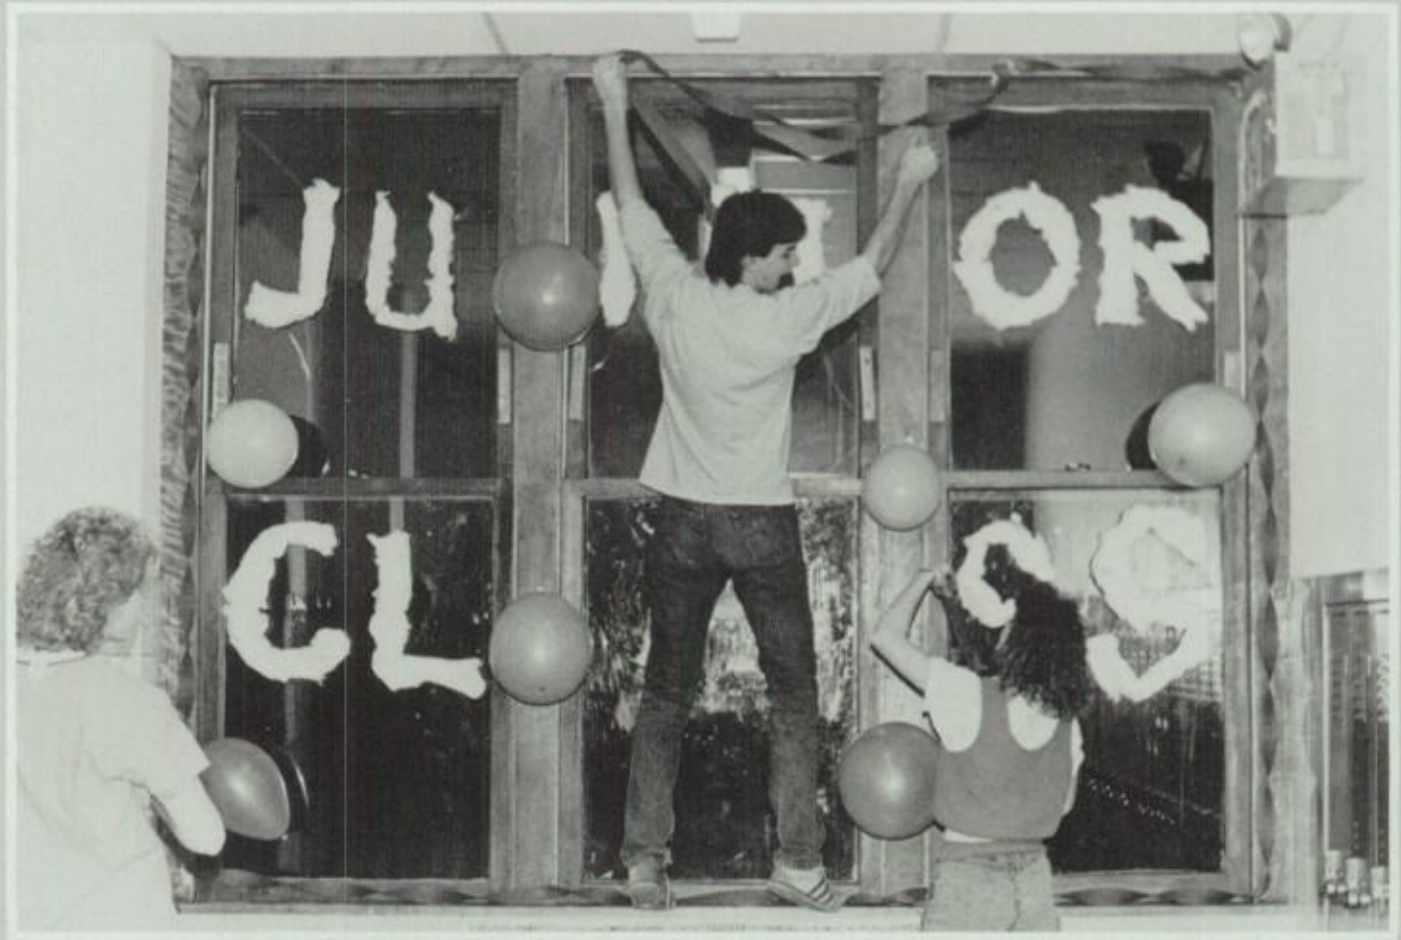

Our cooks made certain the students were well fed. They attended monthly meetings and one seminar during the year to learn government guides for meals and to get fresh ideas for planning menus.

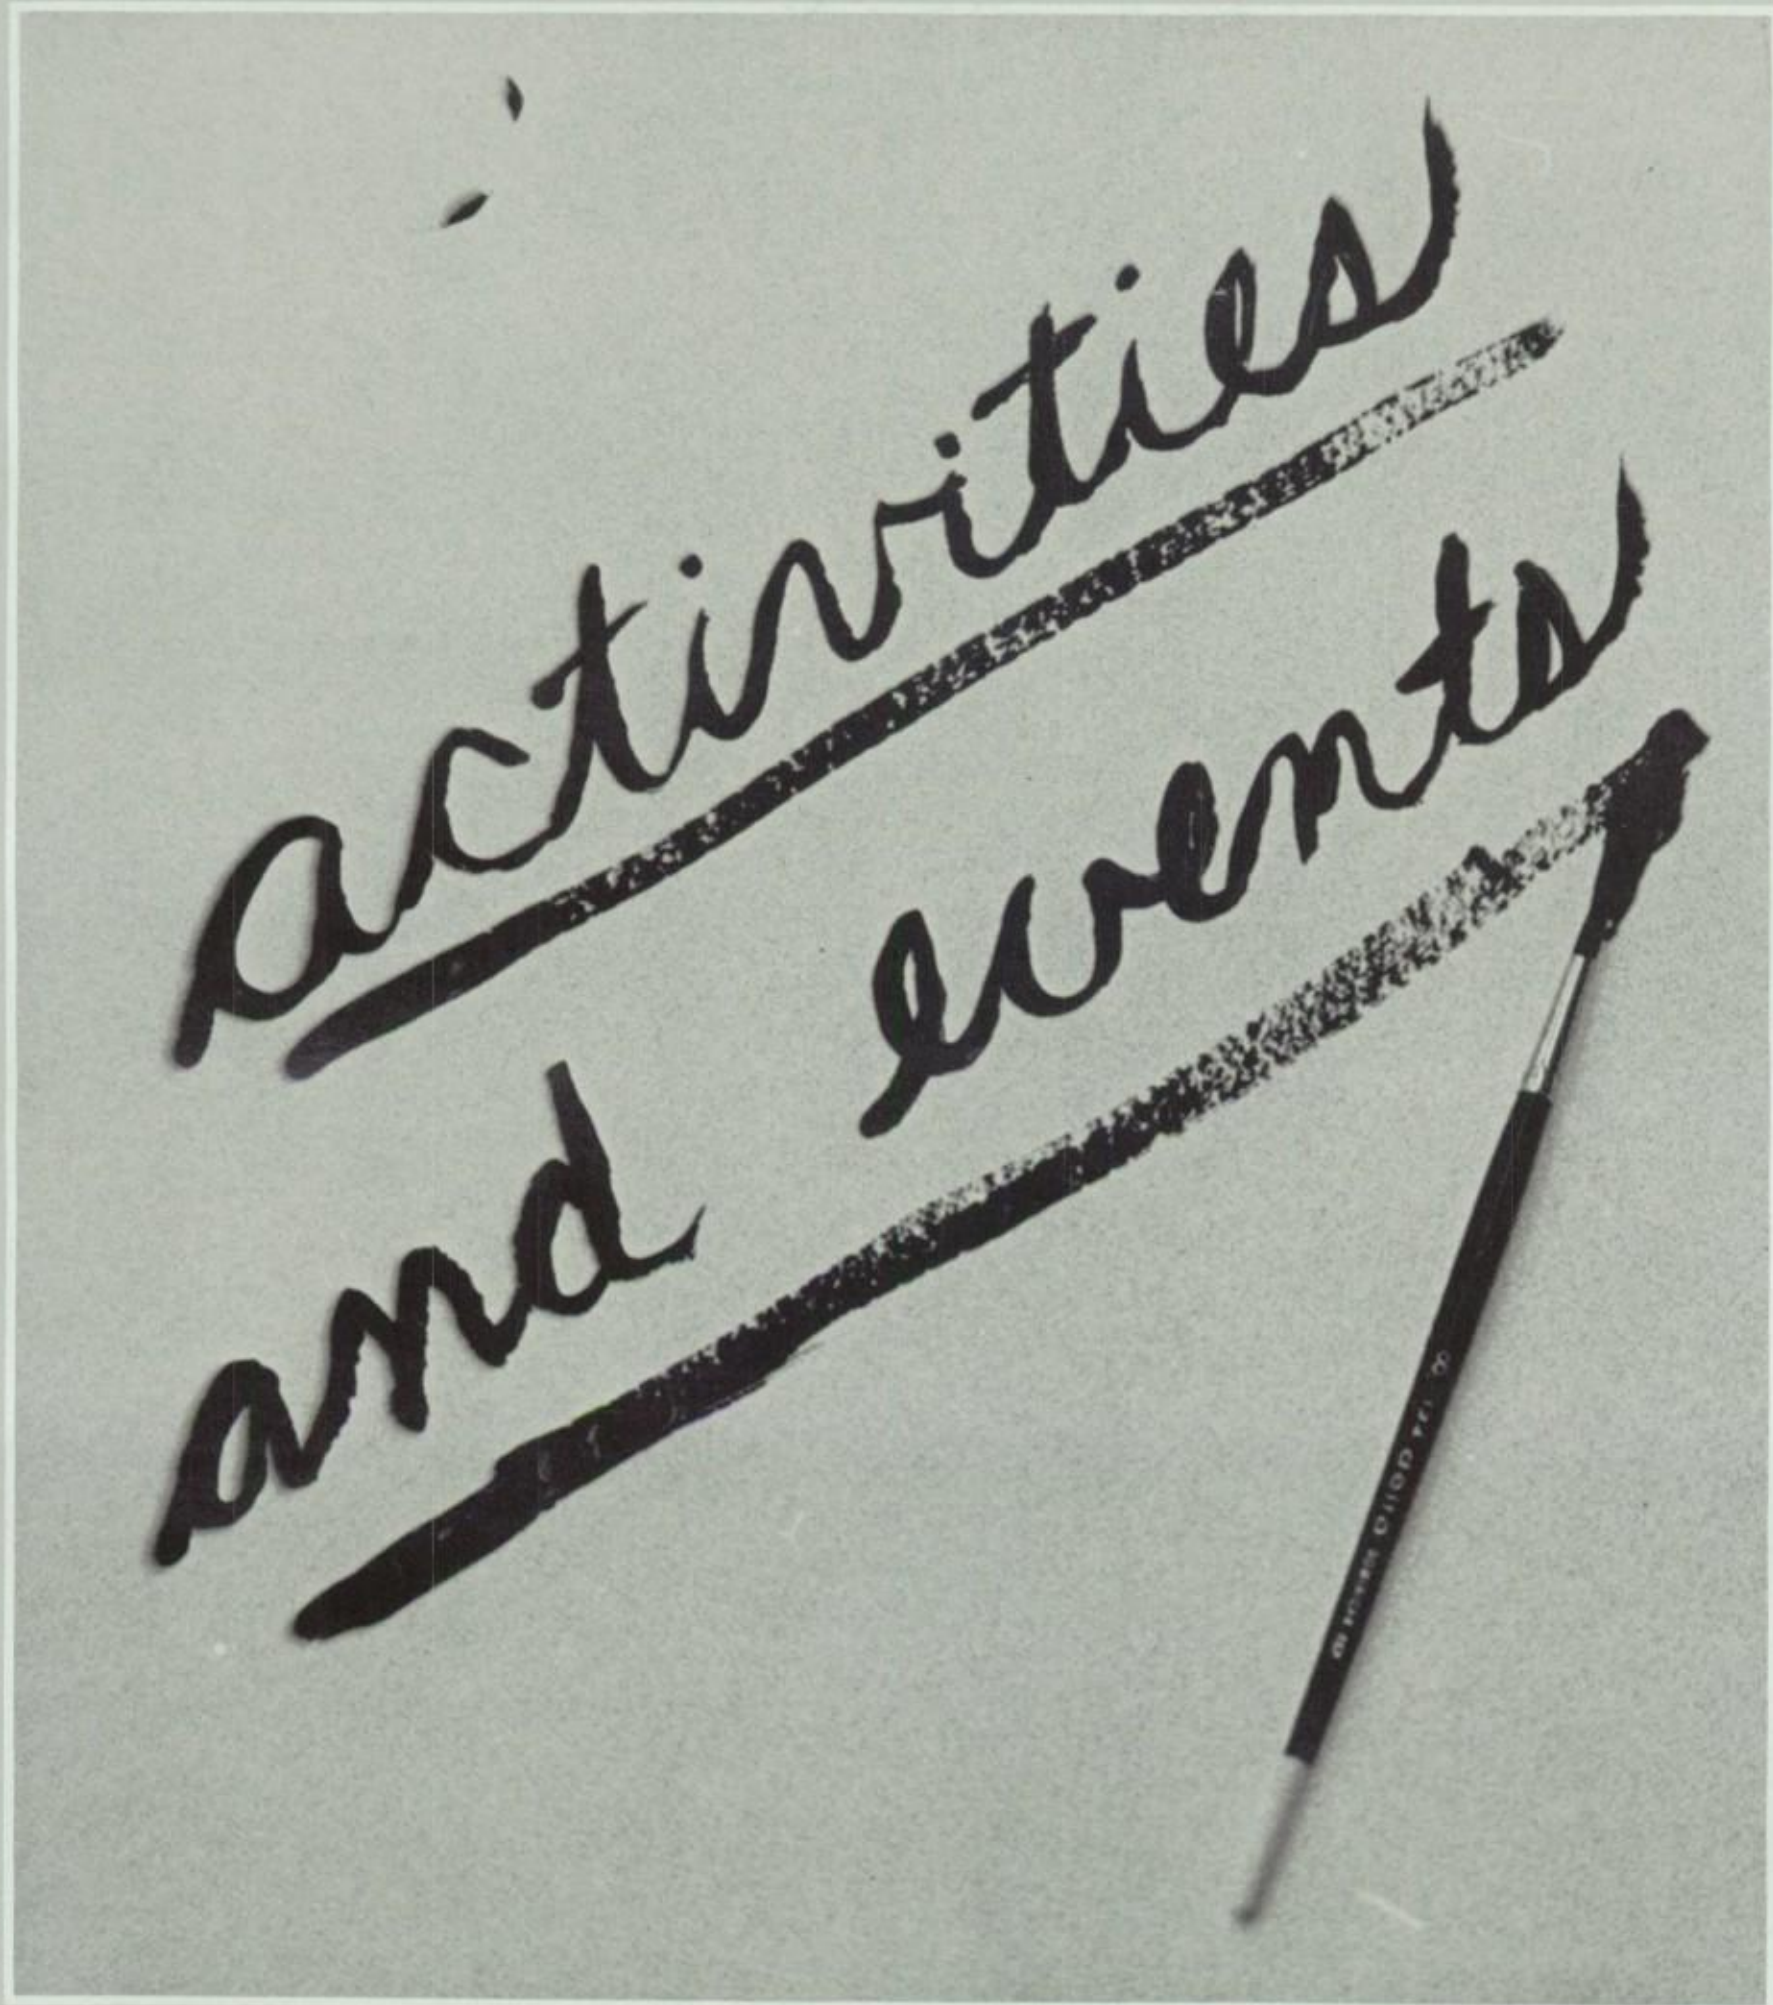

Mary Krumm, head cook, enjoyed the students' favorite food. "We enjoy making pizza and pizza burgers because the kids seem to enjoy them the most," commented Krumm.

Both the janitors and the cooks were helped by the students from special education classes.

Rain Fails To Dampen Homecoming Spirit

Kari Olsen

Grey skies and drizzling rains didn't dampen the spirits of the BHS students during homecoming week. The festivities began with the crowning of Brenda Dockter as homecoming queen. She was sponsored by the sophomore class. Her attendants and their sponsors included Darcie Meyer, junior class; Kari Olsen, Prairie Breezes; Missy Turnbull, student council; and Sheri Zeeb, DECA. The coronation ceremony took place Monday, September 30th in the old gym. The 1984 Homecoming Queen Kim Klipfel reflected how she had felt being crowned as she sang the song, "What A Feeling."

The other candidates and their sponsors were as follows Missy Birkholz, cheerleaders; Julie Fossen, wrestling; Bonnie Heid, Hi-Herald; Beth Klecker, D-Men-Nuts; Sarah Larson, concert choir; Jenny Lies, senior class; Robin Mallings, VICA; Katie McDonald, girls' cross-country; Mary Petersen, concert band; Pam Rios, Demonettes; Amy Sanborn, photo club; Loree Volla, football; Barb Wagner, boys' cross-country; and Carol Woessner, girls' basketball.

Spirit week began with Beach Bum Day. The students' morale warmed up as they were seen cruising the halls in Bermuda shorts, Hawaiian shirts and shades. Imagination played its part on Tuesday, Punk Day. Students colored their hair, painted on makeup and went wild with varied clothing styles. Pee Wee Herman Day was Wednesday's theme. Pee Wee Herman look-alikes greased their hair, wore bowties and mimicked his famous laugh. Thursday was dedicated to the movie "Rambo" starring Sylvester Stallone. Students wore combat boots, t-shirts and headbands. Friday was the traditional Maroon and White Day.

Another tradition held on Friday was the combined BHS-CHS parade. It began promptly at 3:30 p.m. and so did the rain. The queen candidates, wrapped in blankets, rode in their convertibles while the rain poured down.

Saturday, the big day, arrived with the sun shining. The Snake Dance preceded the football game against the Dickinson Trinity Titans. The Demons defeated the Titans by a score of 44 to 13.

The band Casper played for the dance which ended homecoming on an alarming note when someone accidentally pulled the fire alarm.

Despite the grey skies, drizzling rain and the fire alarm, the 1985 homecoming week was a spirit-filled six days of fun.

“Bye Bye Birdie” Achieves “Fame” for Gifted Actors

Lynn Helm & Pat Sadler

Although Rick Barbie was the only director for the plays this year, BHS and CHS combined three times for “Bye Bye Birdie,” “Fame,” and “Showcase.”

“Bye Bye Birdie,” a two-act musical, was performed November 22-26. A slide show along with music from the 50’s set the mood before the beginning of the play. “Bye Bye Birdie” was about a rock idol, Conrad Birdie, who was drafted into the U.S. Army. So that Birdie wouldn’t be forgotten by the public his manager’s secretary devised a plan in which a lucky teenage girl would get a last kiss before Birdie went into the service.

According to Barbie they do a 50’s musical about every three years because they’re a lot of fun for high school students. “Bye Bye Birdie” went quite well. It was a fun play to do, and the audiences really liked it,” commented Barbie.

This year the play had 11 different scenes, and a total of 17 scene changes which kept the students buzzing between scenes. The play production class constructed the set. Many of the 50’s costumes were those used in past plays.

Brian Walker, an experienced actor in BHS-CHS productions, summed up his feelings about “Bye Bye Birdie” by saying, “It was a fun, good experience, and I built a lot of good friendships, but it got strenuous at times. All around it was very rewarding.”

The members of the cast put on a sock hop dance after opening night of the play. The vocal director was Cindy Hoselton, and Bob Peske conducted the orchestra.

“Fame,” a two-act drama with music, was presented March 21-24. This play was about students at the School of Performing Arts in New York City. It showed how the kids learned who they were and how their lives changed while they learned to perform. “Fame” was actually a collection of many characters which gave the cast an opportunity to develop different personalities. Barbie noted, “All the students were familiar with the TV series, and this play gave them a chance to put those characters to life.”

The Bismarck-Century play production class put on “Showcase” again this year for only one performance on May 16. “Showcase” consisted of student writing that were related to the theme of truth. Abstractions and symbols were used to portray many truths in life.

New this year was the BHS-CHS drama club which had a total of 20 members. During the year they went on two trips. One was to Fargo to see the Red River Dance Company perform “A Chorus Line.” On their way to Minneapolis they stopped in Fargo and visited Trollwood, a school of performing arts. While in Minneapolis they viewed the presentation of “Peter Pan.”

Seniors 'Dare To Dream'

Following a prelude of music by the Bismarck High School Concert Band, organist Clarion Larson played the processional march as 311 Bismarck High School seniors filed in for the 95th annual graduation exercises which were held on Sunday, May 25, at 8:00 in the evening at the Bismarck Civic Center. Of the 311 seniors, 91 were members of the National Honor Society and 21 were members of the Presidential Academic Fitness Program. Students belonging to the National Honor Society maintained a 3.00 (B) Grade Point Average; those belonging to the Presidential Academic Fitness Program maintained a 3.3 Grade Point Average as well as completing specific academic requirements including five credits in English and a language, three credits in social sciences, three credits in science, one half credit in computer science and three credits in mathematics. Ten students, who maintained 4.0 (A) Grade Point Average were valedictorians.

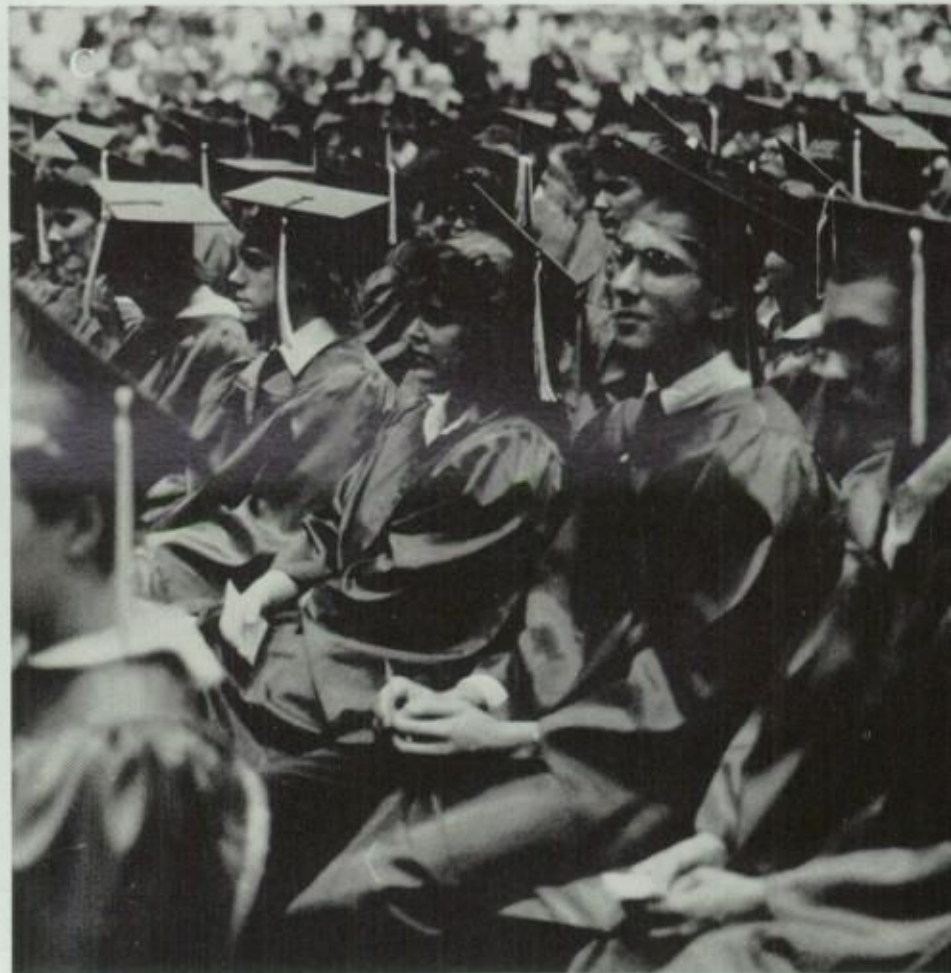

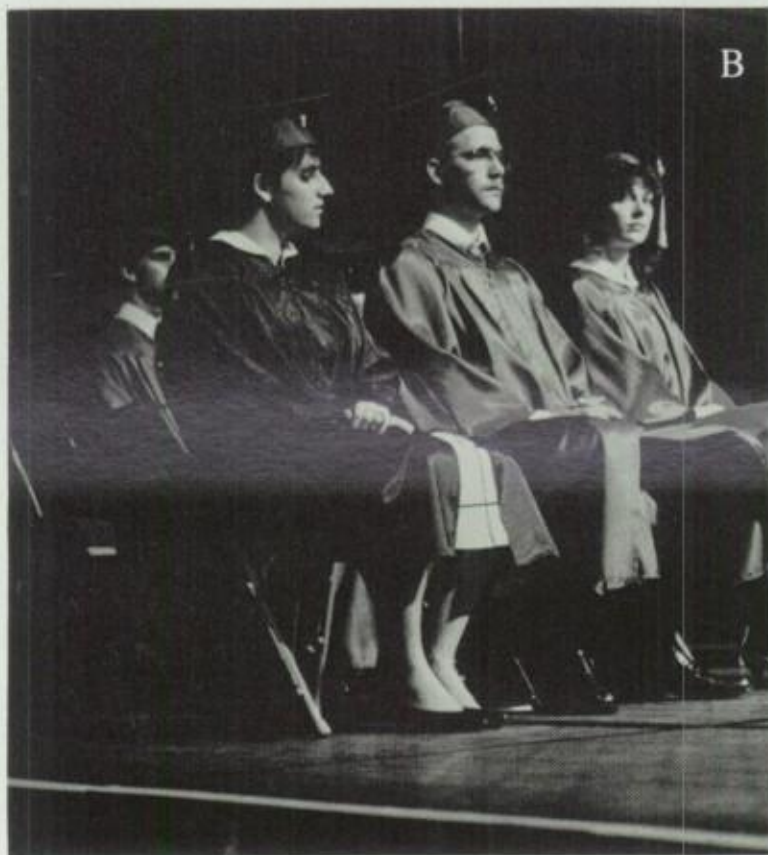

Following an invocation by the Reverend Ted Heaston, senior class president Darcie Meyer presented the graduating class and named their theme, "Dare to Dream." Three of the ten valedictorians, Kim Fettig, Nancy Kadrmas, and Brian Walker, spoke on this theme. The seven other valedictorians included Dawn Lervik, David Lindberg, Ann Mathison, Paul Odney, Shannon Pearce, Terry Stockert, and James Walker.

The Bismarck High School Choir provided three choral selections. They included "Life Keeps Movin'," "I Am But A Small Voice," and "A Benediction." Rita Jangula and senior class member Brian Walker served as accompanists.

Following the choral selections, principal Jeffrey Geiger offered his remarks to the class and introduced the platform guests. These guests were school board members Darrell L. McQuay, J. Daniel Halvorson, Roswell Henke, Lawrence Spears, Mylo S. Candee, and superintendent of schools Lowell Jensen. Board president McQuay, reflecting on his own years at Bismarck High School, spoke briefly prior to presentation of diplomas and certificates. The Reverend Ted Heaston closed the ceremony with the Benediction which graduates followed with the traditional tossing of caps.

Lisa Lervik

February was eventful with class competition and spring week. Class competition featured a volleyball tournament which was won by the junior class. There was also a hall decorating competition for Valentines Day with the seniors taking first, sophomores taking second and the juniors taking third place. The relays were dominated by the sophomores who also received the award for having the most in attendance. Round singing, boys cheerleading and a class yell were other events won by the seniors. The juniors who wore white took the most dressed award. In overall points the seniors came in first with the juniors taking second and sophomores taking third. Student council president Kari Olsen commented, "I was pleased with the amount of interest shown in class competition."

Spring week was celebrated with students dressing up for the various spirit days. Jersey and stuffed animal day separated the men from the boys while tourist day let everyone show their true colors in Bermuda shorts and flowered shirts. All were comfortable on sweats day and everyone showed their spirit on maroon and white day. There also was a day when each class stood by itself with seniors wearing sunglasses, juniors wearing hats and sophomores wearing scarves.

The spring king candidates were introduced at a pep rally. Coronation for the king and his court was held February 24. Doug Haux, sponsored by the wrestling cheerleaders, was named king. Todd Johnson, Jeff Keller, Al Kiefer and Brad Stockert were his attendants.

The WDA basketball tournament and state wrestling tournament also added to the fun and excitement of the month.

Students Put On The Ritz

by Shelli Harsche

"Puttin On The Ritz" was chosen as the 85-86 prom theme. Although "New York, New York" was played throughout the grand march "Forever" by Kenny Loggins was chosen as official prom song.

The Holiday Inn's Hall of Ports was decorated in white, silver, and black with flourishes of red. The walls were adorned with a backdrop of the New York City skyline by night. According to junior class president Nancy Hill, "I can't believe the prom committee spent almost a year planning for one night, but it was worth it."

The grand march started at 8:00 p.m. with John Von Rueden as master of ceremonies. The band which was the Blitz began playing at 9:00 p.m. and played until 12:30 a.m. They performed a variety of top 40 music.

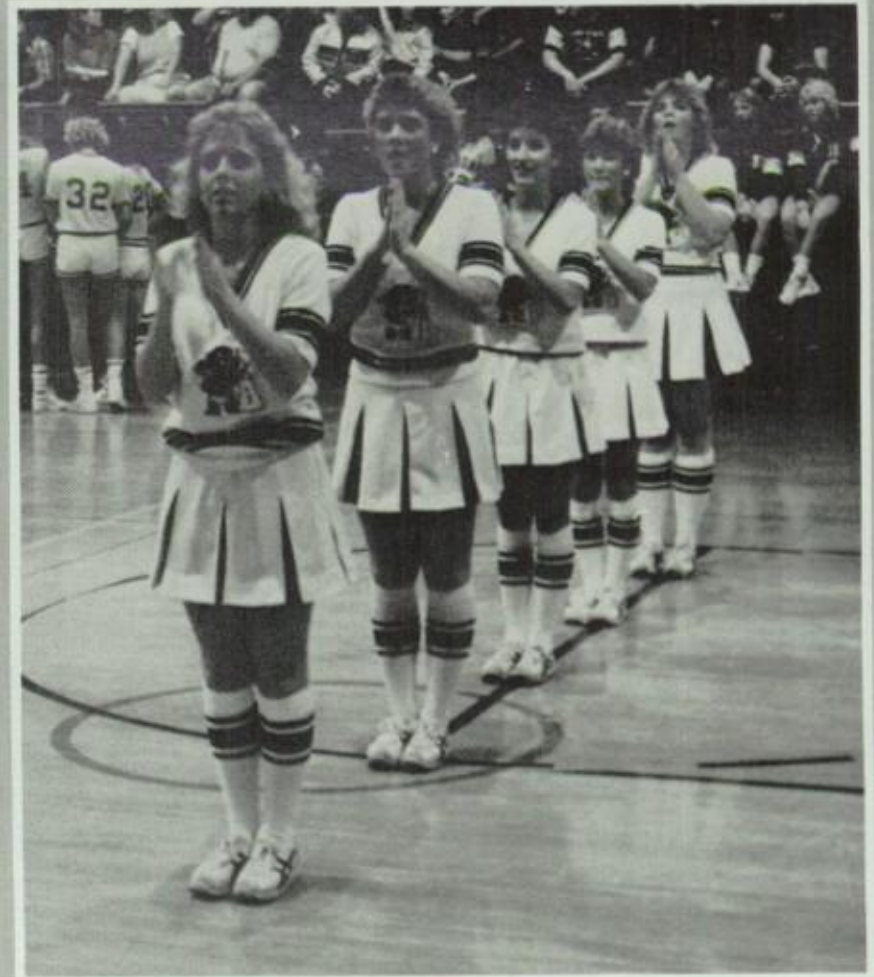

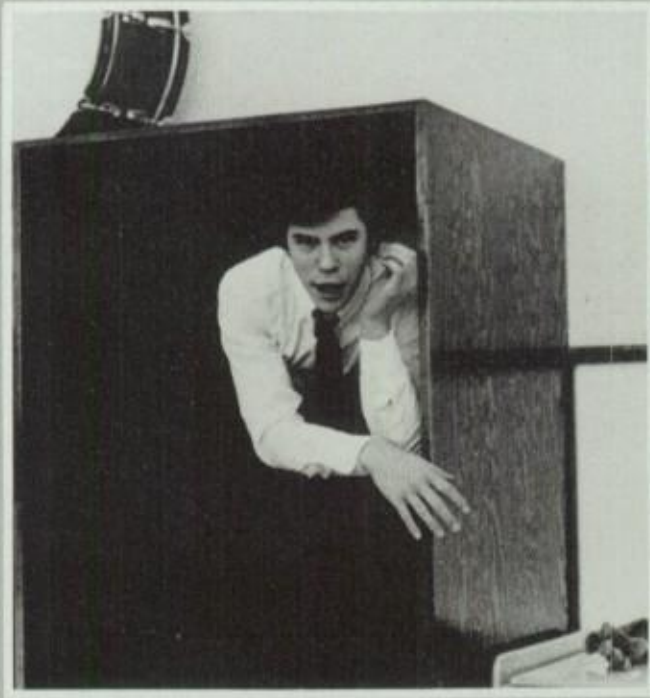

Chaperones for the prom included Mr. and Mrs. James Goecke, Mary Kay Keller-Ralston and Tim Ralston, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Knaak, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hill, and Mr. and Mrs. Tim Scott.

A new attraction this year was the prom breakfast. It was held from 12:30 a.m. to 2:30 a.m. in the BHS cafeteria. The menu included milk, juice, carmel rolls, and eggs.

Prom adviser was Ms. Karen Harkness. A record 216 couples attended prom. "I think everyone had a good time and the prom went extremely well," stated Harkness.

Bands Expand

Ann Von Bank

"This year's concert band was one of the largest groups in a while. The juniors outnumbered the seniors which is very unusual," commented Gordon Knaak, director of bands. Prep band was also larger than normal according to Knaak.

Concert band played at various functions throughout the year. These included local parades, sports events and public concerts.

The twenty-one number jazz band participated in the Mary College Jazz Festival. Four members were selected to play in the All-Star Band. These included Mary Petersen, Brad Stockert, Doug Klein, and Doran Schwartz. Other performances included the Grain Dealers' Convention and school pep rallies.

Concert band officers were Brad Stockert, president; Todd Sequin, vice-president; Steve Kubas, treasurer; and Mary Petersen, secretary. The finale of the year was a band tour to Florida with Disney World as a main highlight.

Girls Promote Spirit

Kari Olsen.

Along with a successful year of sports came an exciting and busy year for the cheerleaders. Once again, the varsity football cheerleaders supported the football team to their second consecutive state championship.

"It was a lot of fun," varsity football cheerleader Loree Vollan commented, "especially beating the Saints twice, once to stop their WDA streak, and second for the championship!"

The varsity girls' basketball squad backed their team to a second place finish at the state tournament.

The varsity wrestling cheerleaders were met with the challenge of maintaining enthusiasm despite their dual loss to Century. That loss had stopped "The Streak," their national dual record. The girls were successful as the Demons went on to capture the state championship.

Despite a disappointing loss to Dickinson in the third place game in the WDA tournament, the varsity boys' basketball cheerleaders' spirit remained at a high level. The girls planned pep rallies, made hand-held signs and decorated the guys' locker room.

Overall, the year was filled with spirit as fans helped with pep rallies and supported the cheerleaders. "Pep rallies were better received this year. There was a tremendous amount of fan support," commented cheerleading adviser Vicki Schneider.

Along with cheering, the girls attended a camp in Dickinson during the summer, they held a car wash, and they helped a cheerleading squad from Napoleon with some cheers.

A new requirement for the cheerleaders was the set practice times. The girls practiced Mondays and Wednesdays at 2:30 p.m. They had to have set practices because cheerleading became a sport. "This is the first year the girls will be treated as athletes at the winter awards banquet," explained Schneider.

"The fans were great, the seniors were really fired up, the overall year was a memorable one!" concluded Vollan.

Choir Enrollment Increases

Lori Tipton

"Enrollment in two of the three choir departments increased significantly during the 1985-86 term," according to choir director Michael Rockne. Concert Choir increased from 50 to 62, jazz doubled its membership to 20, but the BHS singers decreased from 25 to 18.

Each of the groups gave a number of concerts which included music ranging from sacred choral to jazz and pop. Concert choir gave the annual fall, Christmas, winter, all city and A'la Cafe concerts. The concerts consisted of both accompanied and accapella choral music. The New Generation jazz choir performed a number of concerts including swing, vocal jazz and contemporary songs for conventions. The BHS singers performed choral music for their fall, Christmas and spring concert.

The Concert choir went on tour in Win-nepeg, Manitoba, Canada May 7th through the 10th. They performed two concerts for schools and gave a concert at St. Boniface Basilica. The group also took time for sight seeing.

The Jazz choir also took a trip. They were invited to the Burnsville High School Jazz festival in Minnesota. Rockne was proud of this recognition since only one school from North Dakota is invited each year.

Adviser Returns

Jay Gorsegner

The Hi-Herald staff went through many changes during the school year. A major change was the return of adviser Tom Hesford after a year of absence. Additionally, a compugraphic computer was added to allow the staff to set their own type. Light tables were another addition which made layouts easier for the staff to do. The paper itself was changed with a new cover design.

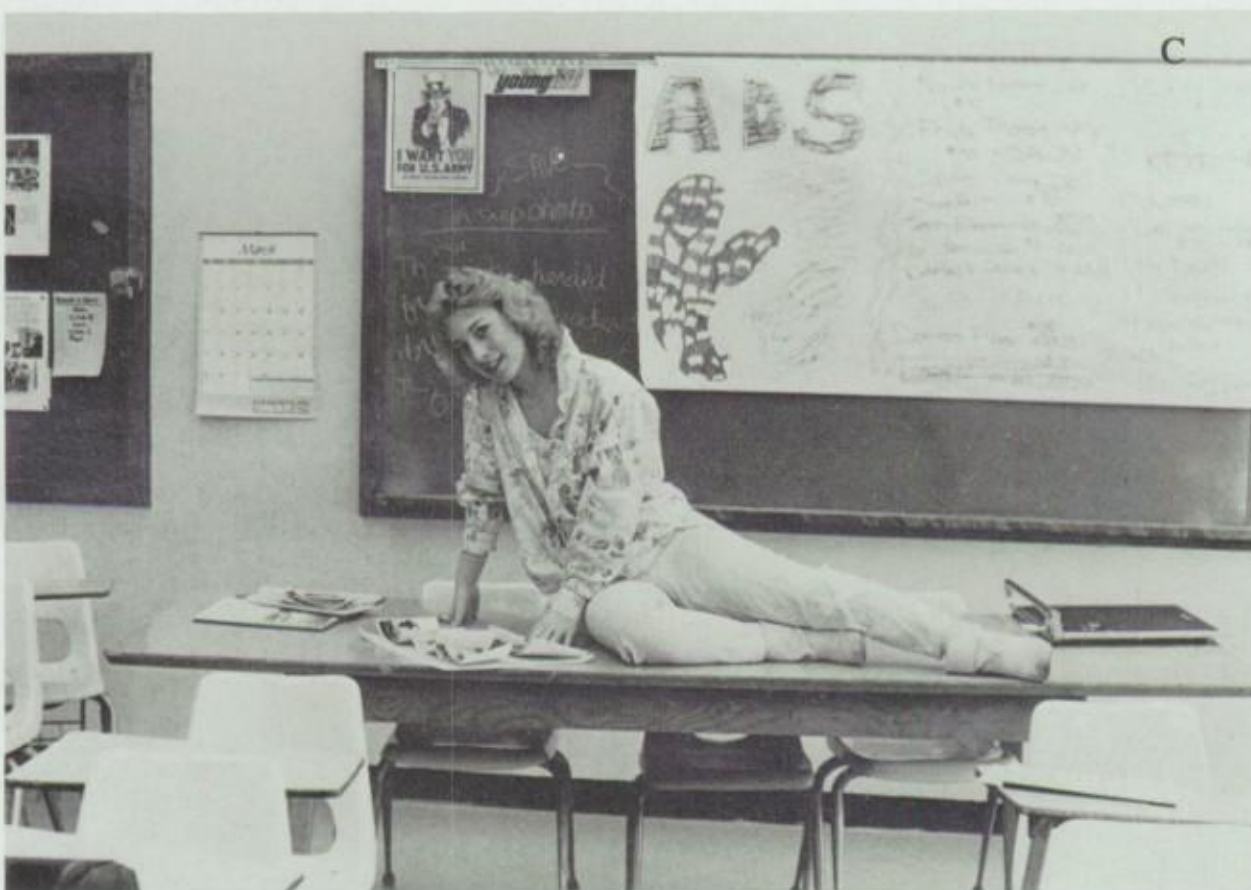

Besides putting out the paper, the staff was also responsible for putting out two issues of The Primer, which is the public relations voice of the school system.

Six students were involved in field trips sponsored by the North Dakota Women's Press Association. The students spent time with various people involved in different aspects at journalism.

Hesford praised his staff by saying, "Considering they had to work with me, and I'm old and crotchety and there were so many of them they really have come a long way."

Changes Affect Yearbook

Dawn Lervik

The 1985-86 year was a year of change for the Prairie Breezes Yearbook. Attrition because of graduation reduced the staff to five. Consequently, eleven of the sixteen staff members were novice journalists.

"Different Strokes" was picked for the theme in order to point out the individuality of BHS students. Adviser Linda Robinson felt the theme was appropriate. She commented, "Each student on staff and in the school is an interesting, unique individual."

The staff also took an active part in many school activities. They sponsored the Halloween masquerade dance. Prairie Breezes also sponsored Kari Olsen for homecoming queen and Jay Gorseigner for spring king.

The eleven new members of the yearbook staff attended a workshop at the Heritage Center in October. They were exposed to many of the fundamentals of layout design.

Orchestra Goes To Disneyland

Lisa Nagel

"The orchestra was consistent compared to other years," stated the director of BHS orchestra, Alex Romanov. "This made rehearsals smoother and easier," Romanov continued. This consistency was evident in the orchestra's concerts.

In order for students to perform in these concerts certain requirements had to be met. The students interested in performing were required to complete half-hour auditions. Once the requirements were met, the students performed in 10 concerts.

The orchestra played music from all periods of time appealing to a wide segment of the population. Orchestra performances were well attended. The audiences often contained 1,000 or more listeners.

The orchestra planned a tour to Disneyland on April 19th - 22nd. They played at Disneyland and on the Queen Mary ship.

According to Romanov, "Preparing for the trip was just as much fun as the trip itself." The travel was not the only important aspect of the trip. Planning for the trip was equally important. The students helped raise funds for the trip. Methods of raising money included candy sales, patron tickets, spaghetti dinners and bake sales.

Some other trips such as the North Dakota Orchestra Festival which took place in Grand Forks kept the student busy.

Demonettes Impress Audiences

Lynn Helm

The Demonettes, the very first drill team in North Dakota, was formed 23 years ago. All through the years this 28-member team of girls became famous for their high kicks and jump splits and gained a reputation of being the best.

Practice began in June in preparation for the 1985-86 season. During the summer the Demonettes took tickets at various softball games and sold Folkfest buttons as fund raising activities. Later in the year, they served for suppers at the Eagles' Club and modeled in many style shows.

"Loverboy" by Billy Ocean was the song used for the football routine in which the Demonettes first demonstrated their shoulder mounts. They performed this routine at Concordia College, Mayville

State College, and the BHS homecoming game.

The basketball routine was to the music of "Yankee Doodle." In this routine the girls added to their traditional routine difficult moving mounts, quick knee crashes, and smooth sommersaults. This routine was performed at NDSU, a BHS home game at the Civic Center, the semi-final WDA game, and the opening round of the State Class "A" Basketball Tournament.

"Demonettes takes a lot of hard work, but it all paid off at our WDA basketball performance. The crowd was great!" commented Pam Rios, the captain of Demonettes.

The Demonettes competed in two competitions during the year. In the fall they competed at the U.L.S. Invitational Tournament at Mary College, and in February they received second place at the North Dakota State Drill Team Competition.

Five Demonettes were chosen to be showgirls in the 1985 Folkfest Queen Pageant. The seniors were Pam Rios and Lynn Helm. Juniors included Lisa Lervik, Dawn Peterson, and Leslie Riley. Eight Demonettes performed a robot routine called "Freak-a-zoid" at the Homecoming Queen Coronation. Many of the girls were involved in color guard for band.

Officers this year included Pam Rios, captain; Leslie Riley, co-captain; and Lynn Helm, secretary-treasurer. The choreographers were Sheri Miller, Lisa Lervik, and Sonya Baker. The drummer for Demonettes was Brad Stockert. Advisers were Wendy Hausauer and Karla Gallagher.

D-Men-Nuts Get Exposure

Jay Gorsegrner

The 1985-86 D-Men-Nuts gained even more exposure statewide than last year. They performed for two televised games, the state championship football game and the third place game of the WDA basketball tournament.

The "Nuts," senior men's answer to the Demonettes, performed various kicks, ripples, precision arm movements and jump splits.

The "Nuts" first performance was at a Bismarck - St. Mary's football game. They performed to "Mony Mony" by Billy Idol. The same routine was performed at the state championship football game which was televised across the state. For these routines Hawaiian shirts, Bermuda shorts, long johns and shades were worn.

The captains for the fall season were

Jeff Weekes and Tom Wesolowski.

The basketball season brought new members and two new routines. "Naughty Naughty" was the music used. The "Nuts" sported punk hairdos and performed for a Bismarck - Mandan basketball game.

The "Naughty Naughty" routine was used for the now legendary Nuts on Ice. This performance, possibly the first time a drill team had performed on ice was presented at a Bismarck - Century hockey game. Their costumes included flannel shirts, long johns, shades, and pillows which were stuffed in the back of their shorts to break any falls which might have occurred.

The final routine of the year during halftime of the third place game at the WDA basketball tournament. The music was "Spies Like Us" the routine was made up by the "Nuts" themselves with assistance from coach Lynn Helm. The "Nuts" performed in spy tradition wearing trench coats, shades, hats, even a suitcase handcuffed to the wrist of one of the "Nuts." The performance which many people called the best of the year received a standing ovation from close to 5,000 people. In addition this performance was televised across the western half of the state.

According to coach Lynn Helm the highlight of the season was the WDA tournament because, "the crowd was so receptive and the guys were having fun."

Captains for the winter were Dave Bender and Tim Blasl.

Speech and Debate Active

Shelli Harsche

The 85-86 combined BHS - CHS speech team saw one major change. Tim Heintzman took over as speech coach, a position formerly held by Linda Davis. The speech club's season began with an organizational meeting. Amy Christianson was chosen team captain at this meeting.

The team participated in many tournaments throughout the year including two held at Moorhead State University and NDSU campuses. Speech regionals were held March 22 at Dickinson Trinity. Qualifying members went to the state tournament which was held April 4 in Mandan.

Some members of the team brought literature to life through their interpretations, while others delivered speeches to inform or persuade. Members were judged on their speaking ability, voice tone, organization, and overall appearance.

The debate team was coached by Bill Rogers. Bismarck High contributed four members to that team.

The debate members learned good speaking techniques by having to argue their side in front of judges. The team attended meets on NDSU and Concordia College campuses. Team members held the ultimate goal of being eligible for state debate. Eligibility was determined by the number of competitions entered. Debaters who had competed in at least six rounds. State debate was held January 31, in Fargo.

Language Clubs Excel

Shelli Harsche

Bismarck High School's four foreign language clubs had an interesting year. All four French, German, Latin, and Spanish Clubs, participated in the annual "Mardi Gras" and planned a Pan-language picnic in the spring. The clubs also took part in many individual activities.

FRENCH CLUB: This year's French club attended the international dinner at Caspar's East 40 and took a trip to Winnipeg in the spring. The French club adviser was Christine Roszkowski. The French club's membership included about 60 students.

LATIN CLUB: Starting out the year by electing officers, the Latin club had a successful year. The officers were Cindi Stanton, president; Becki Hasti, vice-president; Amy Pittenger, secretary; Shelli Harsche, photographer. The Latin club participated in many activities such as an antipasto competition and a trip to Winnipeg. Neil Souther was the adviser of the club which had 104 members.

GERMAN CLUB: German club members participated in many activities. In November they attended a German Convention at the Doublewood Ramada Inn in Bismarck. The members also took part in Oktoberfest and the February Tasching. They planned a trip to Germany in August and sold candy to raise the necessary funds. German club was advised by Mary Benz and Eleonore Bollinger.

SPANISH CLUB: Spanish club also had various club activities this year. Among them was a fall hayride and pizza party and a Hispanic Christmas party. In March members attended a dinner at Fiesta Villa and the Language Arts Festival in Minot. A trip to Mexico was planned for summer. Mary Kay Keller Ralston served as the clubs adviser.

VICA Has Successful Year

Ann Von Bank

VICA, Vocational Industrial Clubs of America, had a successful year. They were co-sponsors of the Valentine's dance with DECA. They also raised money by collecting aluminum cans and selling M&M's.

All students enrolled in health occupations, auto body, auto mechanics, carpentry, commercial art, electronics, or welding were eligible to belong to VICA.

The main objective of VICA was to get the students involved in community activities, such as visiting the pediatric wards of the local hospitals at Christmas, adopting a grandparent from the local nursing homes for a day, and helping with the Walk-A-Thon for the March of Dimes. VICA also participated in nursing skills competitions with three local winners. These were Jodi Greff, Heidi Haakenson and Karla Loscheider taking first, second and third places respectively.

Organized in 1976, 40 students were acting members this year. Rhonda Weiss was elected to the office of state representative and local officers at BHS were: Karla Loscheider, president; Marcy Fischer, vice-president; Robin Mallng, secretary; Laurie Roe, treasurer, Heather Bruer, reporter; Robert Doench, historian; Rhonda Weiss, parliamentarian; and Michele Johnson, chaplin. Their adviser was Norma Waterland.

Students Learn Marketing Skills

Pat Sadler

Approximately 125 students were enrolled in the distributive education and marketing classes this year at Bismarck High. Students enrolled in these classes learned much about various fields such as sales, advertising, finance, food service, personal apparel, petroleum and credit.

Each area of study included a field trip. These trips were planned to clothing stores, gas stations and fast food restaurants so that students could see how active businesses operate.

Objectives of the department included teaching students skills in marketing and employment. These skills included communication, selling and practical application. The instructors hoped to help the students gain knowledge, skill, and ability, as well as develop a personality for the business world.

A co-op program was part of the D.E. class. This program helped students get jobs in the marketing field. The instructor maintained contact with the students' employers to see how each one was progressing in his position. The co-op program gave the students a chance to develop an employer-employee relationship and to be active in the marketing field. Each of the 79 students involved in the co-op program received credit for his involvement.

The Demon Corner was once again used by the D.E. classes. Students volunteered to work in the store during free time for the experience. The students managed and ran the store. They made purchasing decisions, decided what to sell and what to charge for each product.

Distributive education teachers Larry Stanko and Larry Rehn both agreed that students seemed more eager to learn this year. Stanko explained, "Students have come to the conclusion that education is mandatory." Rehn's catchy phrase summed up his feeling about the class. Rehn stated, "Going with the flow is easy to do, to stand out from the crowd is all up to you."

Club Has Active Year

Amy Sanborn

The fourteen students involved in photo club enjoyed a great year together. They took advantage of many activities including speakers, field trips and various photo expeditions.

Many times they packed up their cameras and drove to places providing scenic views. Some of the pictures taken during field trips were later used for publications or entered in contests.

Students were provided with film, the use of a darkroom, paper and expert instruction. The school covered most of the cost of the supplies. Club members helped to cover any additional expenses by selling calenders.

"We give students an opportunity to do various things as long as they are not illegal, immoral, or fattening," stated Dan Klein, photo club adviser. This was Klein's eleventh year as adviser. Those years have been enjoyable according to Klein who added, "Being involved with photo club is fun! I really do enjoy it."

FCA Offers Guidance

Dawn Lervik

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes had an active 1985-86 year. They met once every week to discuss a topic or participate in a sporting activity.

The subjects discussed were often chosen by the students. They tried to support their discussions, often with scripture. Advisor Dave Angell commented, "I think FCA offers students spiritual guidance that they need in high school. It's a good alternative to some of the other everyday activities."

Some of the activities FCA members participated in were basketball and volleyball nights. They also went Christmas caroling and visited a hospital on Halloween.

The group's president was Kristi Wolf, vice-president was Joel Leer, and secretary/treasurer was Nancy Kadrmas. Advisors were Dave Angell, Brian Jespersen, Dwite Gorder, Dan Axvig, and Laurie Anderson.

Participation Assures Success

Nancy Hill

"This year has been the most successful year I've ever experienced as a student council member," said Kari Olsen, president of student council. According to Olsen, the key to success was increased participation from the student body.

Olsen felt that a reason for the increased involvement was the wide range of activities offered to the students. These activities included the annual "big event," homecoming, which involved the organizing of the parade, coronation of the homecoming queen and the planning of the homecoming dance; spring king election; class competition in which the three classes competed against each other in volleyball, basketball and relays including contests in coke guzzling, jello eating and tricycle racing.

Spirit weeks were very popular. Beach day, when students dressed in beach apparel, brought out the most participation. Students also enjoyed Rambo day, Pee-Wee Herman day, Sweats day and the annual maroon and white day.

A responsibility of the student-elected government body was to approve the various dances sponsored by various clubs throughout the year.

A new project for student council this year was the Martin Luther King Jr. Memorial. It was a picture of Martin Luther King Jr. which included parts of his famous speech "I Have A Dream." The picture was hung in various classrooms throughout the year.

Student Council also conducted class elections for class officers and upcoming student council members and sponsored an annual pizza party for all the foreign exchange students.

Faculty advisor was Twila Jarrett. Kari Olsen served as president, Missy Turnbull as vice-president and Karmen Pfeiffer as secretary-treasurer.

Exchange Students Enjoy Bismarck High

Pat Sadler

Eight foreign exchange students were enrolled at Bismarck High School for the 1985-86 school year. Various exchange programs handled arrangements such as purchasing tickets and finding good homes for the students. The average cost of most student exchange programs was about $3,800. Each student was also required to provide his own spending money.

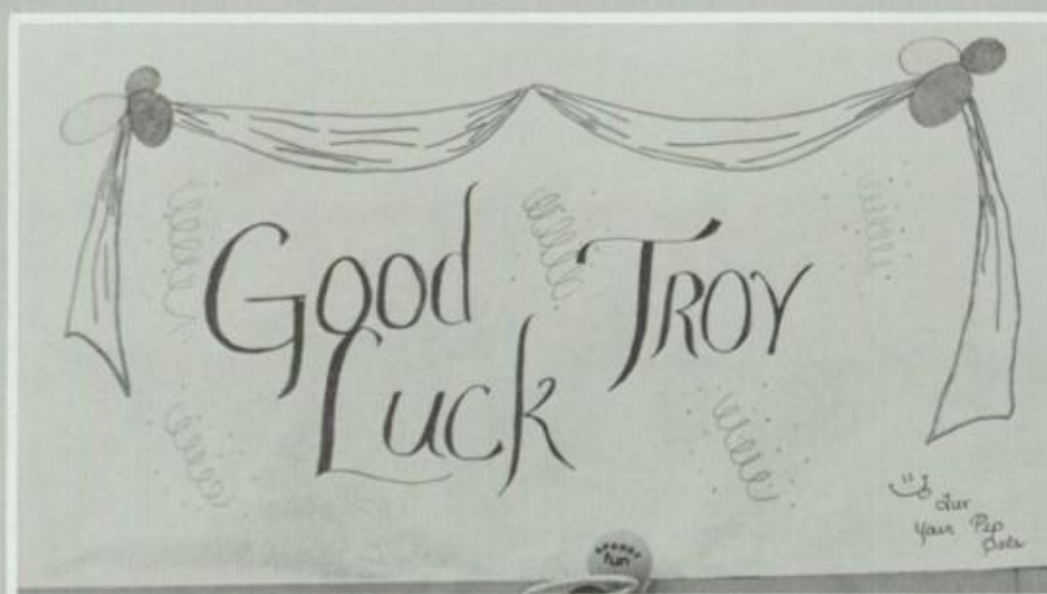

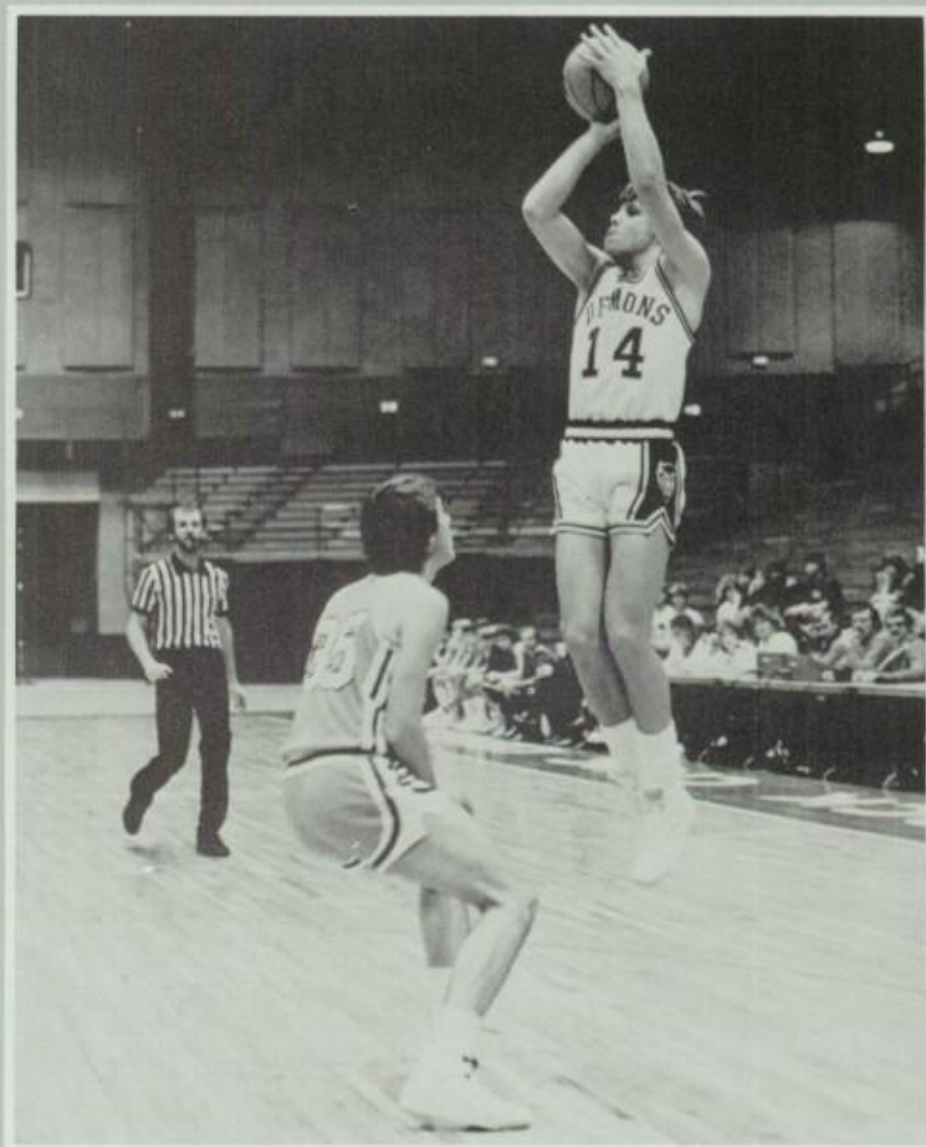

Betty Peterson, a representative for one of the foreign exchange programs, said, "Initially students really like this country but as time goes on they become more critical of the United States."

The exchange students enjoyed the privilege of choice for school activities. Tove Altvall, who came from Stockholm, Sweden, stated, "One thing that I like about Bismarck High is that you have extra-curricular activities." Another student, Ulrike Degner, from Hof, Germany, was more specific. Degner exclaimed, "I really like the school dances! It gives me a chance to socialize with the other students." All of the foreign exchange students agreed that they definitely wanted to come back.

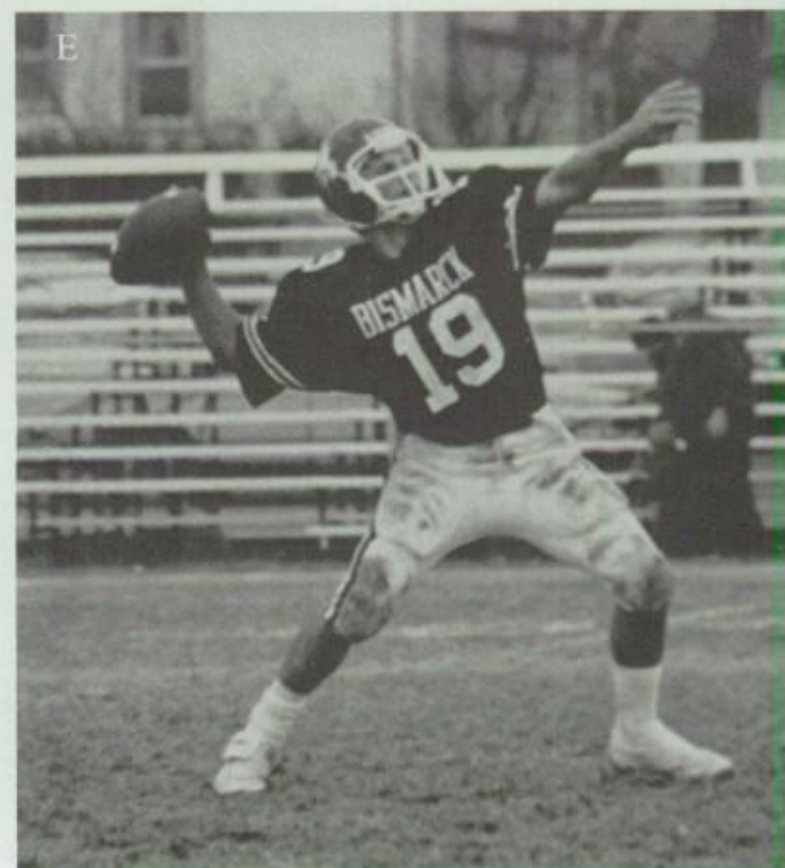

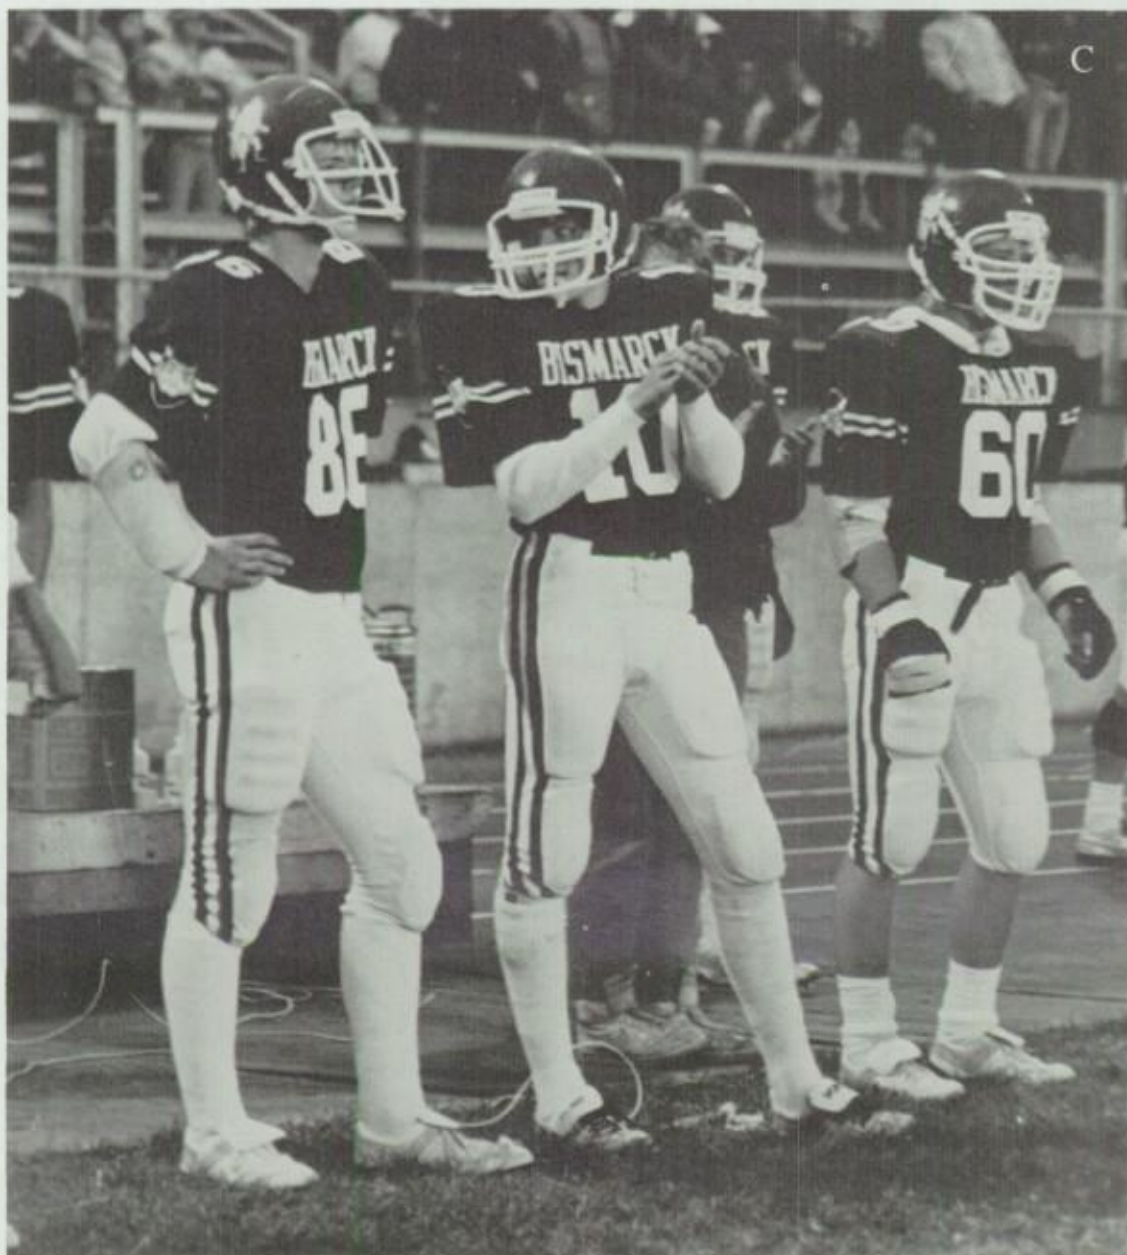

The students came from a variety of places. Lotte Greene, Denmark; Petri Rahola, Finland; Ulrike Degner and Dorthe Leidel, Germany; Alexander (Alex) Adricham and Sacha Hubert, Holland; and Tove Altvall and Goran (Lars) Ekman, Sweden.

Demons Repeat As State Champs

Dawn Lervik

"You never get tired of winning," was coach Bob Feeney's reaction to recapturing the state title. "It was just as big of a thrill this year as last, if not more," he concluded. The team's season resulted in an unequaled 13-0 record.

The team consisted of nine seniors, twenty-six juniors and nine sophomores. "They all got along great with each other no matter what grade they were in," commented assistant coach Kent Tardiff.

The seniors provided excellent leadership for their younger teammates. Their confidence rubbed off on the whole team. The juniors were a very important part of the team. They filled in the majority of the specialty positions. "I expected depth and back-up from the juniors, what I got was starters," stated coach Feeney. The team had a 'never-give-up' attitude, combined with aggressiveness and enthusiasm which turned out to be an important asset."

Coach Feeney felt that a personal victory was beating Fargo Shanley, something Bismarck High had never done during his coaching career. Beating St. Mary's twice during the year was another important victory. "Second to us, St. Mary's was one of the most powerful and talented teams in the state, but turnovers killed them in the end," commented senior Kurt VonRueden.

Although the team had a 13-0 record, there were some close calls. A would-be winning touch down for Williston was called back because they had one too many players on the field. The game against Fargo North went into overtime, and Bismarck won only when Fargo North missed the extra point kick after a touch down.

Despite Bismarck's 12-0 record, they went into the championship game against St. Mary's as the underdog. Eighteen out of twenty-two coaches around the state picked St. Mary's to win. Coach Feeney felt that the talk hurt the team at the beginning of the week; but by Friday the team regained their confidence.

The championship game was played in 20° weather. At half-time, Bismarck was trailing 13-0. But, within minutes of the third quarter, BHS capitalized on a turnover for a touchdown, making the score 13-6. The play seemed to give the team the momentum they needed, and the Demons made another touchdown. Finally, with only 24 seconds left in the third quarter, BHS made another touchdown.

The Saints tied it up again 20-20, early in the fourth quarter. With only 2:26 left in the game, Bismarck scored once again, giving them the lead. St. Mary's then made the last touchdown, making the score 27-26. However, they failed a conversion attempt. Thus the Bismarck Demons won the State Class A Championship.

Coach Feeney felt that the team's ability to capitalize on St. Mary's turnovers was instrumental in the win. However, he emphasized, "turnovers aren't just bad luck; they are an important part of the game, and we used them to our advantage."

There will be 26 returning juniors for the 1986 season, 13 of whom started at one time or another during the 1985 season. Assistant coach Roger Hilsendager felt that probably the most important factors for a successful next season will be the ability of the new quarterback. He concluded, "one of the toughest positions to fill will be the shoes of Steve Feeney, who not only received recognition for playing quarterback, but also defensive end."

The assistant coaches were David Narum, Roger Hilsendager, Kent Tardiff, Jay Gibson, and Dave Zinke.

Sophomore's Have Unusually Large Team

Amy Sanborn

The sophomore football team was exceptionally large during the 1985-86 season. The team consisted of 42 boys which was double the number of the year before.

Only one loss marred their successful. This loss came from Dickinson, 0-20. The team came back and defeated Mandan, 8-0 and Jamestown, 28-18 in their next two games. The teams last game against Century was one of their greatest achievements with a score of 26-0.

"They were a good bunch of kids to work with, and they had good quickness," stated Roger Hilzendager, offensive coach for the team.

Hilzendager, who stressed quickness in training, had good expectations for the sophomores on the varsity team. He added, "They will do well if they work hard during the off-season."

Team Has Rebuilding Year

Lisa Lervik

The 1985 - 86 school year was one of rebuilding for the girls swimming team. The team consisted of 18 girls from Bismarck High, St. Mary's, and the junior highs. The four Bismarck High swimmers included senior, Patty Job; junior, Kara Thon; and sophomores, Jenelle Muri and Jodi Staiger.

Although the team didn't win any dual meets during the season, it did very well individually. "You can't judge a team strictly on its win-loss record," commented coach Jane Butler. According to Butler, "The girls each set individual goals for themselves at the beginning of the season and 90 percent of the team met those goals." Ten of the girls made it to state and Patty Job and Kara Thon placed in the top 12.

Patty Job was named most valuable swimmer; Kara Thon, hardest worker; and Stephanie McLeish, a diver from St. Mary's was most improved. Team captains were Patty Job and Kara Thon. Jane Butler was head swimming coach and Roger Mazurek was assistant swimming coach and diving coach.

Team Plays Above Their Talent

Tracey Evanson

When the varsity girl's basketball season opened this fall the Demons were rated fourth in the Western Dakota Association. Coach Harold Hammeren said, "I was hoping for a '500 ball club', but they just kept winning."

The loss of some important seniors didn't threaten the girls. Stated Hammeren, "Even with the loss of some good players, we still had Carol Woessner and Fawn Hammeren who'd started the previous year and some other good players who really helped out."

After a 17-5 season record, the team went to Minot for WDA. The first game Bismarck shut out Dickinson Trinity 62-36. The second game was against the highly-rated Williston team. The Demons won 46-40. Bismarck took first place after beating Century 39-33 in the third and final game.

The girls were all set for the state tournament in Williston. The first game was against Wahpeton who had been picked to take first in the tournament. Bismarck won 42-38. The next game was against Devils Lake who had beaten them earlier in the season. Again the Demons pulled it off winning 59-44. Finally, the girls faced their championship game. Bismarck put up a good fight, but lost to Fargo South 36-55. The girls earned a well-deserved second place.

Sara Johnson and Fawn Hammeren were picked for the All WDA Tournament Team in Minot. In Williston, Jodi Archambault was chosen for the All State Tournament Team. Sara Johnson was chosen as the Unanimous All State Pick.

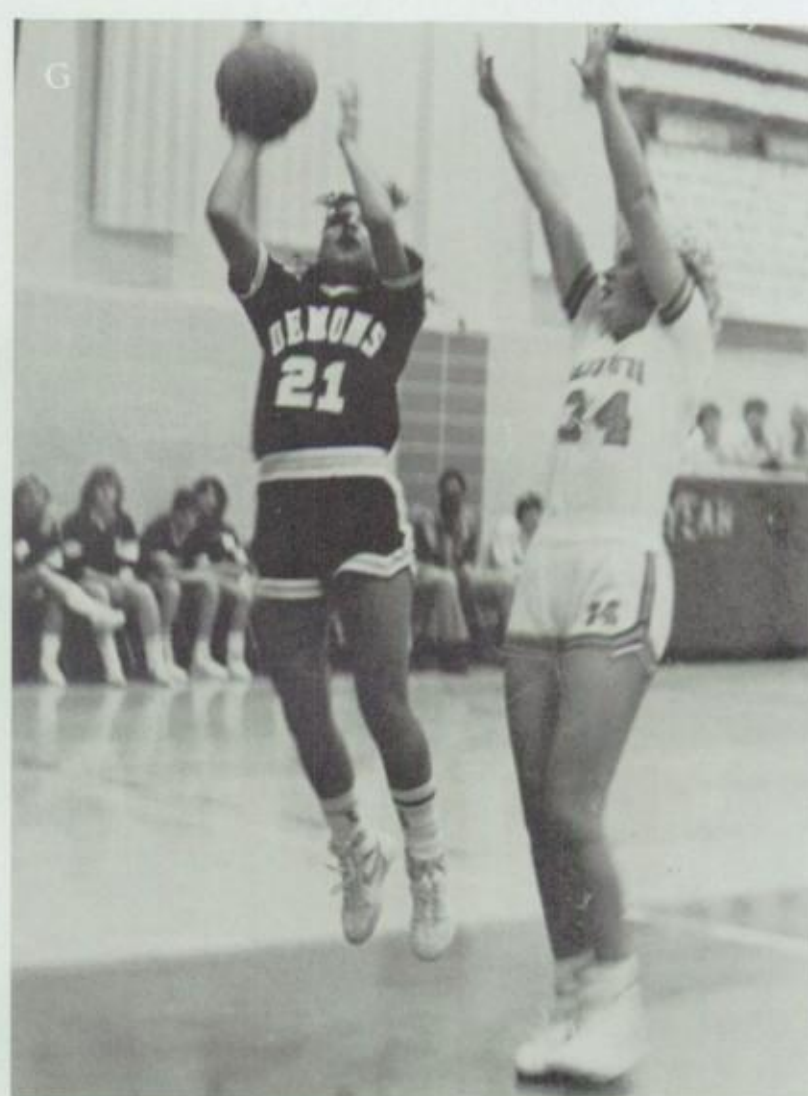

This was the first year a Most Valuable Player wasn't picked. "All the girls did a super job," Hammeren said. "We didn't think any one person deserved it any more than another. They all played above their talent. I'm really pleased with all of them!"

The Junior Varsity team had "a good season" according to their coach Bev Cross. Their season record was 10-5. Mary Jo Ehrmantraut led the team in rebounding and scoring. Nancy Hill and Shelley Dale were also high scorers.

Sophomores Finish First

Kari Olsen

"This was a very exceptional team," said Cy Timmons, head coach of the sophomore girls' basketball team.

The sophomores had a very successful season, with 13 wins and four losses in their regular season as well as taking first place honors in the sophomore tournament held at Century High School.

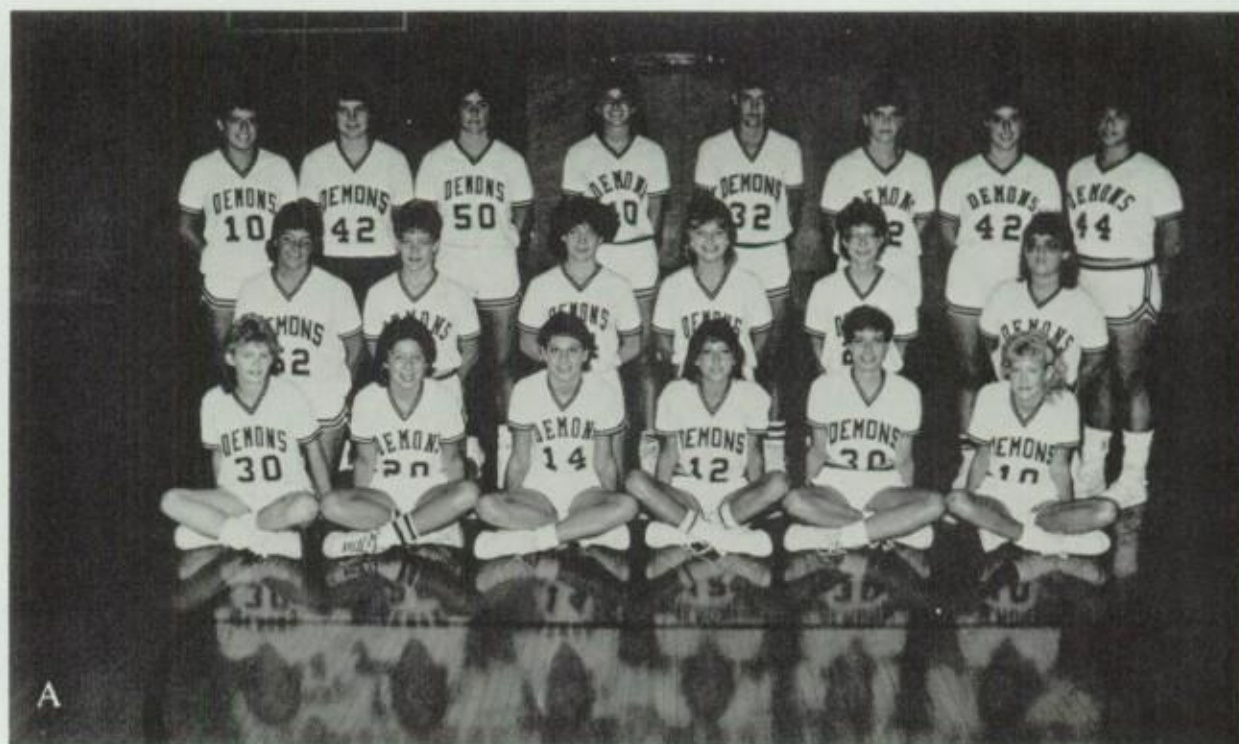

One of Timmons's main goals at the beginning of the season was to improve his girls' skills by the end of the season.

"I think the girls showed their improvement by the way they played in the tournament," added Timmons.

Kim Zimmerman led the team in scoring.

"Cy was the best coach I've ever had," said Jill Schedel, a member of the sophomore team. "He made the games as well as the practices fun by the way he treated us on and off the court."

Team Breaks Streak

Jay Gorsegrner

The 1985 Demon tennis team had a good regular season but failed to take the early season success to the regional and state tournaments.

The team led by seniors Steve Kubas, Scott Peterson, Mike Vettel and Jon Wertz began the regular season with a seven dual winning streak before losing a close 4-5 decision to Minot. According to coach Jane Heintzman, "the highlight of the season was defeating Century and breaking their streak at 35 consecutive dual wins."

In tournament play, the Demons tied for second with Century in the Minot round robin. The WDA tournament held in Dickinson wasn't finished because of snow. In the regional tournament at Minot BHS beat Trinity 3-2 and lost to both Century and Dickinson by the same 3-2 margin. Their performance earned them a fourth place finish. The Demons were challenged by Mandan but prevailed winning 3-2 and maintained their fourth place position.

The only individual placers in the regional were senior Steve Kubas and junior Greg Gronberg who finished second.

At the state tournament in Grand Forks BHS lost consecutive matches to Fargo South and Century on their way to a disappointing tournament finish. Again individual placers were Kubas and Gronberg taking fourth in doubles.

According to Heintzman, "Inexperience in pressure situations was the reason for the poor state and regional tournament finishes."

Team Does Well

Nancy Hill

"We went into the season not knowing how good we were and came out very well," said Darell Anderson, cross-country coach, in reference to the girl's season.

The four consecutive strings of state championships for the girls was broken this year when they placed second. "There was some pressure to repeat as state champs," commented Anderson, "but the girls team came in a pretty terrific second." Anderson felt that a ruling which allowed a girl from Minot to run for Minot, had something to do with the Demons finishing second to Minot at the state meet.

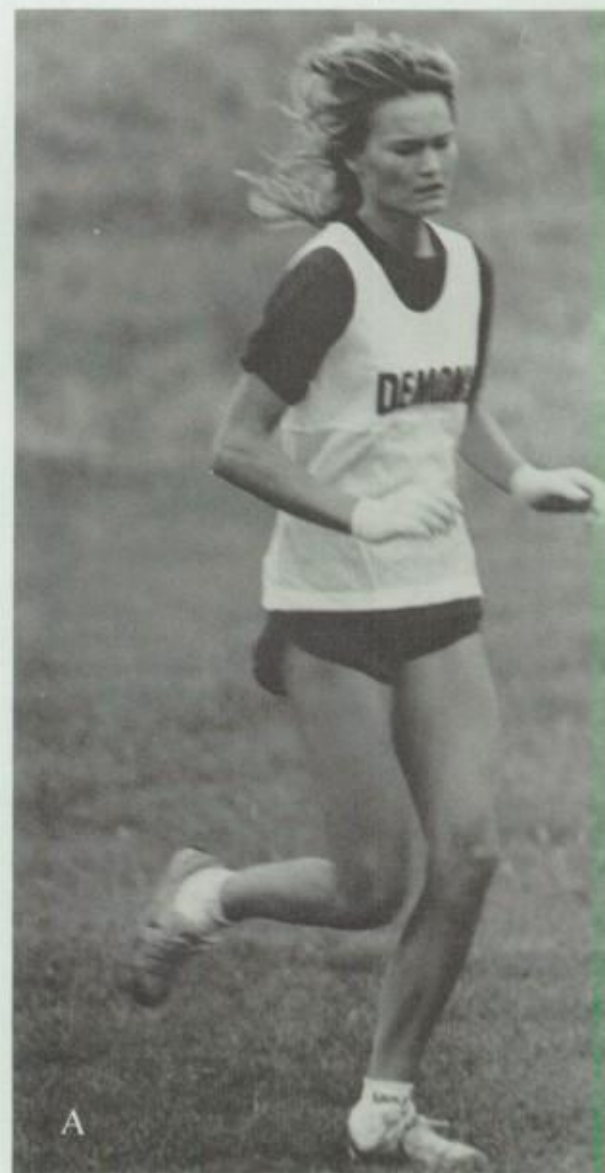

The boys had a good season until the last meet, which was the state meet. They still finished with a respectable sixth. The boys team had been in third place all year but, according to Anderson, "the good runners just had a bad day."

State finishers for the girls were senior Barb Wagner in fourth, sophomore Julie Nelson in seventeenth. Katie McDonald came in nineteenth, Marnie Nordstrom twenty-third, and Lisa Walker twenty-ninth. For the boys, Curt Kukert came in fifth, Norm Kukert, who had only lost to two people all year, came in eleventh and Robert Hoover in thirtieth.

Award winners for the teams were Barb Wagner and Norm and Curt Kukert for Most Valuable. Most Improved went to Katie McDonald and Robert Hoover, and Rookie of the Year was given to Sue Borg and Ben Danielson.

To sum up his sixth season as coach of cross-country, Anderson remarked, "We had a super season and I'm proud of all of our runners."

Girls Have a Learning Season

Tracey Evanson

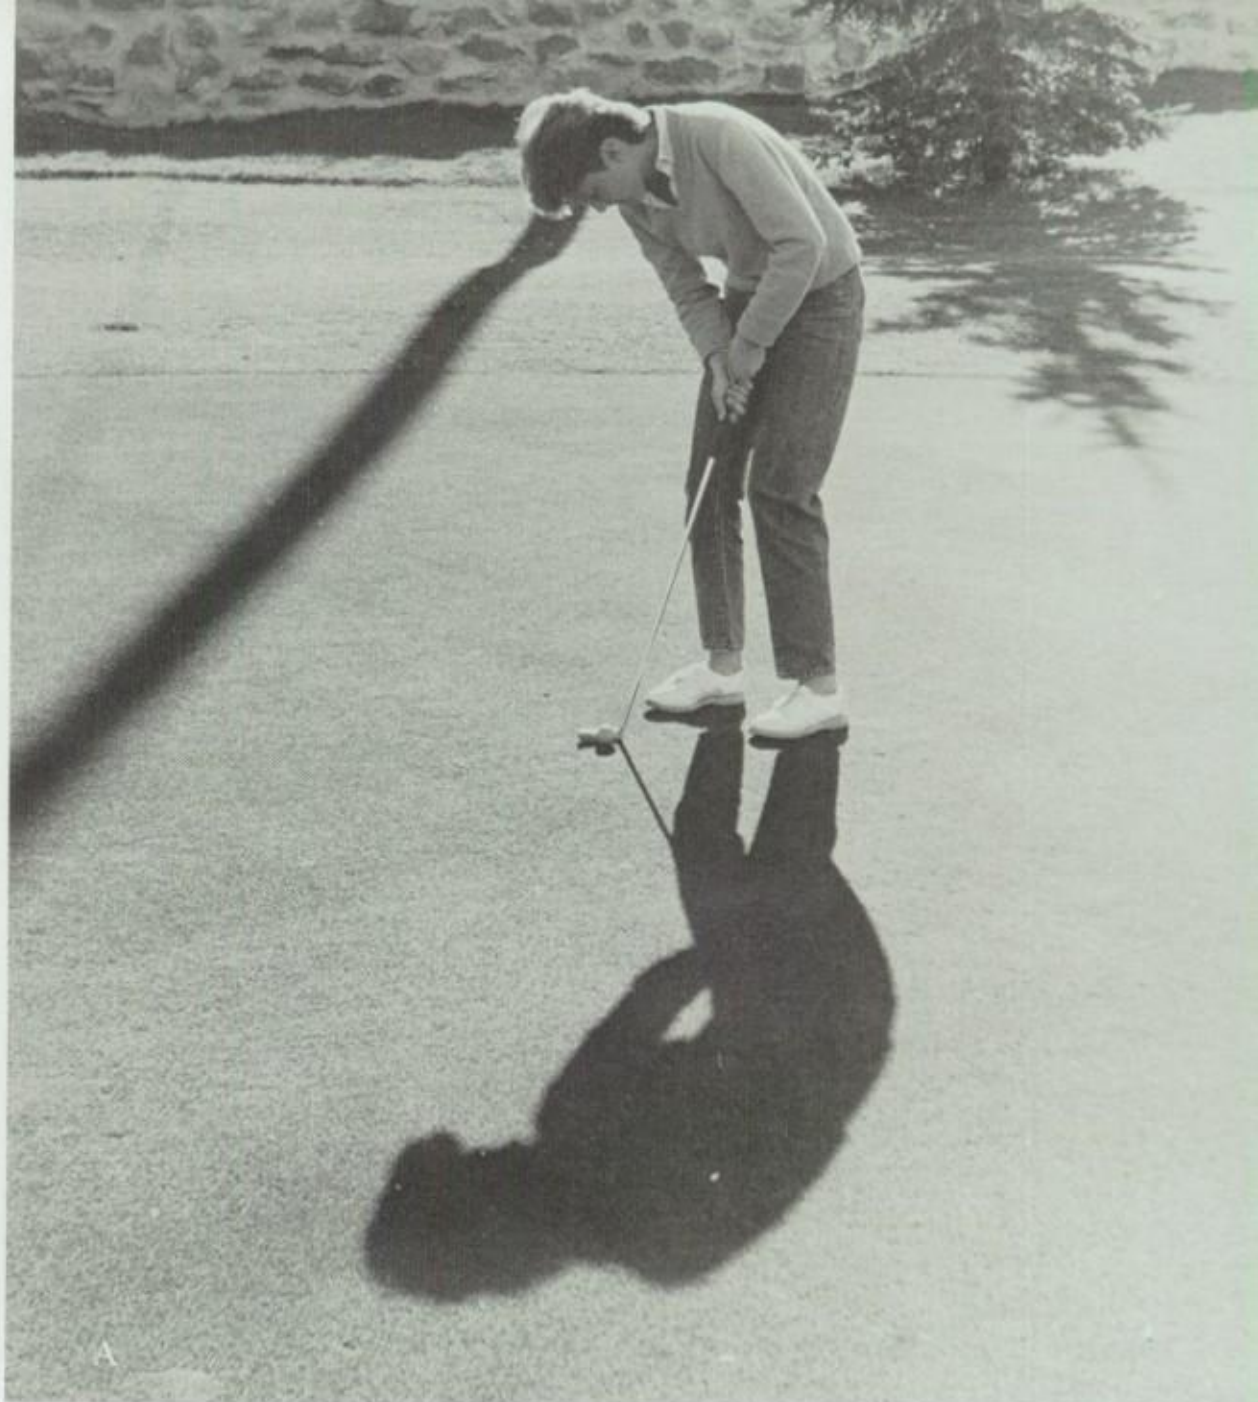

"It was a rebuilding year for the girls last season," stated Coach Lee DeForest. The bulk of the team consisted of junior high girls. Most of the girls were new to the game but improved steadily as the season progressed.

Two girls, Dana Davidson and Ann Pfeifle, returned to the team last fall. Pfeifle said, "It was a learning year. We should do better next season though." All of the girls are coming back next year so the experience this year should help.

Practice began in August and their season started in September and ran to the beginning of October. The girls practiced every day if the weather permitted. They competed at three invitationals during the season and received third place at two and fourth place at the other one. They went to Jamestown for the Mid Season Classic and came home with 13th place. Towards the end of September the girls went to Minot for WDA. The team took fourth place. The final competition was at Fargo in October where the girls took 13th.

A Most Valuable Player award wasn't given. Coach DeForest felt that it wasn't fair to single out one person. DeForest commented, "They all did a really good job." Although this award wasn't given some of the girls were recognized at the fall's letterman's award banquet. Pfeifle and Davidson were two year letter winners and Annette Thomsen was a first year letter winner.

Swimmer Sets Record

Jay Gorsegner

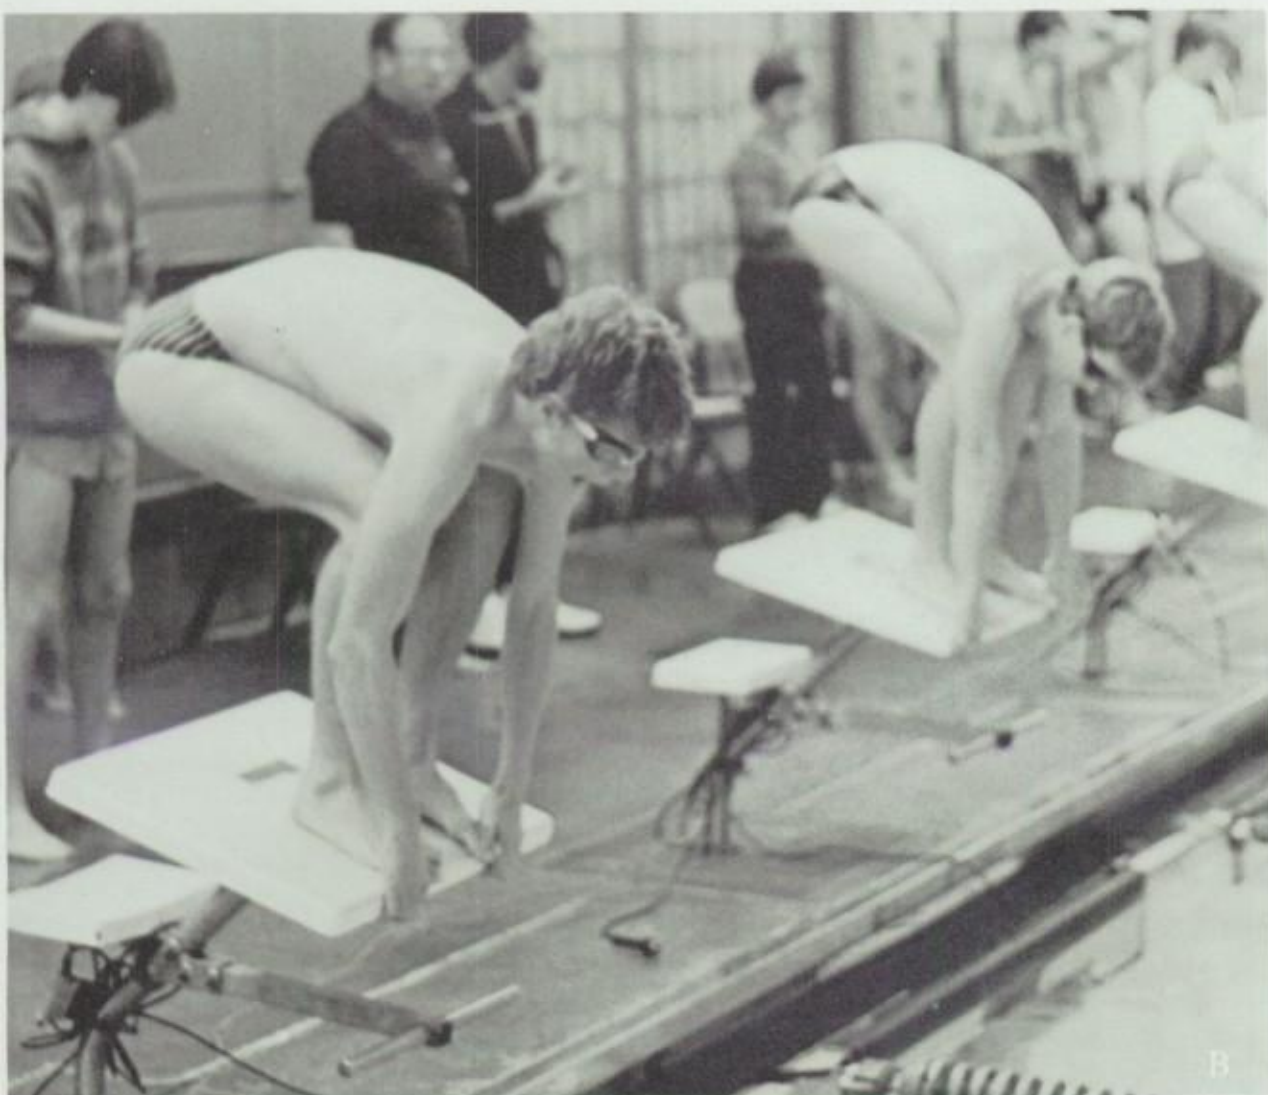

The 1985-86 Demon boy's swim team failed to succeed as a team but had success individually.

The young team consisting mostly of sophomores and freshmen won only one meet all year. The teams performance was expected by coach Phil Bingenheimer before the North Invitational. He stated, "We should beat three or four of the teams. There's some pretty good competition." The Demons did just that placing seventh out of 11 teams. In the WDA meet the Demons finished fourth. In the state meet in Grand Forks they placed a disappointing sixth.

Individually Doni Kashinejad set a school record in the 100-butterfly with a time of 59.78 seconds.

Individual awards were given to Doni Kashinejad for most valuable swimmer. Guy Lee for most improved. The hardest worker award was given to Kashinejad and foreign exchange student Alex Adrichem. Most spirited was also given to Adrichem.

Volleyball Takes Third

Lisa Nagel

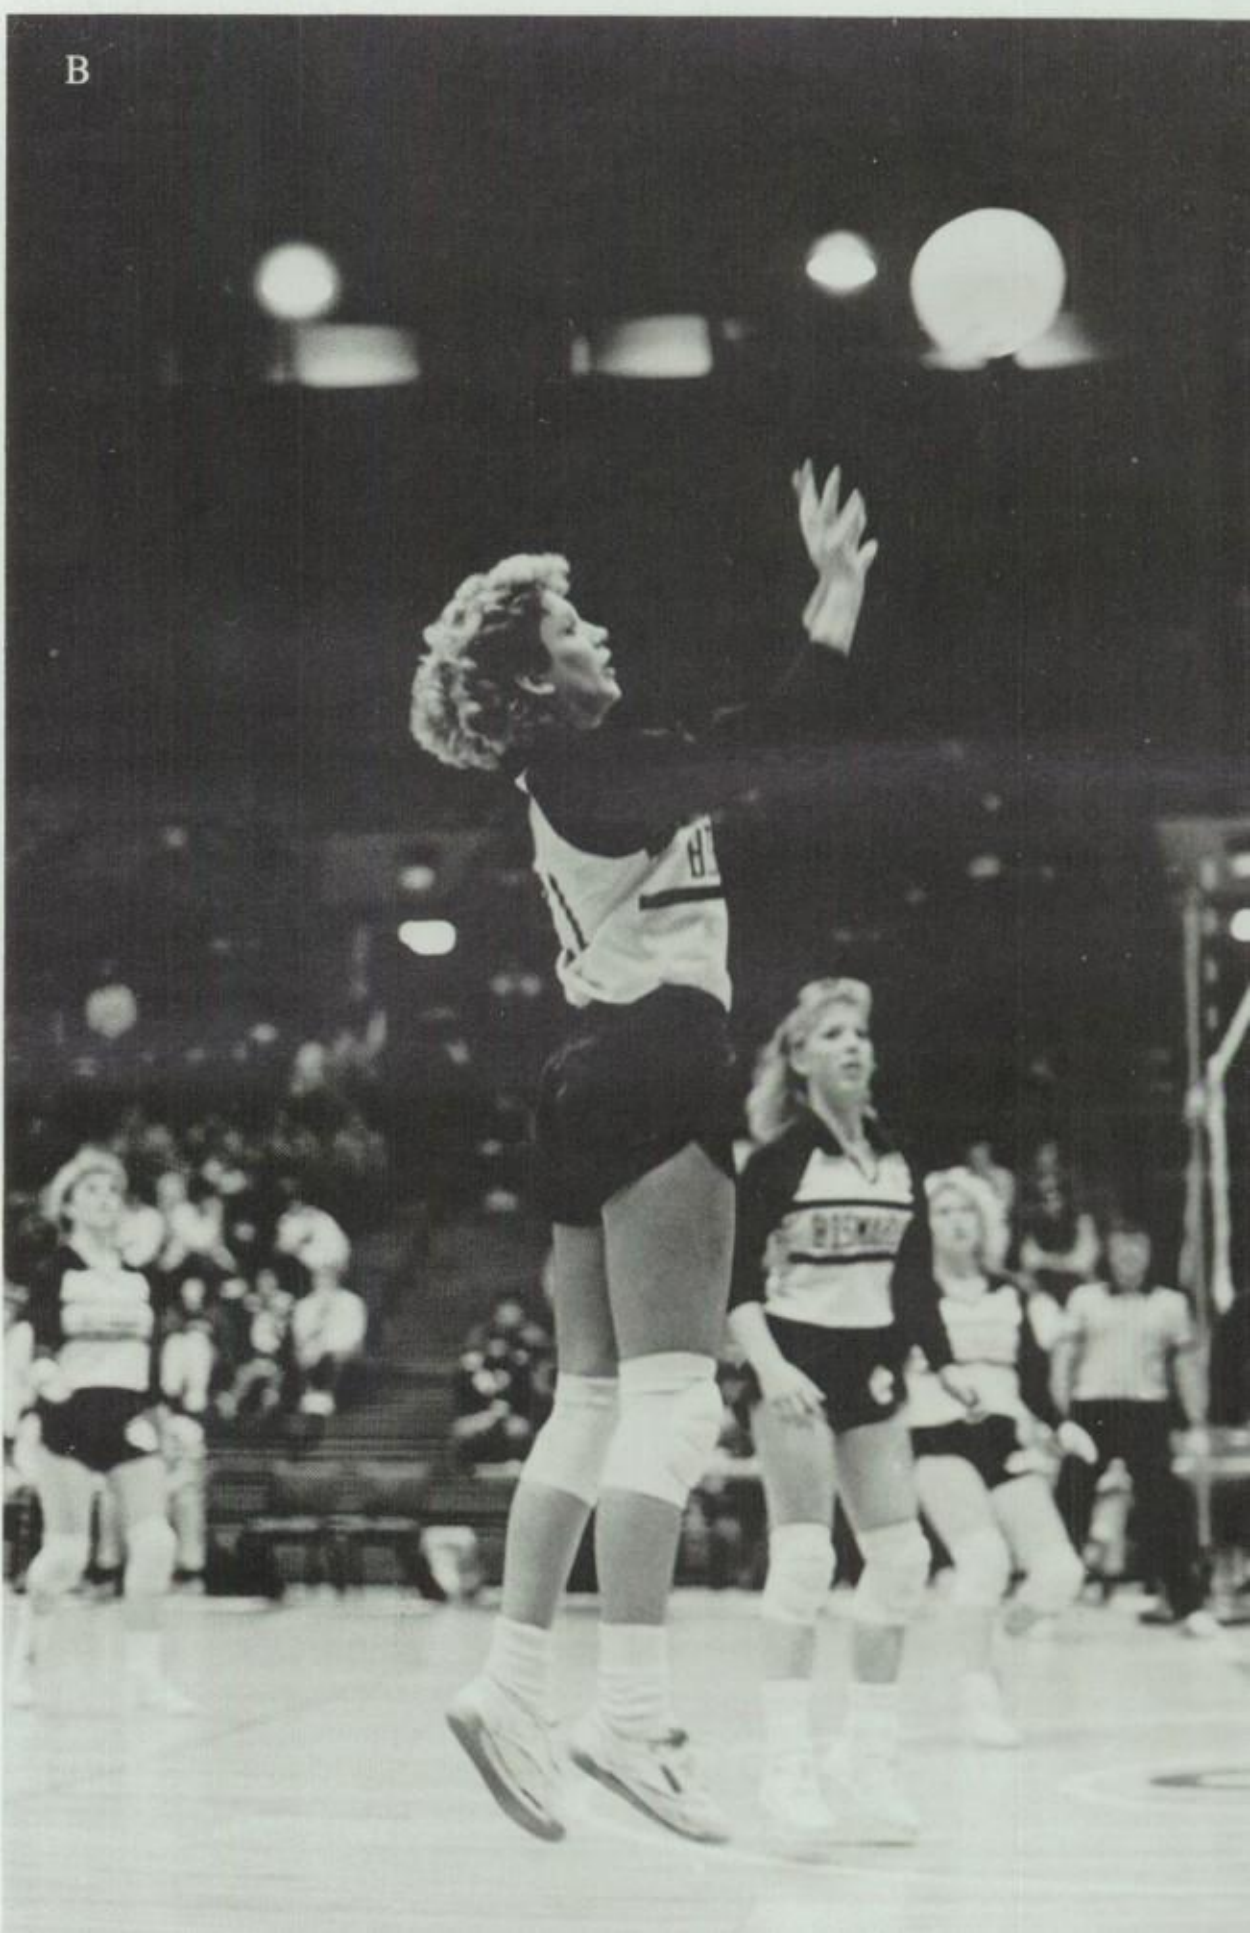

The Bismarck High School girls volleyball team had a successful season. "We worked hard and had a fantastic year," commented Nancy Hill who was one of the six starters on the team.

The team, consisting of 12 girls, practiced for one and one-half hours a day, five days a week.

The results of practice were evident as the team improved throughout the year. The Demon girls finished the regular season by placing third at the girls' state volleyball tournament. Ihmels stressed the importance of the individuals contribution to the team. "The girls, each with her own individual talents, worked together to win two out of the three games played for third place."

Participation in volleyball was beneficial to the students involved. According to Ihmels, "The students have a responsibility to the team, the coach, and the school." The students learned discipline and were encouraged to earn good grades. These factors were important in determining eligibility. Team members learned to make goals and to achieve them."

Rhonda Levin and Lori Legler assisted Ihmels in coaching and with other tasks. They helped organize events such as the Christmas party and pizza parties. Twila Wolf, Lisa Patneaud, Rosanne Der, and Christi Opp were student managers.

Wrestlers Take State

Amy Sanborn

The Bismarck High wrestlers won the state championship during the 1985-86 season. "It was one of the most satisfying victories we ever had; it would be hard to find a better example of team effort," stated Mike Schaff who returned this year as head coach.

It was also the first time in North Dakota history that a team won the state championship without having a single state champion. "Sure it felt bad, first losing the 'Streak,' and then not having any state champs; but taking state as a team, the way we did, was the best feeling in the world. It made up for it all," said Troy Stanton the 145 pounder.

The Demon team consisted of 60 students with 18 top wrestlers on the varsity squad. Their dedication showed as they practiced every day for an hour and a half. Improvement was noted in their performance at state.

The Demons first loss in 14 years came against Century when the "Streak" was broken. The 1985-86 record stood at 175 straight dual wrestling victories. The loss was also the first for Schaff who started as head coach with 126 straight dual wins. "Everyone was wondering how the Demons would react to the loss," said Roger Hilzendager, assistant coach for the varsity squad, "They bounced back and won state which is a good indication of the caliber of the kids in the program," added Hilzendager.

Kelly Kringlie, a 167 pounder, had the best record at 33-2, the most pins at 22, and was most valuable wrestler. Lance Anderson had the second best record at 31-5 followed by Tom Fischer at 33-8 and Doug Haux at 33-8-1. Troy Stanton set two school records for most reversals with 52 and two point near falls with 38. Stanton earned most improved wrestler. Andre Twite had the most takedowns with 94 while Tom Fischer had the most three point near falls with 43.

Schaff appreciated the help of his capable assistant coaches. "The assistant coaches were a tremendous help, without them and the administrators the program could never flourish," stated Schaff. The new junior varsity coaches were Jim Cornell and Curt Haux. Haux who was a state champion for the Demons in 1980 studied at Wachter Junior High during the 1985-86 school year and Cornell taught at Simle Junior High.

Stated Schaff, "Obviously they were able to achieve their goal because they were the state champions."

Hockey Team Gains Experience

Ann Von Bank

"It was a disappointing year, but the outlook for next season is bright," commented assistant coach, Ken Erickson. With only six returning players, the team was young and inexperienced. The two seniors, Todd Johnson and David Bauer, were team captains and both were given the Most Valuable Player award. Todd Johnson was the leading scorer, followed by David Bauer and Bryan Bauer. Jim Peluso, head coach, commented on the youthfulness of the team, but pointed out that there were fourteen first year letter winners.

Because of the team's inexperience, the coaches had to work harder than usual to push the team. Basic skills such as passing, shooting and skating were stressed to strengthen the abilities of the players.

One deciding factors in the team's record was the lack of offensive plays resulting in actual goals. "Many of our losses were by only one goal, but we had a strong defensive effort," commented Erickson. "The losses were frustrating to both the team and coaches," continued

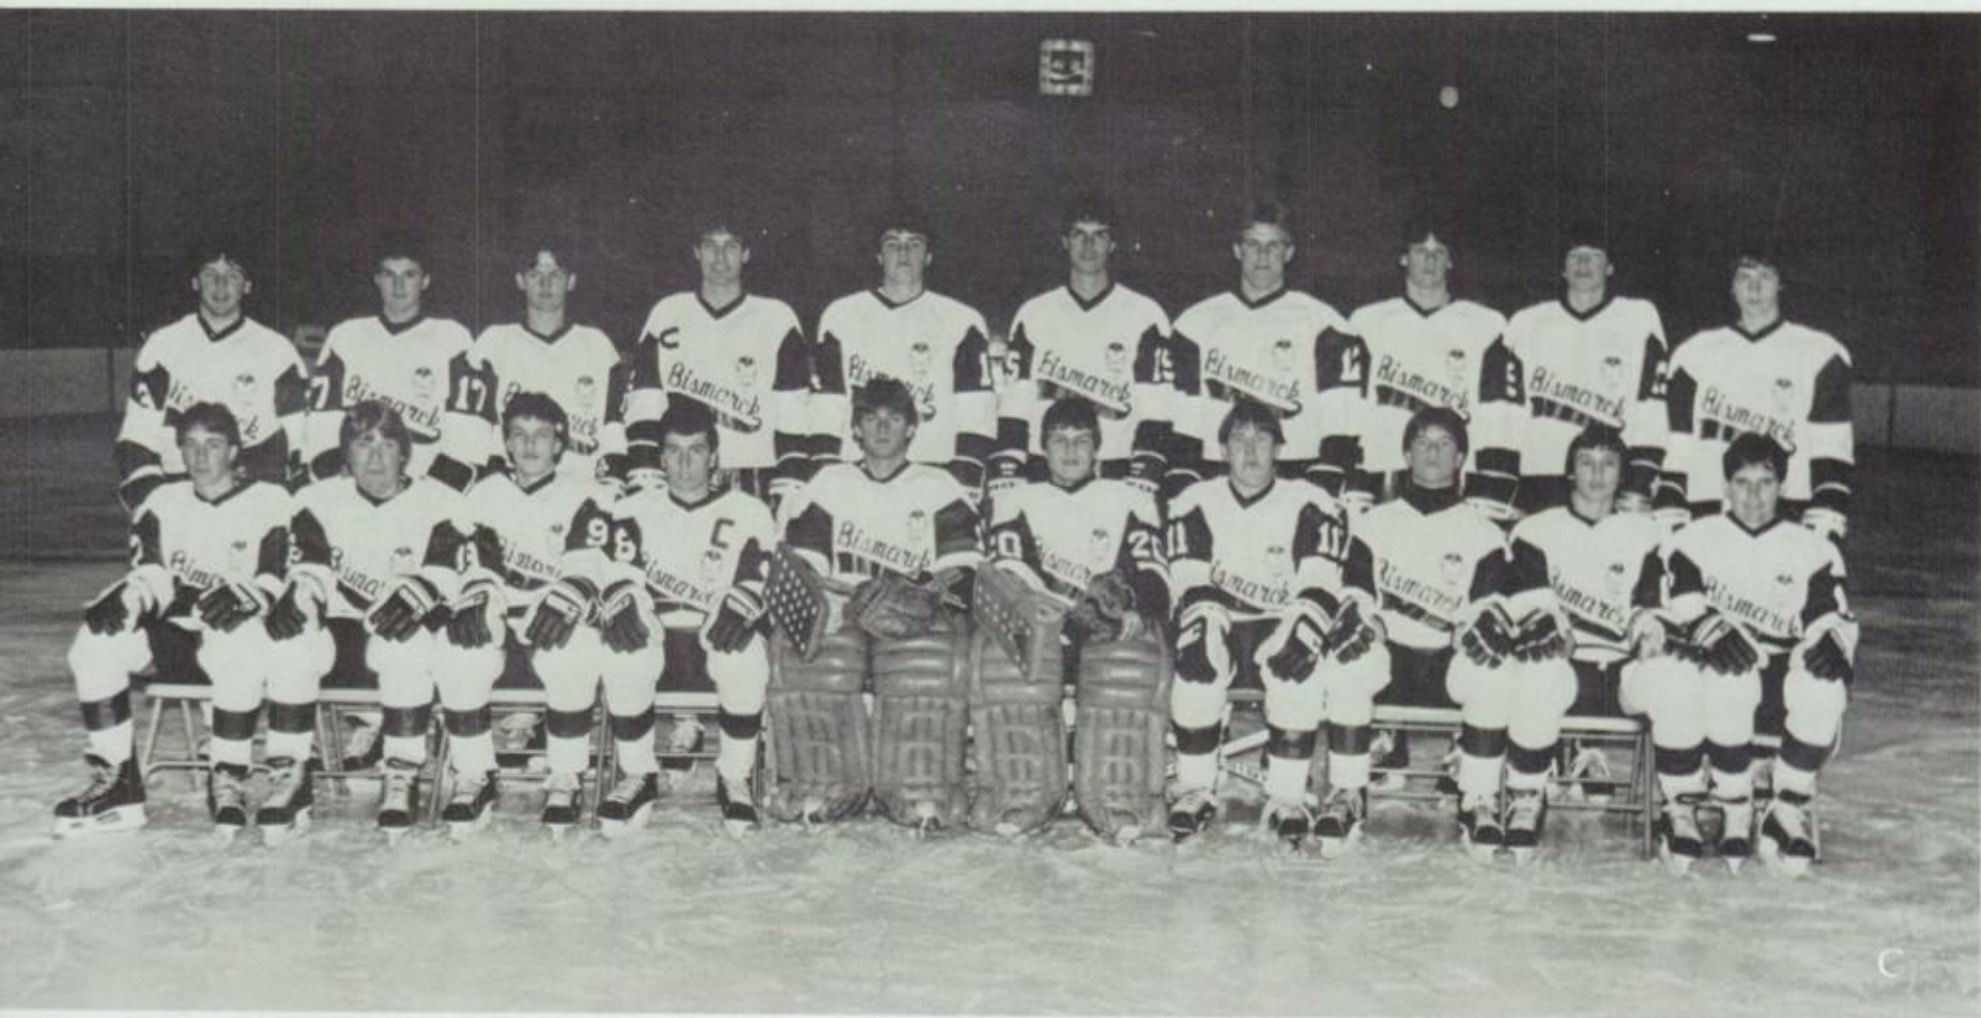

Erickson, "but the experience gained this year will help the team to perform better in the future."

Although the varsity team's record was only six wins and thirteen losses, the team's best game was shortly after Christmas when they beat Grafton, six to four.

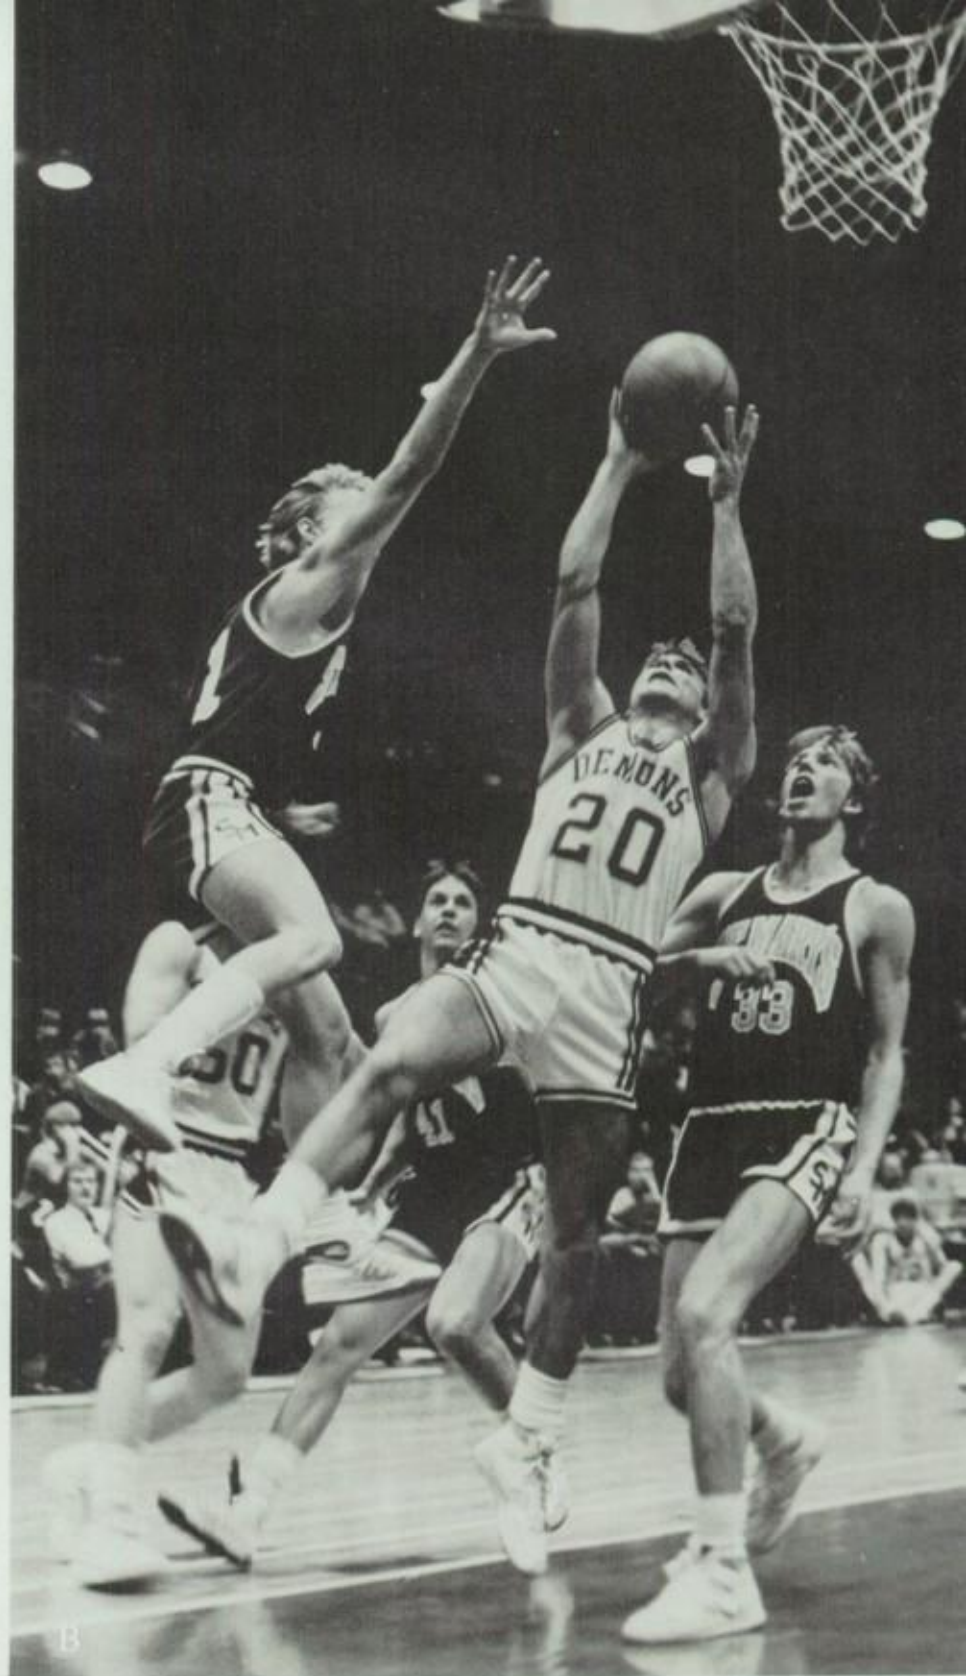

The junior varsity team had a more encouraging year. Consisting of ten members, the team ended the year on a high note, winning their last four games. They finished the season with a thirteen and four record.

Young Team Improves Steadily

Lynn Helm

"I was very satisfied with the progress made by the youngest team that I've ever coached at Bismarck High," commented coach Dwite Gorder about the 1985-86 basketball team. According to Gorder, having a young team put less pressure on the players to win, but the Demons showed their strong, quick skill by improving their playing every week throughout their season.

The Demons participated in the Cobar Cage Classic during Christmas vacation. They won this tournament which was held at Concordia College in Moorhead, Minnesota.

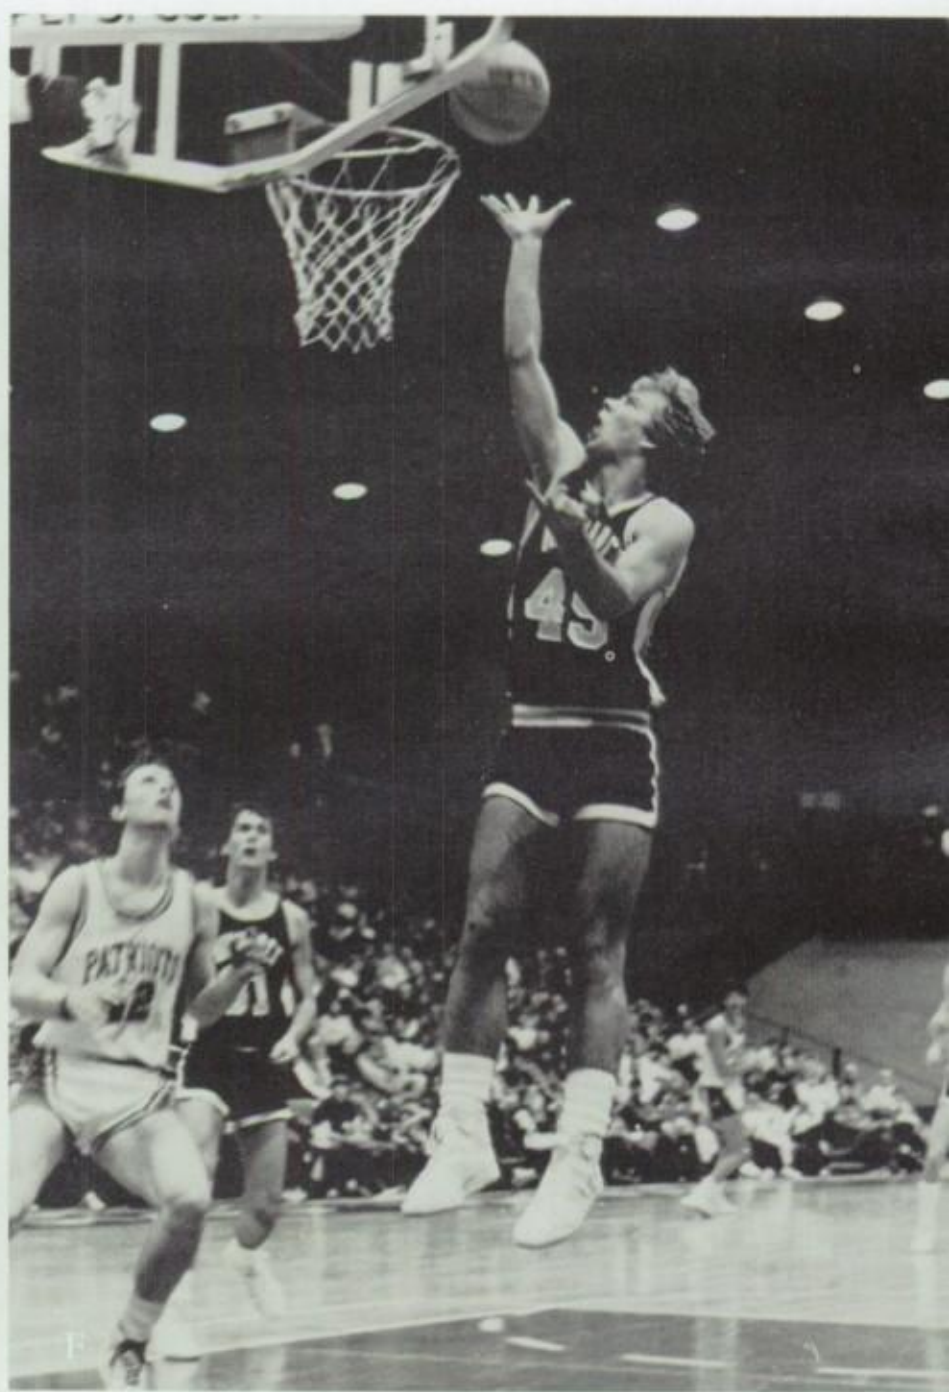

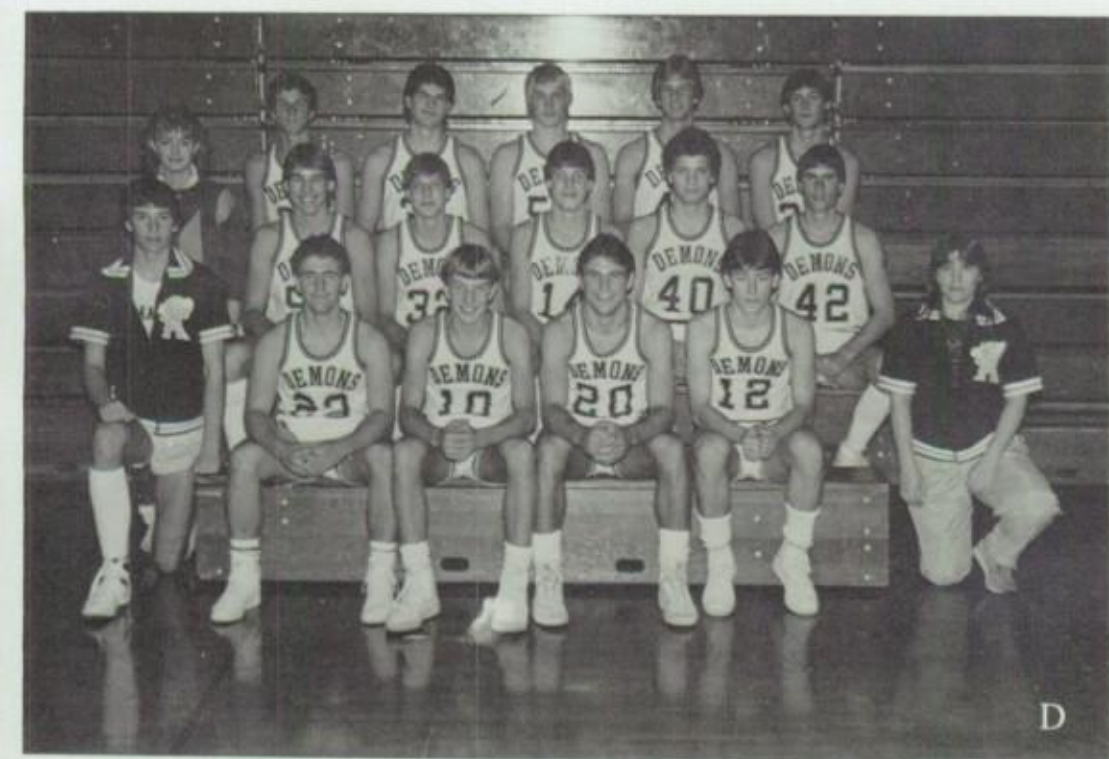

Coach Gorder believed the highlight of their season was the eight game winning streak after Christmas. Along with winning the games at the Concordia Tournament the Demons defeated Century 53-41. They continued their streak by crushing Trinity, 76-42, at their next game. In addition to the good balance of both great defensive and offensive players, Gorder added that, "their strongest point was the ability of all the different personalities of the players to work together as a team."

Although the Demons didn't make it to the state tournament, they made it to the semi-final round of the WDA tournament but fell short against Dickinson, 48-57.

"I believe the guys put all their effort into playing some great games at the WDA tournament," concluded Gorder.

At the end of their season many players were given awards for their outstanding qualities throughout the year. Most Valuable Player and Best Freethrow Shooter was awarded to Bob Upgren. Steve Feeney was named Best Hustler and Defensive Player, and Troy Hartmann received the Best Rebounder award. The Demons finished their year with a season record of 16-7.

Steve Miller was the coach of the J.V. basketball team which had a final season record of 15-4.

Sophs Show Improvement

Nancy Hill

"Improvement throughout the year was good" said Dave Narum, coach of the sophomore team. "Most everyone starts on an equal level and then improves."

Even though the team didn't make it to the championship bracket, the team had some high moments. Earning a fifth place standing after losing the first round of the tournament and beating Century in that tournament after losing to them twice during the season were high points. In all games the margin of victory was narrow.

A point Narum stresses was how well the team played together, considering that they came from different schools. Team member Scott Winter agreed with Narum. "It was fun playing with people that you've never played with before," said Winter.

Jeff Peterson and Chris Wood led the team in scoring. The sophomores finished with a successful 9-8 season.

Jeff Peterson summarized the feeling of his teammates by saying "it was a disappointing but fun year."

Team Pleases Coach

Lori Tipton

The 1985-1986 Bismarck High girls' tennis team with 40 members was an exceptionally large team. The majority of the team members were junior high students, a fact which pleased coach Jane Hientzman who saw real potential for her young team. Three other members who added special interest to the team were foreign exchange students Ulrike Degner, Tove Altvall, and Sacha Huber.

Despite the fact that the team was young and generally inexperienced and that it had only three returning players, coach Hientzman felt that the team was an excellent one. Hientzman commented that she was "extremely pleased" with their successful season which ended with a 7-2 finish in individual competition and a 9-5 finish is overall tournament standings.

The potential of some of the newest members of the team became evident during the WDA tournament where sophomore Christi Haman and eighth-grader Jennifer Thompson qualified by taking fourth place. This enabled them to advance to the regionals where they earned a seventh place finish.

Junior Nancy Hill and freshman Ann Gronberg were also very successful players. Hill finished number one in the region and Gronberg finished number three despite decisive wins over the number two seeds in the region. Hientzman felt these players were very close in ability and said that they often reversed victories in individual competition. Hill and Gronberg faced each other in individual competition in the semi-final round at state with Gronberg earning a second place finish and Hill earning a third place finish. Coach Hientzman commented that having team mates face each other in competition created a difficult coaching situation for her and caused some discomfort for the players as well.

Sophomore Mark Miller was student manager and Tove Mandigo was assistant coach.

Demons Excel in Field

Nancy Hill

"We were excellent in the field events, and had a lot of good teamwork in the relays," said head coach Harold Hammeren of the boys' track team.

The individual state placers in the field events were first places to Howard Hausauer in shot put and Guy Chase in the discus; third place to Howard Hausauer in discus; fifth place to Steve Feeney in javelin and sixth place to Doug Schirado in long jump.

In the running events fourth place event to Troy Barker in the 110 hurdles; sixth place to the team of Torey Hornbacher, Scott Weigum, David Bauer, and Jeff Keller in the 400-meter relay and to the team of Troy Barker, Shawn Brink, Warren Schatz, and Ben Danielson in the 3200-meter relay; and fifth place to the team of Jeff Keller, Shawn Brink, Troy Barker, and Warren Schatz in the 1600-meter relay.

Special awards at the end of the year were given to Howard Hausauer as Most Valuable Field Person, Troy Barker as Most Valuable Runner, and Most Valuable Sophomore was given to Scott Weigum.

Relay Team Breaks Record

Dawn Lervik

The 1985-86 girls' track team consisted of 35 members. Eight of the thirty-five were returning seniors.

Coach Beverly Cross felt that the team had an "okay-type season." The highlight of the season was tying for second place in WDA. Senior Fawn Hammeren felt that their second place win was well deserved. "We worked really hard," Hammeren commented. "Everyone did a good job."

A relay team consisting of seniors Barb Wagner and Katie McDonald, junior Marnie Nordstrom, and sophomore Angela Forrest broke the previous record for the 3200-meter relay. The four member team ran the relay in 9:43.

Two more outstanding track members were senior Beth Klecker and junior Twila Wolf. Klecker competed in both the high jump and the long jump. Wolf went undefeated in the javelin throughout the entire season.

The team placed fourteenth at State. Ten of their thirteen points were earned by Twila Wolf's first place win in the javelin.

Cross felt hopeful that next years season would go better. She commented, "A lot of good sophomores and juniors are coming back." An advantage for the 1986-87 season is that freshmen will be considered part of the high school team, allowing them to run with the BHS team.

Schools Combine

Lori Tipton

The 1985-86 gymnastics season was an exciting one for two Bismarck high schools. Bismarck and Century high schools combined their gymnastics teams because of a lack of participants in the sport. The combining led to a second place victory in the North Dakota State High School Gymnastics championships.

Bismarck High's leading gymnast, Rachel Johnson, took first and received national honors on the uneven bars. Johnson has been in gymnastics since the age of six. After nine years of diligent practice Johnson has achieved the class one level. Through a private gymnastics club she has competed on both regional and state levels.

When asked about the combining of the teams Johnson replied, "I felt the combining of the teams was a good idea because it gave the teams a chance to do well in the state tournament."

Johnson was BHS's sole team member; however, Patti Fetch and Kristen Keller, two Junior High team members, planned to attend BHS as sophomores. Other team members from CHS included Tami Russell, Roberta Scott, Leah Ehliis, and Julie Langemo. Their coach was Curt Sherbrook.

Golfers Take Second

Kari Olsen

"I felt that the season was a success, even though we didn't take first in state," commented coach Lee DeForest, referring to the fact that the team took first place honors the three previous years in a row.

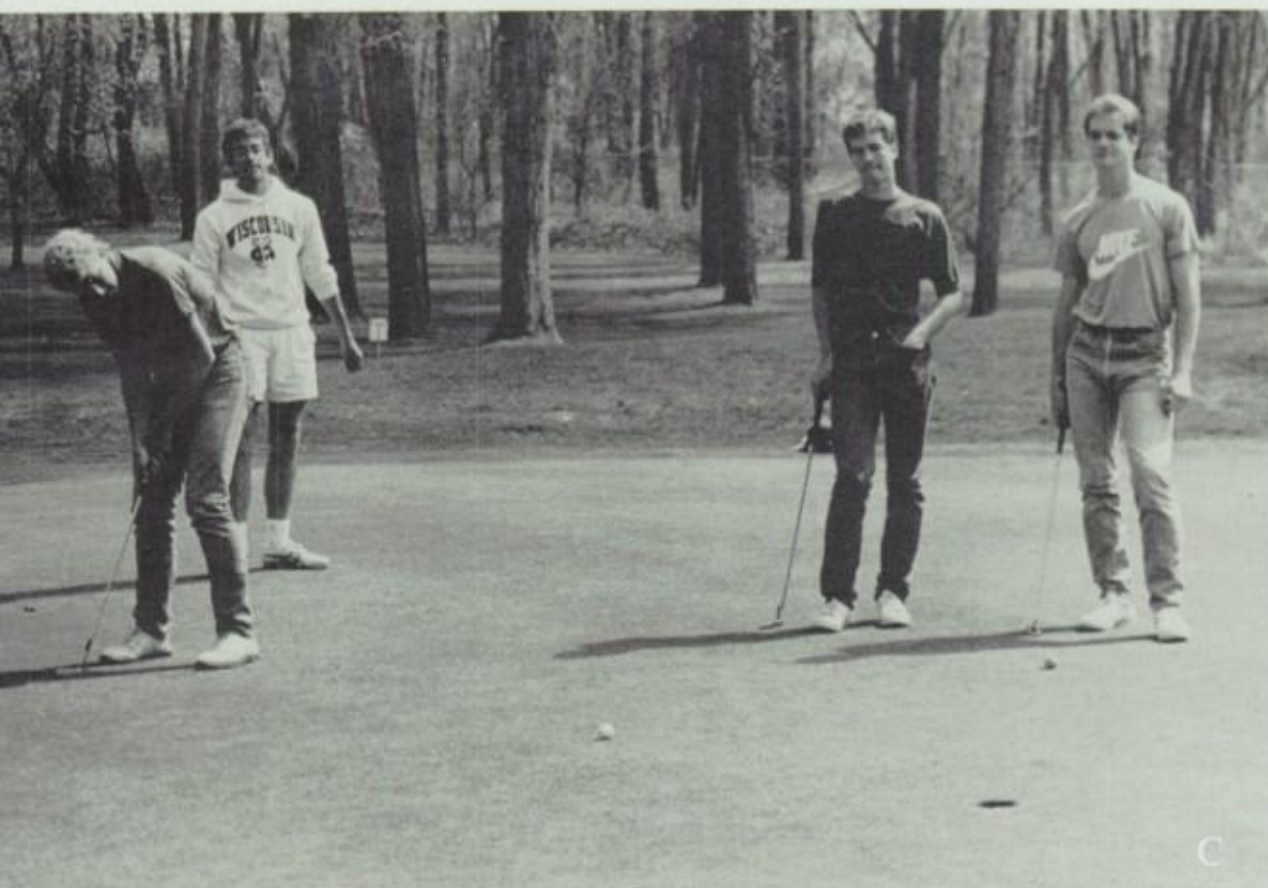

Twenty-four members finished. They participated in eight meets, winning five and taking second in the other three.

Coach DeForest felt that the team did not take first in state because they didn't have enough time for preparation. He stated, "We got a late start because of graduation, so we didn't have enough time to practice on Red River's course." DeForest felt that the BHS team was equal in ability to the Red River team that took first, but Red River had the home course advantage. The BHS boys' golf team finished off the season, taking second place honors in the state tournament.

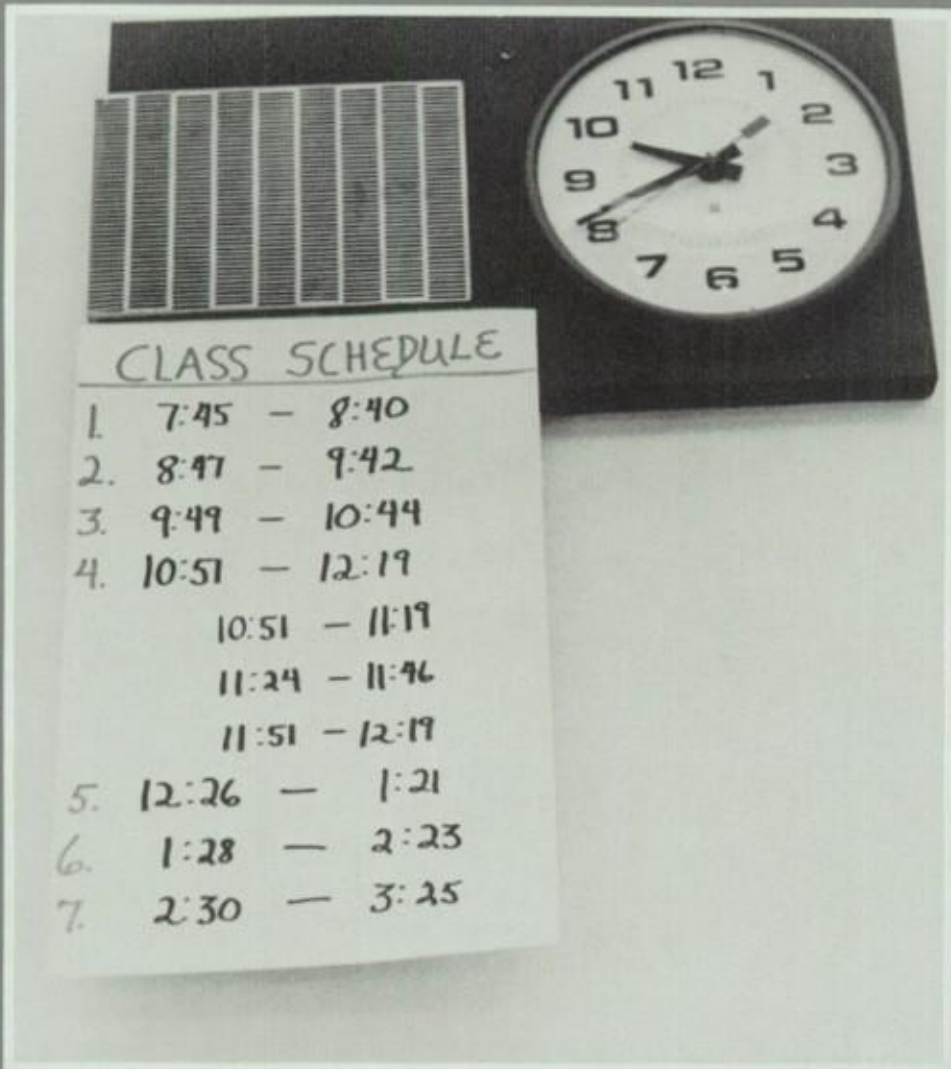

Although three important players graduated, coach DeForest felt that the team should have another good season next year. He commented, "There are a lot of good kids coming back."

Valedictorians Set Goals

Jay Gorseigner

Kim Fettig: Fettig was a member of the Hi-Herald staff. Her plans include attending Moorhead State College where she plans to major in elementary education.

Nancy Kadrmas: Kadrmas was a member of the volleyball team, the girl's track team student manager in her sophomore year, the financial chairman for the Happening, and the secretary-treasurer for FCA. Her plans include attending NDSU where she hopes to major in psychology.

Dawn Lervik: Lervik was a member of photo club for two years, a member of French club for two years, and a member of the Prairie Breezes yearbook for two years. In her senior year she served as editor of that publication. Her post-graduation plans include attending NDSU where she hopes to major in mechanical engineering. After college she would like to move to a big city in a warmer climate.

David Lindberg: Lindberg was a member of the concert band and jazz band. After high school he plans to attend Brandeis University and major in nuclear physics.

Ann Mathison: Mathison was a member of the concert band, orchestra, French club, yearbook and 4-H. Mathison's plans include attending Stanford University where she hopes to major in computer science. After college she hopes to have a career as a computer engineer, win a two million dollar lottery, retire, ride horses, and design computers the rest of her life.

Paul Odney: Odney was involved in football and golf in his sophomore year. In his senior year he was a member of the D-Men-Nuts and had several small parts in Bye Bye Birdie. His plans after high school include attending Concordia College. Odney is undecided about a major field of study.

Shannon Pearce: Pearce was involved in Latin club, French club, German club, and was a Junior Rotarian. Her plans include attending Bryn Mawr College where she intends to major in Russian. She would like to obtain a doctorate in Russian and a degree in political science and work in the foreign service.

Terry Stockert: Stockert was involved in German club. His plans include attending UND where he hopes to major in electrical engineering. After college Stockert hopes to get a high paying job and relax before getting married.

Brian Walker: Walker was a three year member of the concert band and concert choir and a two year member of the New Generation. He was also active in the theater department. After high school he plans to attend Drake University and major in biology with an emphasis on zoology. With his degree he would like to do field research or become a curator of a large zoo.

Jim Walker: Jim was involved in photo club, a member of the Hi-Herald staff, and the cross country team. After high school he plans to attend UND then the University of Colorado to major in business administration, computer science or photo journalism.

classes

Sophs Choose Queen

Ann Von Bank

The sophomores had an active year. They started the year by nominating Brenda Dockter as their homecoming queen candidate. The student body later chose Dockter as their queen. Later the sophomores nominated Allen Kiefer for spring king.

In February, during the third annual class competition month, the class of '88 did well. They took first in the relay night and second in the hall decorating competitions. They also took the award for the most people participating in the relay night. Despite a great effort, the sophomores took third in the overall competition.

The following students served as class officers for the 1985-86 school year: Amy Olsen, president; Greg Klein, vice-president; Trisha Iten, treasurer; Cheri Hoovestal, secretary; and Penny Wilson as class adviser.

What Makes You Different From Others?

Cheri Wasness: "I'm not scared to wear what I want. That's what's great about BHS, you can be yourself."

Eric Rudolf: "I feel I'm different because I have a hard time deciding what my favorite class is...it would be computers, but it's too hard to understand; it would be biology, but there are too many tests; it would be English, but we have to do speeches; it would be algebra, but I have too much homework, so I guess that leaves Spanish."

Mike Imler: "I like dehydrated pineapple pieces."

Laurie Walker: "The thing that sets me apart from most others is that I try my hardest to do my best. Life is what you make it."

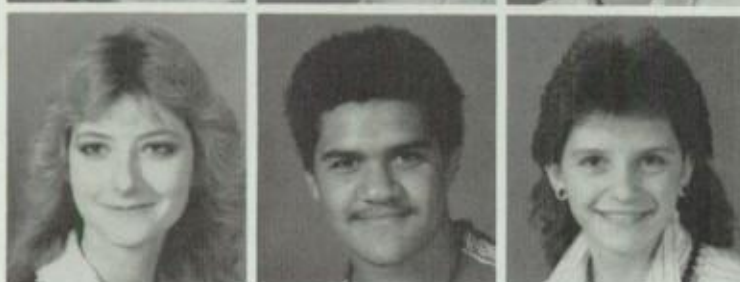

Luke Cook: "I own the third dimension. I'm just letting everyone use it."

Todd Flanagan: "I'm just a clone of society."

What Makes You Different From Others?

Kristi Opp: "Everything. Everybody acts different, looks different and feels different than others. Without individuality life would be boring!"

Paul Helten: "It must be my animal magnetism."

Tracey Evanson: "I try to find the good in people instead of the bad. I don't judge them or stereotype by their appearance or by what other people have said about them. I try to accept people as they are."

Paul Fuhrman: "I think the reason I am so different from others is that I honestly enjoy English."

Heidi Nodland: "I try to never frown."

Troy Riedlinger: "I think what makes me different from other people is that I eat in the school cafeteria and everyone else eats at the Demon Corner."

Pat Kellar: "What makes me different from others is the ability to transform into a giant roll of toilet paper and not be noticed."

Cory Mowder: "What sets me apart from others is my silver tooth."

Dana Davidson: "I think it's my personality. I love weird clothes and people who are daring enough to be different."

Sean Wahl: "The thing I feel that sets me apart from other people is that I have a lot of fun in school but I get good grades, too. I am not the most popular guy, but I am friends with a lot of popular people and I know a lot of cool people."

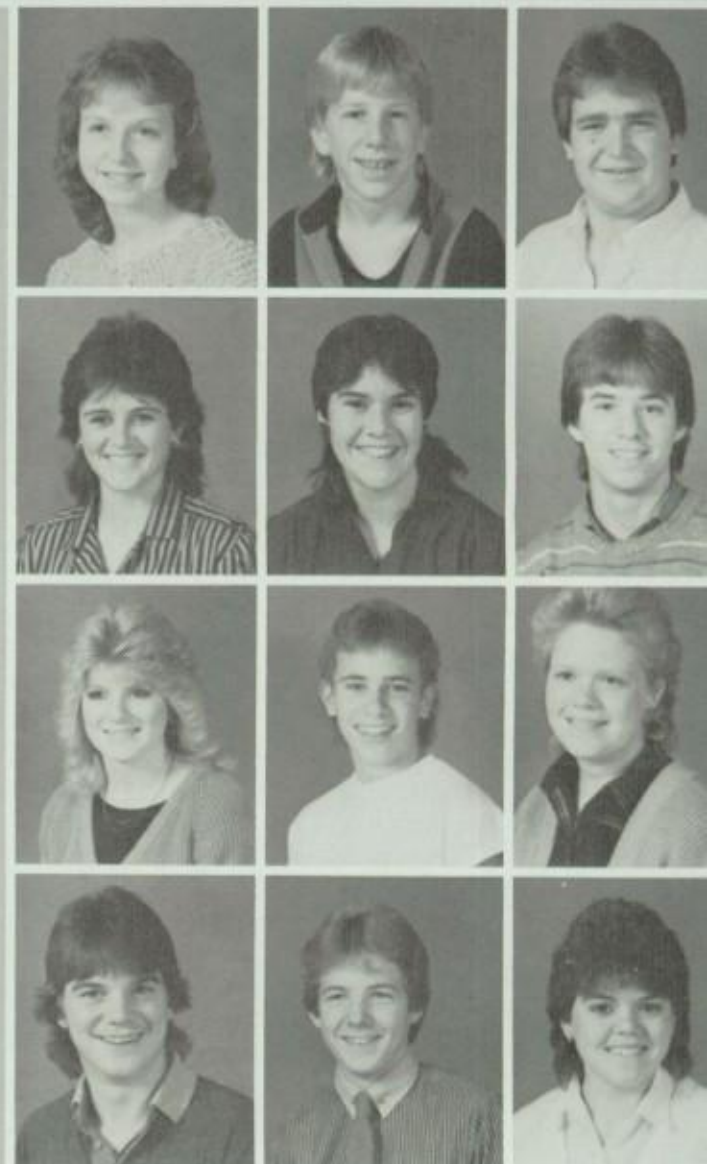

Rochelle McIntire: "I'm different because of my different clothes and my bleached hair with blue on the sides."

Juniors Plan Prom

Tracey Evanson

The 1985-86 year was a busy one for the junior class.

Early in the year they chose Darcie Meyer to be their homecoming queen candidate. Later in the year they nominated Todd Johnson for spring king.

In class competition the class of '87 took first place in both the volleyball games and the most dressed at the pep rally finishing overall with second place.

The juniors planned an excellent prom with a theme of "Puttin On The Ritz." Prom was held on May 3 at the Holiday Inn Hall of Ports and music was provided by "The Blitz." Karen Harkness was the prom adviser.

The following students served as class officers: Nancy Hill, president; Beth Rubenstein, vice-president; Shelley Dale, treasurer; and Liddy Wetsch, secretary. Tim Scott was the junior class adviser.

Sitting: Shelley Dale and Nancy Hill. Standing: Liddy Wetsch and Beth Rubenstein.

What Makes You Different From Others?

Shannon Oliver: "I have 11 toes."

Kim Kiefer: "I want to find someone to love and who loves me back. I have lots of determination for life and like to get things done where most wait till tomorrow. I like sports and to win for me and the school where most won't even try."

Steve Swenson: "My ability not to suck down a whole bowl of the school's red jello in one gulp."

Ulrike Degner: "I feel like I'm completely different from all the other students. It starts with my hair, my way of dressing, my accent, my way of thinking, my jewelery, etc. It must be really obvious to other people that I'm not American."

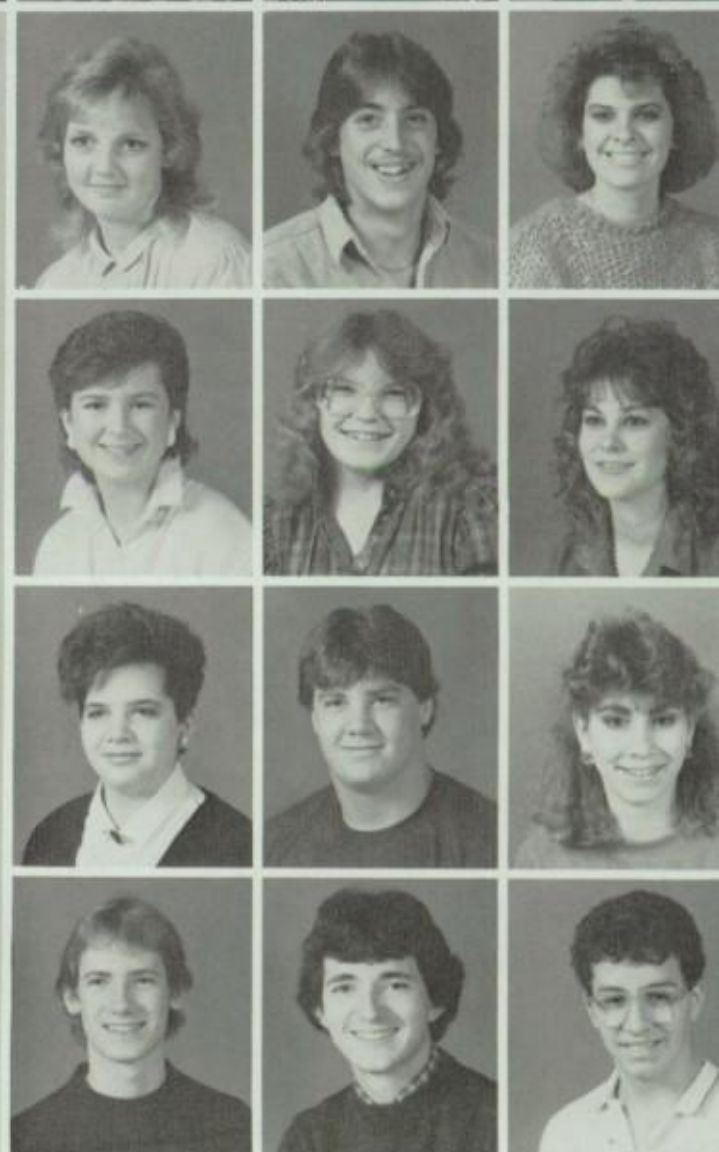

Andrea Kahl: "No matter how dull or dreary the day, I'm always over-energetic."

What Makes You Different From Others?

Carmen Gaarder: "I'm me!"

Rachel L. Gereszek: "I think your own personality sets you apart from others. By being yourself it sets a moral understanding of others. I think that if you're in a good mood it can put others in a good mood also. I would say personality, because that's what people look for in a friend."

Theresa Roehrich: "I'm usually nice to almost everyone. I listen to people when they need an understanding ear, anytime they need someone to talk to."

Kristine Renner: "I'm smaller and shier than the average person. I don't drag main, party, or shop at Daytons, and I like to listen to classical music sometimes. I guess to some people I would be considered different, but maybe not to most."

Liddy Wetsch: "I like being me, rather than a carbon copy of someone else. I am an expressive person and I love to laugh (sometimes when nothing is funny)."

Jenny Lewis: "I'm probably the only person in the world that has a favorite brand of pencils (Wallace Conquest)."

Kris Aune: "I enjoy bathing in cold oatmeal."

Joe Stark: "I care about others and I don't try to be something I'm not."

Joel Leer: "I don't like to conform to what others do just because 'it's the in thing' or 'everybody does it.' I'm my own person and what I want to do."

Tracy Schmit: "I'm always in a good mood, I love to laugh."

Seniors Win Competition

The Senior Class had a very energetic year by showing their spirit in taking first overall in class competition. Some events the seniors took first in were hall decorating, class yell and guy cheerleading.

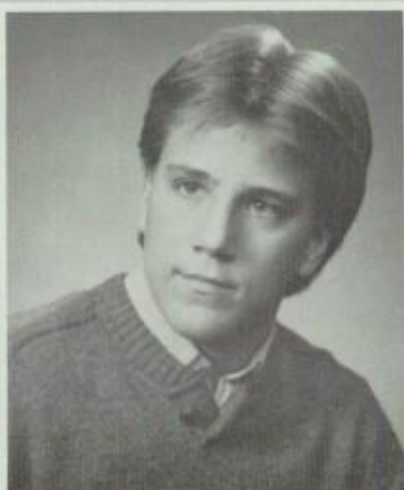

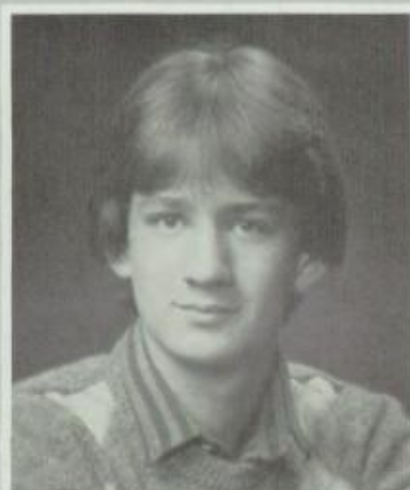

Jenny Lies was nominated as their homecoming queen candidate and their spring king candidate was Mark Opp.

"Dare to Dream" was chosen as the theme of graduation which was held at the Bismarck Civic Center on May 25th. Baccalaureate Service was held at Trinity Luthern Church on May 18th and the Senior Class Banquet and dance took place on April 11th at the Holiday Inn Hall of Ports.

Senior Class officers for the 1985-86 year: Darcie Meyer, president; Tom Wesolowski, vice-president; Loree Vollan, secretary; Julie Fossen, treasurer.

Bonnie Heid: "Kelly Dollinger and I are the only ones who sing the theme from 'Beverly Hillbillies' and 'The Brady Bunch' during lunch in the senior hall."

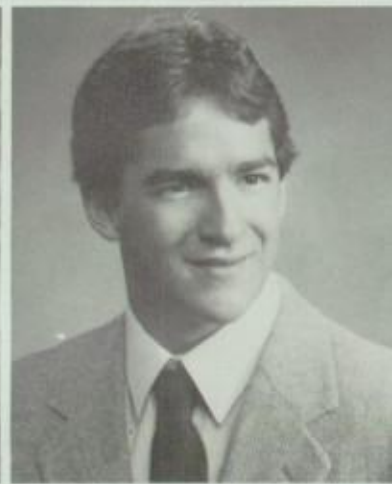

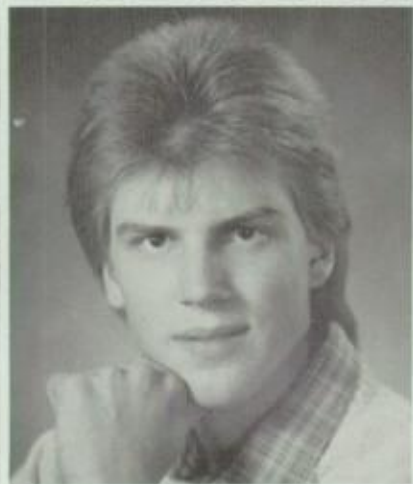

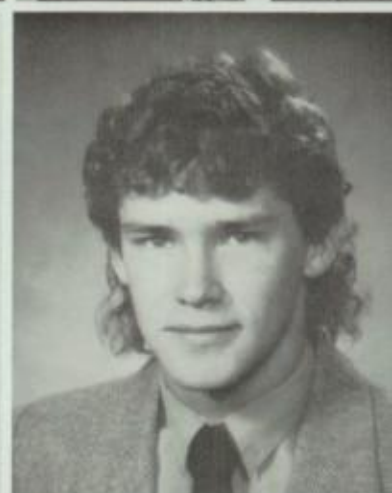

Michele Koski: "I'm normal!"

Mike Vettel: "I come off as a slob and a bum, but - deep, deep, down - I'm a responsible and caring person."

Darcie Meyer: "I have red hair and tan during the summer, where most red heads don't. I'm also known to have short toes - that's why people call me Stubby."

Michelle Erickson: "I love frogs - not many people would put up with them."

Jeff Grant: "I think what sets me apart from others is that I don't wear matching socks."

It's not just that 94.9% of Mary College students are employed
after graduation

It's why

Mary College has:

- 18 degree programs with a curriculum recognized by employers for its quality.
- Internships, practicums, and part time jobs.
- One faculty member for every 15 students. . . allowing time for educational and career assistance.
- Interviewing and job search experiences with professionals in the field.
- A unique May Term "Degree Plus" program designed to help students get that first job.

It's what's to come

In the fall of '86, Mary College becomes the University of Mary and with that you'll see:

- European study, with free travel for students in the May Term Leadership Program.
- Expanded internship programs.
- Career planning and preparation that begins the day you enter the University of Mary.
- Free classes after graduation for those needing further help in their career.

A NEW BEGINNING!

UNIVERSITY OF MARY

In our years at Bismarck High each of us leaves behind a unique and precious treasure, the stamp of our own individual personalities.

There are so many people to thank for their contributions to the 1985-86 yearbook. First of all, I would like to thank all the patrons who sponsored us by purchasing advertising space in our yearbook; the Bismarck Tribune who allowed us to use their picture of the football team (page eight); and all the area photographers who took senior pictures, especially Robert Knutson Photography who also took the sophomore and junior class pictures.

Special thanks go to Jon Werner who drew our title page, to Steve LaFramboise who sold ads for us when everyone else had given up, to Tom Hesford who supplied us with many group shot negatives, and to Phyllis Kocher who patiently typed and retyped all of our copy.

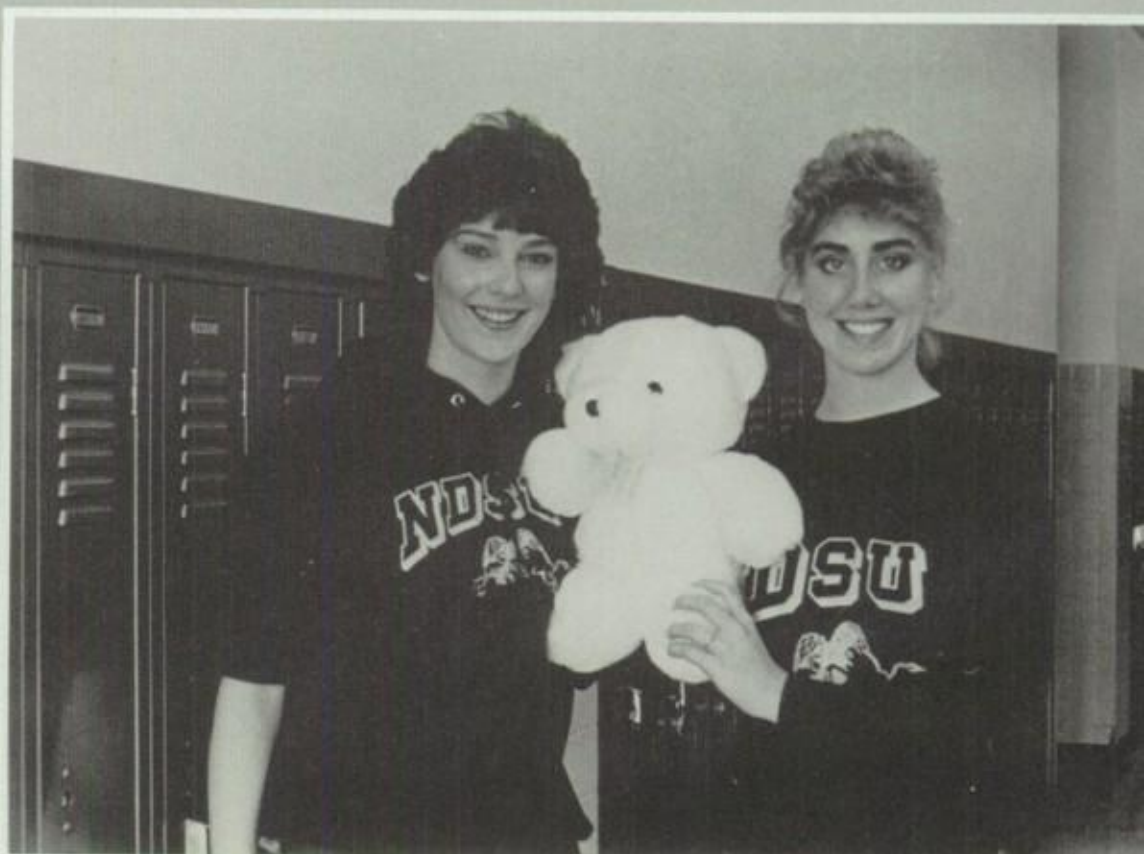

I would like to extend my warmest thanks to the fourteen staff members, Doug Eppler, Tracey Evanson, Jay Gorseger, Shelli Harsche, Lynn Helm, Nancy Hill, Lisa Lervik, Lisa Nagel, Kari Olsen, Pat Sadler, Amy Sanborn, Lori Tipton, and Ann VonBank, all of whom spent nine long months putting together this yearbook.

Special thanks are in order for Tracey and Ann who worked tirelessly on the mugs; my sister Lisa who had to put up with me as well as my odd hours; Jay who kept us all laughing, even when things were going wrong; Doug who took pictures for us, spent many hours in the darkroom processing film, and put up with all of us ordering him around at once; and Lynn who was much more than an assistant editor. She was always there when times were bad, offering encouragement and pointing out the bright side of any situation.

And finally, my thanks to our adviser, Mrs. Robinson, without whom we would have no yearbook. I give her my thanks for all the time she spent away from her family and for putting up with all the headaches that come with the publication of a yearbook.

IN MEMORY OF MARK KRAFT

1968 - 1984

*The graduating class of 1986
would like to dedicate this page in the memory of Mark Kraft, who would have graduated with them this year.*
